Clay Flying Home for Parley on Berlin Crisis

Informed Sources Are Convinced He Will Recommend 'Firm' Action

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Frankfurt, July 20.—Gen. Lucius D. Clay left for home by plane tonight for a conference on the Berlin crisis.

The United States chief in Germany has been called to Washington to "report." Clay's recommendations, of course, are closely guarded secrets, but informed quarters here are convinced he will propose "firm" action and oppose any compromise four-power conference involving indefinite postponement of the formation of Western Germany.

To representatives of major powers here this is big news. Out of Clay's meetings with top American leaders is expected to come a definite course of action leading to the end of the present dilemma. Whether it will be a firm or conciliatory course remains to be seen.

More Jets to Be Sent

[The gravity of the Berlin situation also was pointed up in the announcement that American air power in Germany will be augmented by 75 jet-propelled fighter planes. Another development was the surprise Russian announcement that they were prepared to supply all Berlin with food.—Editor's note.]

General Clay announced the trip at a press conference here today, saying the call home had come just before midnight yesterday. Ambassador Robert Murphy, his political adviser, wil laccompany him.

The American commander in Europe declared he was going to Washington "to report on the German question to the Department of the Army." Obviously, however, said high officials here, his conferences will be on the highest level, involving not only President Truman and Secretary Marshall but also representatives of GOP Nominee Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Several Possible Courses

Aside from what American officials in Germany call "unthinkable"—pulling out of Germany—Clay can recommend any of three or four courses of action. He might propose an immediate test of Soviet determination by sending an armed train or convoy through the corridor toward Berlin. He might recommend an ultimatum against the U.S.S.R. to lift the blockade. He might advocate expansion and continuation of the present air supply of Berlin plus strong pressure against Russia elsewhere than in Berlin—where only direct action is left. Or he might

Officer's Widow Now Watches Over Wounded Son

Detroit, July 20 (AP).—Twenty-three years ago a rookie cop died in his wife's arms of a bandit's bullets.

Today white-haired Mrs. Helen Kaliszewski, 46, sat again in the hush of a big city hospital, holding another rookie policeman tight as if trying to keep him from following his father in death.

The man she held this time was her son, 22-year-old Patrolman Casimer Kaliszewski, jr. He was shot down early today by unidentified assailants as he walked his beat.

He was given only a slight chance to recover, after seven blood transfusions.

Her husband, Casimer, sr., was shot in a bank holdup. He died six months before his son was born.

Draft Registration to Run From Aug. 30 to Sept. 18

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Once again the young men of America must register for military draft.

President Truman yesterday set registration days as from August 30 until September 18, with a few days off for the Labor Day holiday.

The first to register will be the oldsters—the men born between August 30, 1922, and January 1, 1923. They will register Monday, August 30.

They apparently will be the first to be called when the familiar "greetings" are sent out as selections for compulsory service begin.

Next are those born during 1923, who shall register the following day, August 31, or Wednesday, September 1.

Men born in 1924 shall register Thursday or Friday, September 2 and 3.

Men born during 1925 shall register Saturday, September 4, or Tuesday, September 7.

Men born in 1926 shall register Wednesday or Thursday, September 8 and 9.

Men born in 1927 shall register Friday, or Saturday, September 10 and 11.

Men born in 1928 shall register Monday or Tuesday, September 13 and 14.

Men born in 1929 shall register Wednesday or Thursday, September 15 and 16.

Men born between December 31, 1929, and September 19, 1930, must register Friday or Saturday, September 17 and 18.

All men born on or after September 19, 1930 must register on their eighteenth birthday or within five days thereafter.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who yesterday was sworn in as Selective Service director—a post he held during World War II—estimates that about 9,600,000 young men between 18 and 26 will be registered.

Eighteen-year-olds may escape the call for 21 months service when they reach 19 by volunteering, starting today, for 12 months service, agreeing to sign up at the end of that year with the active reserve. The law limits the number of such enlistments to 161,000.

Hershey said yesterday it is not determined yet whether the Nation will start drafting 25-year-olds at once, or use a lottery system similar to that used in the last war. Under the latter system, each eli-

Dewey Chief Hits Special Session Call

Brownell Says GOP Won't Push Platform At 'Rump' Congress

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Herbert Brownell, jr., manager of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign, yesterday called the special session of Congress convening Monday a "rump" meeting and virtually ruled out action now on the 1948 Republican platform.

Speaking "only for myself," but after consultation with Governor Dewey, Brownell told a news conference:

"The Republican platform calls for the enactment of a program by a Republican Congress under the leadership of a Republican President.

"Obviously this cannot be done at a rump session called at a political convention for political purposes in the heat of a political campaign."

Didn't See Congress Leaders

The man who will serve as Governor Dewey's spokesman on all campaign-related matters, including legislation, said he had not discussed the statement with congressional leaders but talked over the "substance" with Dewey.

He declined to elaborate on the precise wording of the statement or to say what he meant by a "rump" session.

He did say it was neither a hint to GOP leaders to cut the session short nor an indication that no special session action should be taken on some GOP pledges.

Those are matters for Republican congressional leaders to decide when they confer next week on Mr. Truman's recommendations, he said. He predicted only that they "will place the best interests of the country over and above partisanship."

To Continue 'Cooperation'

"They will continue their attitude of cooperation," he said. "If there is none, it will again be President Truman's fault."

What Brownell plainly sought to do by his statement was remove the GOP platform from the special session spot Mr. Truman tried to put it on when he called Congress back.

In his special session agenda, reeled off early Thursday morning to the Democratic convention, the President listed measure after

Steel Prices Hiked in Wake Of Pay Rise

Increases Average 9.6 Per Cent; Fairless Cites Rising Costs

New York, July 20 (AP).—Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corp., announced today an average increase in finished steel products of about 9.6 per cent for all subsidiaries of the corporation.

The new prices at mills or shipping points embrace a restoration of the average price reduction of $1.25 a ton made by the subsidiaries last April. In addition, they include an average increase of approximately $8.09 a ton, or about 9.6 per cent, in the base prices for major steel products then quoted by the subsidiaries.

[The United Press said the new price quotations are the highest in the history of the corporation. Cold rolled sheet steel—the type used in automobiles, refrigerators and stoves—was quoted at $80 a ton, up $11. Standard pipe, such as used in household plumbing, went up $10 a ton.—Editor's note.]

The new prices will be effective Wednesday.

In a statement, Fairless said:

"Last week United States Steel, in announcing a 9 per cent wage increase to the steel workers, effective July 16, stated that constantly rising costs compel its steel-producing subsidiaries to increase their prices for steel products.

"This statement pointed out that steel prices had failed to keep pace with the very substantial increases in employment costs and transportation charges and in the cost of coal, scrap and other goods and services, creating a financial situation where the subsidiaries have no alternative other than to advance steel prices . . .

"U. S. Steel greatly regrets the ever increasing cost of producing steel, resulting as it must in higher prices for steel. These present price increases are made solely to compensate U. S. Steel for increases in its cost of operation due to conditions beyond its control."

Arabs Still Waging War, Jews Charge

Egyptian, Syrian Forces Repulsed With Heavy Loss, Israeli Declare

Tel Aviv, July 20 (AP).—Israel's chiefs charged the Arabs today with continuing to wage war on the third day of Palestine's second truce.

Jewish spokesmen said the Syrians twice tried to cross the Jordan River boundary near the Sea of Galilee. The Jews said their forces repulsed the attack, inflicting heavy losses, and that Israeli planes raided Syrian troop concentrations at Banyas, just over the border in Syria.

The same sources said another Iraqi attack on a Jewish position west of Jenin in north central Palestine was repulsed. Jewish planes bombed the Iraqis in Jenin, it was reported.

Egyptian forces also were declared to have had heavy losses when they attacked the settlement of Hartia in the southern Negeb desert.

Jerusalem dispatches said no sounds of firing could be heard in that city. Jewish and Arab commanders in Jerusalem met for the second time today to agree on details of their front line positions. They are expected to sign an armistice document Wednesday.

A spokesman, referring to Cairo reports that an aerial mine had exploded in Cairo, the Egyptian capital, last night, declared: "No Israeli plane was in the vicinity of Cairo."

Cairo dispatches said two persons were killed and 17 wounded when a cinema and two department stores were blasted on one of the main thoroughfares of Cairo.

1 Miner Killed, 2d Missing in Oklahoma Blast

McCurtain, Okla., July 20 (AP).—Rescue crews searched the fire-seared Lone Star coal mine here today for Lars Vince, 54, missing after the explosion which killed a fellow worker.

Millard Hatley, 27, died of suffocation after the blast, which General Mine Superintendent Campbell Cameron said was set off by the derailment of a loaded string of coal cars on the main shaft.

Nineteen other workers walked to safety through a vertical airshaft of the slope-type mine.

Cameron said the fire still burned at the mine's mouth and "we'll let it go until we see what the chances are of finding Vince."

Stock Market Has Brisk Rally

New York, July 20.—Reversing the sharp decline of the last three trading days, the stock market staged a brisk rally today with net gains ranging from fractions to six points. Rail and oil issues started the upward movement and most other groups followed their lead.

Turnover totaled 1,460,000 shares compared with 2,560,000 on Monday.

The recovery was attributed in the main to "technical" reasons.

Auriol Seeks Multi-Party Government

French President Reported Aiming At Another Broad National Coalition

Paris, July 20 (U.P.).—President Vincent Auriol tonight was reported seeking another broad "national" coalition government to stave off a showdown fight for power between the Communists and the right-wing forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Throughout the day, Auriol conferred with the heads of all political parties. Negotiations still were in a preliminary stage and it almost certainly will be some days before a new Premier will be named to succeed Robert Schuman, whose coalition government collapsed last night.

After talking with Auriol, Henri Queuille, parliamentary leader of the Radical Socialist Party, told newsmen: "The President of the republic is seeking agreement among various parties to enable formation of a government certain of a very large Assembly majority."

Informed observers said the only government which could fill the bill would be a coalition of Socialists, Radical Socialists, Popular Republicans, Independents and some right-wingers.

Such a government, however, was almost certain to face protest strikes by a large section of labor, they said. The Communists, largest group in the Assembly, have been demanding a voice in the government for nine months and they are backed by the powerful General Confederation of Labor.

Meanwhile, the collapse of the Schuman government hurdled France over one crisis. More than 60,000 Finance Ministry workers voted to end their 13-day strike immediately, starting a general back-to-work movement among striking civil servants.

De Gaulle, in a speech last night to his Rally of the French People, left no doubt that he wants the premiership now. However, De Gaulle could not get a confidence vote from the present Assembly and there was no chance Auriol would give him the nod.

The only way open for De Gaulle would be if no Premier named by Auriol can muster enough support in the Assembly.

Candidates mentioned most were Schuman again, former Premiers Paul Reynaud and Paul Ramadier, outgoing Justice Minister Andre Murie and Finance Minister Rene Mayer.

French Air Giant Crashes on Test

Paris, July 20.—A giant four-motor cargo plane built for France's merchant air fleet by the National Aviation Industry crashed on it first test flight at Villacoublay airfield, near Paris, today, killing all five crew members.

The Cormorant, as the craft was known, had a wingspread of about 140 feet and weighed 40 tons loaded.

The French air force has ordered 20 of the same type, now on the assembly line. It is estimated that 100 planes of this size could carry a division of troops.

New Manual Adopted

Barrett Given Absolute Power To Assign and Shift Policemen

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett is given absolute authority in making assignments in a new police manual approved yesterday by the Commissioners.

The manual empowers him to transfer any man in the department, regardless of rank. Previously, such changes had to be routinely approved by the Commissioners.

This is one of 20 major changes in the new police manual, which will probably become effective in from two to three months and will replace a manual prepared in 1937 and now described as "obsolete."

The new manual was put into final shape by Assistant Corporation Counsel Daniel B. Maher after consultation with a board of police officers headed by Inspector Walter Storm.

Another important change will require all policemen to carry their badges and pistols while off duty and within the District.

This, police officials agree, will give the District better police protection.

The manual also provides for the operation and training of the new police riot squad, officially known as the civil disturbance unit.

The 125-man riot squad is under the command of Inspector Lloyd E. Kelly and was organized last January.

The manual provides that the riot squad or a portion of it may be called out at the discretion of the commanding officer of the Police Department and the commanding officer of the squad.

The riot squad is given free rein in deciding how its duties shall be accomplished.

At the scene of a civil disturbance, the manual reads, the senior official of the Police Department shall issue the necessary orders to the ranking officer of the riot squad, but officials of the department "shall not interfere with the tactical employment . . . or the plans" of the riot squad.

The new manual also:

Establishes the boundaries of the new Fourteenth Precinct and adjusts those of the Eleventh Precinct from which the Fourteenth was carved.

Requires policemen to have telephones in their homes.

Permits policemen to smoke on duty from midnight until 8 a. m. instead of from midnight to only 6 a. m.

Allows members of the force to join any military reserve group except the National Guard.

Sets up stricter procedure for the service of warrants, stipulating that when an officer is unable to

Soviet-Linked Spies Roaming U. S., State Officials Declare

Post Reporter

State Department spokesmen have informed Congress that "several hundred" Moscow-linked spies are roaming the United States on credentials from the United Nations or one of the 17 or 18 other international organizations.

Under present agreements, the spokesmen told a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, the United States is virtually powerless either to halt the entry of such known subversives or to deport them after they get here.

One of the most serious problems, according to Robert U. Alexander, assistant chief of the State Department's visas commission, is the fact that this country can't get rid of many of these persons.

If the country from which they came will not take them back, as has happened, the United States is stuck with them.

UNRRA Blamed

The greatest offender to date in this respect was the old UNRRA organization, Alexander explained. Many undesirables who came in under UNRRA are still here "and you can't send them back," Alexander said.

At Lake Success, N. Y., United Nations spokesmen expressed surprise at the charges and authorized a statement that no complaints have been received there from the State Department.

The U. S. delegation at the United Nations likewise appeared surprised and has asked for further information from the State Department.

The State Department complained of the activities both of the official Soviet and Soviet-satellite delegations and of the employes of U. N. and other affiliated organizations.

Harlow Hits Groups

William Harlow, chief of the Department's diplomatic visa section, lashed out yesterday at the members of the official delegations.

"Every representative of an Iron Curtain country," Harlow insisted, "is a threat to the security of the United States." He added they were here to spread propaganda against this Nation.

In other testimony Alexander said that in discussing the subversive agents who had entered the country he was talking of three categories:

1. Certain U. N. employes, including clerks, translators, experts of various kinds and advisers.

2. Foreign press, radio, film and other information representatives.

3. Individuals invited by the U. N. to its headquarters site.

Must Publicize Proof

"What I am talking about," he said, "is a person who uses the United Nations as a front, or a cover, or a blind for carrying on subversive activities against this country and where we have to go and spread on the record all of the proof in order to stop it."

Alexander told the committee that under the agreement concerning the headquarters site of the United Nations as authorized by

Tito's Party Gathers for Meeting Today

Marshal Is Expected To Make First Speech Since Cominform Blast

Belgrade, July 20 (U.P.).—Hundreds of bronzed young Communists, wearing Marshal Tito's Partisan emblem, swarmed through the streets today as special trains brought in delegations to the fifth Communist Party Congress, which opens Wednesday.

For the first time in local Communist history there will be no foreign delegations.

Public interest is at a fever pitch. Principal topic of conversation is, "What will Tito say?" It is fairly certain the Yugoslav Premier will choose this congress for his first public utterance since the Communist Information Bureau charged he had strayed from the Marxist line.

Belgrade has blossomed with decorations for the congress. Public buildings, city squares and every sizable private house flew giant Red banners, national flags and huge portraits of Russia's Premier Josef Stalin, Tito and other Communist leaders.

Never before has there been so much mention of the Soviet Union, despite the fact that the Soviet Communist Party led the attack on Tito and the Yugoslav party last month.

State buildings and institutions were crowned with hammer and sickle symbols and plastered with such slogans as: "Long live the Communist Party of Yugoslavia;" "Long live the U. S. S. R., defender of world pegce and democracy and long live the genius leader of progressive mankind, Comrade Stalin;" "Long live Comrade Tito, leader of our people's struggle for independence and a better life—there's no difficulty we cannot overcome when led by our Communist Party and Tito."

Chest Budget Group Proposes 97% Boost in Hospital Aid

The Community Chest Federation budget committee yesterday proposed a plan that would put area hospitals in the black.

A recommendation that Federation funds allocated to hospitals be increased by 97 per cent will go before the Federation executive committee tomorrow. Favorable action by the committee will make a record total of $1,080,000 available to 14 area hospitals next year providing the fall Community Chest Federation drive for funds is successful.

The money will pay for the treatment of indigent patients who do not qualify for public assistance.

James G. Capossela, vice president of the Hospital Council and superintendent of Emergency Hospital, said that if the money is approved the council will give up plans for a separate hospital drive.

Last year area hospitals ran up an $820,000 deficit and currently are running toward an estimated $1,381,000 shortage.

Capossela said that the increase will give hospitals "just about what they need next year." Payments from Group Hospitalization and District funds for the care of public charges already have been increased.

Under the recommended plan $850,000 will be raised in the Community Chest Federation campaign. The remaining $230,000 to make up the $1,080,000 will be recovered by the Hospital Service Agency from persons able to re-

12 Leaders Are Indicted; U. S. Starts Roundup

General Secretary Dennis in Custody; Daily Worker Editor Is Sought

By John Chabot Smith

New York, July 20 (NYHT). The FBI began a roundup of 12 top-ranking Communist leaders tonight with the arrest of William Z. Foster, national chairman, and at least six others.

Foster and five others arrested in New York were held in $5000 bail by Judge Vincent L. Leibell in United States District Court for hearing August 23.

They were indicted under the Alien Registration Act of 1940, charged with advocating the violent overthrow of the Government. The act carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and 10 years in jail.

Sealed Indictments

The arrests were made after sealed indictments in 15 envelopes were handed to Judge Leibell by a special blue-ribbon Federal grand jury after a 13-month investigation of Communist activities.

At the arraignment it was revealed that one general indictment covered 12 names.

Those arrested under this indictment, in addition to Foster, were:

Benjamin J. Davis, jr., Communist member of the City Council for Manhattan.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party.

John B. Williamson, national party labor secretary.

Henry Winston, national party organizing secretary.

Jacob Stachel, national party education director.

Carl Winters, chairman of the Michigan State council.

Visit Party Headquarters

Winters was arrested in Detroit, and all the others except Davis were arrested by FBI agents at their offices in the party's national headquarters between 5:30 and 5:45 p. m.

Judge Leibell waited at the court for the arraignment of the New York defendants, then retired to his chambers to wait for them to produce bail. The defendants remained in the custody of the United States marshals in the court building.

The Alien Registration Act of 1940 has been applied successfully against members of the Socialist Workers' Party (Trotskyites) but has not previously been used against the Communists.

In their recent propaganda the Communists have denied that they advocate violent revolution, and the Supreme Court never has decided this point.

Williamson, national labor secretary of the party, was arrested for deportation last February as a native of Scotland. He joined Gerhart Eisler, Ferdinand C. Smith and Charles A. Boyle in a six-day hunger strike on Ellis

Baltimore Radio Stations Cited For Contempt in James Case

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Five Baltimore radio stations and a news commentator yesterday were cited for contempt of court for broadcasts involving the knife slaying of Carol Bardwell and Marsha Brill.

The citations, by the Baltimore Supreme bench, are based on a Baltimore court rule in effect since 1939 which restricts the reporting of crime news and photographs of criminal defendants.

Recent proposals that these restrictions be extended throughout the State have been vigorously opposed by Prince Georges and Montgomery County press associations and other groups.

Named in the contempt citations and given until August 16 to answer them were:

The Maryland Broadcasting Co., owners and operators of radio station WITH.

James P. Connolly, news editor of WITH.

Hearst Radio, Inc., owners and operators of station WBAL.

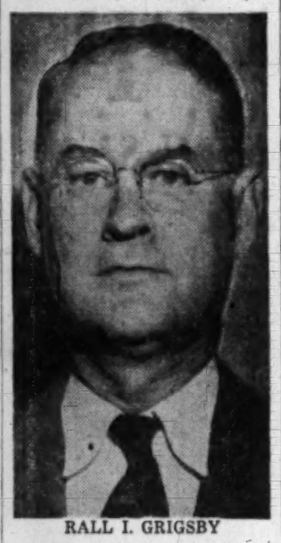
Rall Grigsby, Education Chief Pro Tem, Boasts an Athletic and Itinerant Past

The man who brought psychological service into the schools of Des Moines, Iowa, was named yesterday to be acting United States Commissioner of Education.

* * * * * *

He is Rall Illingsworth Grigsby, 6 foot and 50 years, of 4726 24th rd., North Arlington, Va., who has been special assistant to the commissioner since 1941. His appointment to take over the duties of Commissioner John W. Studebaker, resigned, was announced yesterday by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing.

The athletic-looking educator thus became a leading contender for White House appointment to fill the vacancy caused by Studebaker's resignation, July 15. Studebaker said he could not afford to continue Government work at $10,000 a year.



RALL I. GRIGSBY
Acting Education Chief

Hoosier by Birth

Grigsby was born at Greencastle, Ind., November 22, 1897, the son of a Methodist minister. He did not remain a Hoosier long, for his family moved to western Nebraska before he was 3 years old. It was the first of a series of moves to mid-West towns.

"Dad, retired now, was a minister, and in his church that's sort of a roving assignment," explained the educator.

With no apologies for his given names, the new appointee said they were surnames of close friends of his parents. His own early education in so many schools in so many towns probably gave him experience for the specialty he was later to follow, school curricula.

He went to Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa, leaving there in 1918 with a bachelor of arts degree, four letters for baseball, football, basketball, and track, and the love of a Miss Irene Flanigan, student, whom he married two years later.

Collegiate Romance

"It was a typical college romance," he said, meaning, of course, typical of the year 1918.

Armed with his A. B., he began teaching English at Oskaloosa High School, Iowa, in 1919, a short-term position that ended the next year when he became superintendent of schools in Grattinger, Iowa. He moved about on his own almost as much as when his father was changing charges.

From Grattinger he went to Harvey, Thornton township, Illinois, to coach the athletic teams and be director of physical education. Harvey teams, reminisced its former coach, were playing bigger schools and didn't shine too brightly. Grigsby went to Newtrier township in the State and taught high school political science and history.

For 10 years, beginning in 1929, he served as assistant superintendent of schools in Des Moines, after a six-year stretch there as secondary school principal. It was during this latter service that he combined school visiting teacher service with the office of school psychologist and instituted special classes for the physically and mentally handicapped students.

Adopted by Cities

"The system is used in many of the larger cities today," he said.

Grigsby came to Washington in 1939 in curriculum service for the U. S. Office of Education, and was made special assistant two years later "in the rush of the war."

Still keeping his weight down to that late college 185 pounds, he admits to an overfondness for outdoor activities, tennis, swimming, hiking, fishi g and "gardening." The years have left his brown hair more or less intact, but have added bifocal glasses to his everyday accessories.

The Grigsbys have three grown daughters now: Miss Constance, a group activities director at Central YWCA, New York; Mrs. Marianne (David) Monroe of New York, and Mrs. Roberta (Dean) Keith of 2316 26th st., Arna Valley, Arlington, Va.

Truman Held Bound to Tell All on Berlin

President Truman is under n obligation to give the American people a full explanation of the grave Berlin crisis in his special-session message to Congress Monday, House Foreign Affairs Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) said yesterday.

The white-thatched veteran, one of the mainstays of the bipartisan foreign policy, declared that the Berlin crisis is "the supreme issue facing not only this country but the entire world."

"All the little twaddle about domestic issues and the nine great challenges to the Republican Party fades into insignificance compared to the international situation," Eaton told a news conference yesterday.

Warns Not to Play Flyspecks

Turning to musicians' terms, Eaton declared that if the President fails to report to the people on the extremely serious situation of this Nation's relations with Russia, he "will be playing the flyspecks instead of the notes."

Asked about his own attitude toward the Berlin situation, Eaton replied emphatically:

"I am an American. We are in there. We have a right to be in Berlin and we're going to stay there."

The Foreign Affairs chairman disclosed that already, in preparation for the reassembling of Congress, he has asked the State Department to prepare a full statement of all the facts—"written and unwritten"—concerning Berlin for the information of the committee.

It was logical to assume, he added, that the committee will invite Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, to appear before the committee in executive session. Of course, he added, Clay can only do so with the permission of the State Department.

Eaton warned that the Berlin blockade situation may grow darker when cold weather comes and American planes will no longer be able to supply the American sector in Berlin with fuel by air.

Then, he said, it will be up to the United States to make up its mind whether or not to push ahead with supplies by means of surface transportation which the Russians have halted.

Sees Showdown by Winter

If the crisis does not come before then, he indicated, the showdown at that time will be virtually inevitable.

Whether there will be war in the near future, Eaton asserted, depends entirely upon whether the Russians "want to go the whole distance and eventually destroy what is left of civilization."

Mankind now is confronted with the most fundamental issue in its history, Eaton declared.

"This is a world conflict between Christ and the devil, between freedom and slavery," he said.

Slave Labor Probe Barred

Geneva, Switzerland, July 20 (U.P.).—The United Nations Economic and Social Council today rejected a United States proposal to investigate slave labor in member nations of the United Nations.

The council decided not to consider the resolution submitted by the American Federation of Labor, after both British and Soviet-bloc delegates had supported the idea of the investigation. France led the opposition.

Russian Delegate A. A. Arutiunian urged the whole question of slave labor be debated. He said such a discussion would "unmask the initiators of the resolution—the American Federation of Labor, which is trying to split the working class in the United States and abroad."

Oscar Lange of Communist-dominated Poland suggested the AFL could find "many interesting aspects of this problem in colonial countries and its own country."

Hector McNeil of Britain told the council that "any good member of the United Nations" would welcome an investigation of slavery.

Pierre Mendes, French delegate, said such debates were a hindrance to the prestige of the United Nations, and urged the subject be dropped lest millions of people who have pinned their hopes on the United Nations "fall into despair."

British Envoy to Cite American War Heroes

Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador to the United States, today will officially present citations from King George VI to 65 American military leaders and war heroes. Ceremonies will be held at the British Embassy at 4:15 p. m.

Thirty-nine of the recipients live or are stationed in the Washington Area.

U. S. Sending 75 More Jets To Germany

London, July 20 (AP).—The United States is sending 75 more Shooting Star jet fighting planes by carrier to reinforce its aerial strength in troubled Germany, American officials d isclosed today.

The planes will arrive aboard the 12,000-ton escort carrier Sicily at Glasgow August 4, following closely 16 other jets which flew the Atlantic and 60 Superfortress bombers which are at RAF bases in England on a training schedule.

The shipment will consist of the entire thirty-sixth Fighter Group, formerly based in the Panama Canal Zone and with it will come its 78 officers and 300 enlisted men.

A United States Air Force spokesman in Germany said the group will be stationed in Germany permanently, probably at the big bomber-fighter base at Fuerstenfeld, near Munich, from which Superforts operate on training flights.

David Nes, acting American consul general at Glasgow, said 50 of the jets will reach British shores in "fly off" condition. But the others will have to be assembled after they are landed from the Sicity. Spokesman at Wiesbaden said "we are happy to have them."

The 16 Shooting Stars en route from Seleridge Field, Mich., arrived at Stornaway, Scotland, tonight, completing the first West-to-East crossing of the Atlantic by jet-propelled planes. They are expected to reach Germany by the end of this week.

Nes said the t ransfer of the jets had been planned several months ago.

The Superforts were marking time today at the RAF fields at Scampton, Marham and Addington.

Col. Stanley Wray, the commander, said the 1 400 crewmen and mechanics are awaiting orders.

Truman Presents Special Scroll To Negro General

By the United Press

Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, the Army's only Negro general, yesterday received President Truman's personal congratulations on his "most remarkable career."

Davis retired this month after 50 years' service.

Mr. Truman, flanked by Defense Secretary James Forrestal and Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall, handed Davis a special scroll commemorating his service to the country. The document was signed by Mr. Truman, Royall and the Chiefs of Staffs.

The President recalled that when Davis first entered the Army during the Spanish-American War there were only five Negro officers.

Today, he said, there are more than 1000—"the highest proportion in the history of the Army, even higher than during the war."

Davis entered the Army in 1898 with a temporary rank of first lieutenant. He was mustered out the next year, but reenlisted as a cavalry private and worked up to his first Regular Army commission in 1901.

Gen. Clay Flying Here for Conference

go along with suggestions that a four-power conference be called to settle the issues.

Informed pjersons in Germany now question whether Clay would actively back either of the first two lines of action—which are really the same. They would require that the United States and other Western powers first make up their minds whether they are willing to go to war if such a course falls.

The latter two alternatives are more likely. There is strong opinion among American officials in Germany, however, that agreeing to another German conference with Russia would be more than futile. It would be playing along with Soviet efforts to delay the build-up of western Europe. For the Russians would surely insist that the price of the conference and the lifting of the blockade would be indefinite postponement of plans for the formation of a western German government.

Soviet Food Offer Called Propaganda

Berlin, July 20 (AP).—Allied spokesmen tonight labeled as "propaganda" the announcement that the Russians were prepared to supply food to all Berlin.

The Russian promise to supply food to western Berliners was not put into practice today. The Russians said they would help feed all the city's residents, including two million in the western sectors, with the aid of 100,000 tons of bread and grain to be shipped from the Soviet Union.

Shoppers who ventured into the Soviet sector of Berlin to make purchases of rationed foods were sent back empty-handed by storekeepers who refused to honor their coupons.

The Russians announcement said the Soviet-supplied food would be sold only for eastern-zone currency.

The announcement was timed to coincide with a statement by the western allies that they would be unable, because of the blockade, to deliver proposed increases in food ration scales for their sectors of the city.

American cargo planes meanwhile delivered a new record load of supplies to the city. The United States Air Force announced that 282 planes brought in 1601 tons of food and other supplies in a 24-hour period.

The tonnage included 17 tons of steel matting for a new runway being constructed at Tempelhof Airport. Completion of the runway, expected in five weeks, will enable the Americans to bring many more planes into the crowded airfield.

Weather has been such that more than 6500 of the 18,000 flying hours accumulated by American pilots since the airlift began have been under instrument conditions.

Maj. Gen. William E. Hall, air adviser to the United States military governor, made a "rough estimate" that flying food and fuel to Berlin already has cost about $1,500,000 for only the technical side of the operation—gas, oil and spare parts. The estimate did not include labor costs for thousands of German workers on the ground.

The RAF, too, kept up a fast pace in the finest flying weather in weeks. Approximately 850 tons of supplies were landed at Gatow airfield by 202 British planes in 24 hours.

The Russians meanwhile tightened their land blockade. They clamped the Autobahn shut to westbound American vehicles from Berlin today. The first nine American vehicles attempting to reach Helmstedt in the British zone were turned back by Russian guards at their checkpoint. The reason given was that the Americans did not have Russian visas.

British authorities sent a "very strong protest" to the Soviet military administration against the flight of a formation of Russian yak fighters over Gatow Airport yesterday. An offical British statement said the fighter flight was "a direct violation of the air safety regulations for the Greater Berlin area."

The Soviet fighters flew over the airport, which is in almost constant use by RAF transport planes flying food and supplies into Berline at a height of 1500 feet.

Teichert to Speak

Czechs Report Martial Law

Frankfurt, Germany, July 20 (U.P.).—Czechoslovak army officers who escaped to Germany within the past 10 days reported today that military control has been extended to large regions of Slovakia and the Bohemian frontier area.

The officers, most of whom said they fled to escape the third major purge of "unreliable army elements," reported that a strict all-night curfew has been established in strategic areas of Slovakia.

Entire towns have been evacuated in the Sudeten district of Bohemia, where uranium fields reportedly are being worked, they said.

The United States Army, meanwhile, officially recognized the presence in Germany of the highest Czechoslovak officers. Headquarters arranged a press conference at Heidelberg Wednesday with Gen. Antonin Bohumil Hasal, military adviser to former President Eduard Benes.

Officers who just arrived here from Czechoslovakia said the curfew order in Slovakia was issued on May 26. It provides that none may appear in public between 11 p. m. and 5 a. m. without a special pass and that each household must keep a list of all house occupants posted on the front door at all times.

Eire May Withdraw Its U. N. Application

Dublin, July 20 (AP).—Eire may decide to withdraw its application for membership in the United Nations, Foreign Minister Sean McBride said tonight.

"The United Nations organization has not provided a solution for the world's problems," he told the Dail (Parliament).

Arms Reported Britain Bound

Salina, Kans., July 20 (AP).—A heavy rail movement of Army equipment from Camp Phillips to the East Coast for England appeared to be under way today but a cloak of silence was drawn about the operation.

It was understood through a source considered reliable that 240 flatcars were loaded with gun carriages, vehicles, ambulances and command cars.

Thirty-five of 80 boxcars, reported on tracks at the camp, also were reported to be loaded and ready for movement. The boxcars, it was understood, were to be filled with military supplies such as blankets, uniforms and the like.

The shipment was reported to have been designated for Liverpool, England.

The source said it was his understanding the movement was under the direction of authorities at the Smoky Hill Field, a B-29 bomber base.

In Washington, Army officials commented that while there were normal shipments of replacement equipment for occupation forces in Europe, the amount involved in this instance appeared too large for such consignments.

Air Force spokesman said the material was not Air Force equipment.

Jap Bomb Hurler Called Leader of Anti-Red League

Tokyo, July 20 (NYHT).—The assailant who tried to kill Kyuichi Tokuda, chief of the Japanese Communist Party with a homemade bomb last night, was identified today by police as Ichiro Koga, 28, a coal miner, and a leader of the new War Veterans League, formed to fight the Communists.

Koga surrendered to police within an hour after he had thrown a beer bottle filled with explosive at Tokuda while the latter was addressing 2500 followers at a rally.

The Communist Party executive committee issued a statement today demanding that Premier Hitoshi Ashida's cabinet take full responsibility for the attempted assassination and resign.

Drunk Worker Voting In NLRB Poll Charged

An employer yesterday challenged a National Labor Relations Board bargaining election as illegal, complaining that a woman agent of the NLRB let an intoxicated worker vote.

The employer, Craddock-Terry Shoe Corp., Lynchburg, Va., in a petition to the board cited the incident as one of several why the NLRB should set aside the election, won by a narrow margin by the CIO Shoe Workers Union on July 1.

France Proposes Europe Assembly

For West Reich

German Plan Rejected by Three Allies

Frankfurt, Germany, July 20 (AP).—The American, British and French military governors rejected tonight a German plan for a new administration of western Germany.

The Germans were told to revise their proposals and come back later—probably next Monday.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, said some parts of the German plan would violate the six-nation agreement in London, which authorized creation of a new government in western Germany. A few suggestions, however, were accepted.

The Germans had demanded representation abroad in matters affecting foreign trade. They also had made counter-proposals to avoid calling the administration a "west German state" or "west German government."

The allied leaders reportedly told the Germans they would have to take more responsibility in the creation of the new government despite fears of being charged with splitting Germany.

The strong stand of the governors appeared to be a victory for General Clay over French hesitancy. The French were reported to have slowed the negotiations by voicing fears that the Germans would get too much power. The French feel a resurgent Germany would be a threat to the security of France.

There were fears in American quarters that the fall of the Schuman government yesterday would slow the building of a west German government even more, but Clay said the French had not asked for any delay.

Clay conferred yesterday with the French commander, Gen. Pierre Koenig, and British Gen. Sir Brian Robertson. He said before today's session that all three "are in complete agreement about today's meeting."

The German leaders will meet at Ruedesheim, near Wiesbaden, Wednesday to revise their original counter-proposals.

By Walter Kerr

The Hague, July 20 (NYHT).—The French delegation to the consultative council of the five western union states today made two of the most far-reaching proposals heard in a long time at an international conference.

It asked first for the creation of an all-European assembly, made up of delegates from the various national parliaments, and it followed with a call for full economic union of the five western union countries or any combination of them.

This was a double bid for steps to be taken leading toward the federation of Europe politically and economically, for on both subjects the French envisaged the ultimate admission of all European nations.

It was a challenging program, presented by Georges Bidault, the French foreign minister, and even though the proposals were coolly received by the British, Dutch, Belgian and Luxembourg representatives, they started serious discussion.

In the end, the other states followed the lead of Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary, who registered a considerable amount of hostility, but Bidault won the promise that his ideas would be considered and talked of again at the next conference of the council, possibly in October.

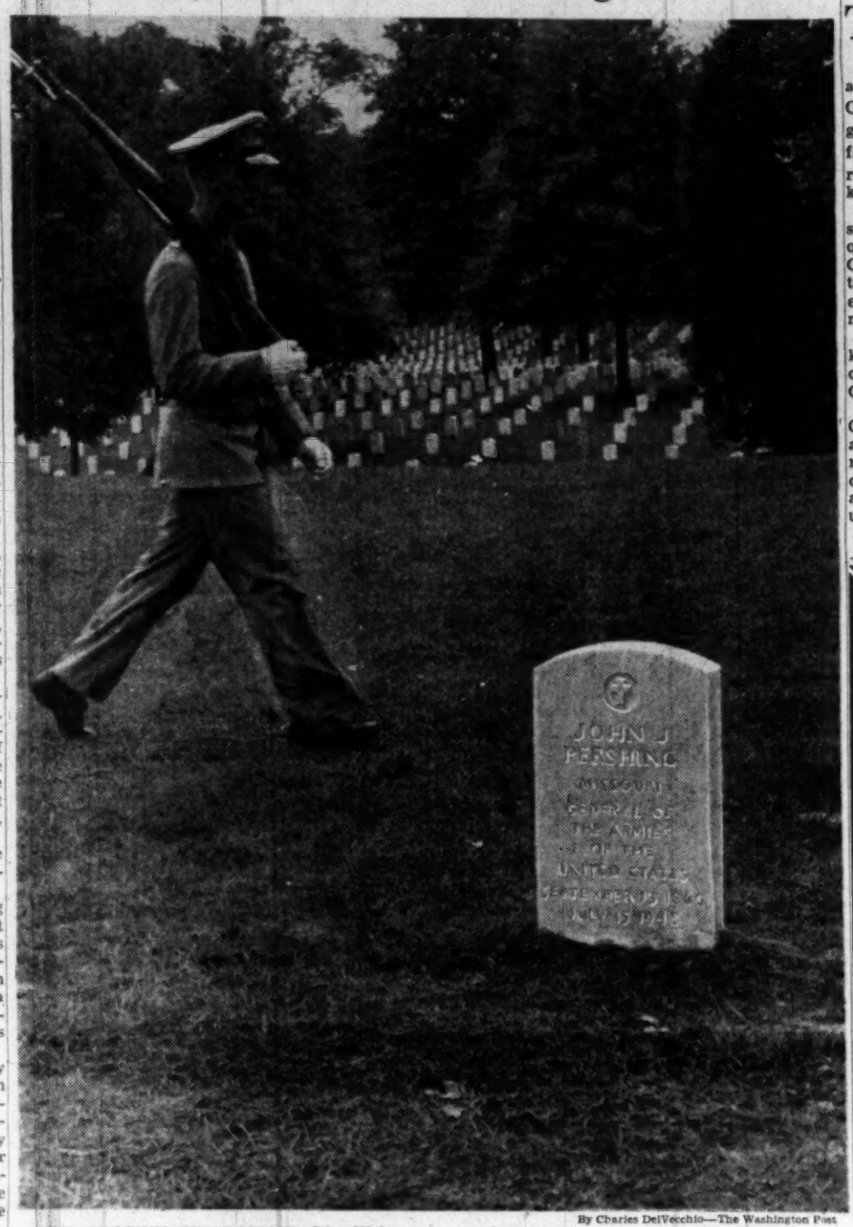
After this discussion, the five powers ended their two-day conference.

On the military level, nothing leaked from the secret talks that have taken place here but sources say the only thing new is the decision announced in Washington that the United States and Canada will send representatives to participate in the work of the union's permanent military committee.

Politically—and this means only the worsening situation in Berlin—it is said that Bevin came forward with some sort of a suggestion yesterday that he thinks may lead to a solution. He spoke for some time, pointing out the impossibility of talking now with the Russians and concluding with the observation that talks were necessary.

It is believed he opposed a new session of the Council of Foreign Ministers, but mentioned the desirability of a full German peace conference—with everyone taking part.

Lone Sentry Guards Gen. Pershing's Grave



By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

JUST ANOTHER HEADSTONE—Pfc. Walter Kotlinski is shown patroling the grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing in Arlington Cemetery. In keeping with custom with regard to famous men buried in Arlington, the guard is being maintained for 72 hours. It will end at sunset Thursday. The simple gravestone of Vermont marble is the standard regulation type provided by the Government for officers and enlisted men alike. It is 4 inches thick, 42 inches long and 13½ inches wide, with 21 inches above ground. It may be replaced at any time by a Government commemorative monument, or by one provided by next of kin. There are no indications of either one as yet. Flags will fly at half staff for 30 days

14 Die in Greek Train Ambush

Athens, July 20 (U.P.).—Guerillas ambushed a train in northeastern Greece today, killing 14 passengers and wounding 10 before relief forces arrived, Athens newspapers reported. Three guerillas were killed.

The train attack was the most serious of a wave of raids throughout Greece, ordered by guerilla Gen. Markos Vafiades in an effort to ease the pressure of the government offensive in the northern mountains.

Eight persons were reported killed and 30 injured in other clashes in central and southern Greece last night and today.

The train,en route from Salonika, Greece, to Istanbul, Turkey, was attacked near Xanthe, 115 miles northeast of Salonika. The bandits succeeded in halting the train, armed passengers kept them out until reinforcements arrived.

Elsewhere in Greece raids were reported on the central Greek town of Karditsa and on four villages in the Karditsa-Lamia area, at Kozane, in northwestern Greece, and at Kalamai in the south Greek Peloponnesus.

An airfield near Kozane was raided last night.

At Kalamai, bandits attacked a bus, robbing and stripping the passengers but sparing their lives.

Red-Socialist Split Nearer

Rome, July 20 (AP).—The breakup of the Communist-Socialist Popular Front came a step nearer tonight.

The executive committee of the Italian Socialist Party, which voted at its recent Genoa conference to water down its alliance with the Communists, formally disassociated tiself from a Popular Front statement attacking Premier Alcide de Gasperi's government for alleged "reprisals" after last week's general strike.

The Socialists sent no representatives to the front meeting which pregared the statement, and said Rodolfo Morandi, a pro-Communist Socialist who did attend, "represented only himself."

At the same time Christian Democrat Workers Unions of the Italian Catholic Workers Association met under their secretary, Ferdinando Storchi, to discuss their probable secession from the seven-million-member Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor.

Palmiro Togliatti, Communist chieftain, was much improved from the three wounds he received at the hands of a would-be assassin last week. His doctors said he probably would be allowed to get up from his bed for a short time Wednesday.

Island before the four were released on bail March 8. The Justice Department stated then that he had been active in the party since he was 15, and was outranked only by Foster, Dennis and Stachel. Williamson, about 45, came to this country in 1913.

Awaiting Hearing

Stachel, who is also awaiting deportation hearings under bond, was born in Austrian Galicia, now a part of the Soviet Union, according to the Justice Department. The department said he was 49, came to this country in 1911, and joined the Communist Party in 1923. He has been education director of the party for two years.

Winston, 37, is national organizing secretary. Born in Hattiesburg, Miss., according to the party publicity, he joined the Young Communist League at the age of 20.

Foster, 67, succeeded Earl Browder as leader of the party when a shift in the party line led to Browder's dismissal in July 1945. Three times candidate for President, he has been a vigorous labor leader all his life. He has been a strike leader at various times in the International Workers of the World, the AFL, the CIO and independent unions. He is a prolific pamphleteer and author of six books.

Dennis, 43, came to power with Foster in 1945. At that time he advocated formation of a third party, and is believed largely responsible for the Communists' decision to support Henry A. Wallace this year. Convicted of contempt of Congress for refusing to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee, he has appealed his sentence of $1000 fine and one year in jail. He has worked as a teamster, carpenter, lumberjack and longshoreman, and the FBI credits him with eight aliases.

Davis, a member of the Communist Party since 1924, was elected to the city council in 1943 and indorsed by Tammany Hall for re-election in 1945. He is a member of the national board of the party and chairman of the legislative committee. A graduate of Amherst College and Harvard Law School, he came here from his home in Atlanta in 1935.

Carl Winter is a member of the party's national board and chairman of its Michigan State committee. He has been active in the party more than 20 years.

Congress in Public Law 357 the United States reserved the right to deny entry to any who would sabotage the security of the United States.

This has not worked out well, he told the subcommittee, for several reasons. The first is that in order to make a case before the United Nations this country would have to disclose confidential sources of intelligence which it cannot afford to do. And without a case, the United Nations insists upon the right of entry of challenged persons.

Alexander said also there has been "a wide range of opinion" as to how far the law allows this country to go in expelling or refusing entry to persons coming in connection with the United Nations.

Harlow disclosed there had been a stiff behind-the-scenes battle within the State Department over invoking the United States reservation.

His visas section, he said, had urged that entry be denied "known subversives" but the United Nations Activities Division of the department, he said, had overruled that idea and won its way.

Visas Are Limited

The visa section does, he said, grant limited visas to U. N. personnel suspected of being subversive agents. These forbid the holder to go outside the immediate vicinity of U. N. headquarters in New York.

In practice, Harlow explained, this limited visa is impossible to enforce, because it would cost millions to shadow all the suspects.

Alexander suggested that Congress should insist the United Nations agree to assume responsibility for the activities of any of its employes "outside the scope of their regular duties," and that countries asking special visas for U. N. or other international organizations should be required to agree in advance to take their nationals back.

Both he and Harlow told the subcommittee that so long as the headquarters of the United Nations are in the United States the problem will be very complicated.

At Lake Success, Benjamin Cohen, assistant U. N. secretary general in charge of the Department of Public Information, stressed the small number of persons from Soviet and satellite nations on the staff.

It was disclosed that 111 of the 2944 members of the U. N. secretariat are from eastern Europe, 31 of them from Russia and 3 from Soviet Ukraine, Poland has 39, Yugoslavia 7, Byelorussia 28, Bulgaria 2, Hungary 1. Fifteen of the 176 correspondents accredited to foreign publications, including some United tSates citizens, work for Communist papers or agencies.

Testimony of Alexander and Harlow was supplemented by that of C. Clyde Larkin, chief of the State Department's public safety and security division.

He agreed that hundreds of agents were loose in the United States and he said they were moving about freely "trying to collect intelligence data which will be of benefit to their own country, whomever they may be serving, as well as for the enlightenment of various groups in this country."

Senator Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.), subcommittee chairman, said from his Charleston, W. Va., home last night that the special session of Congress could, and probably would, pass the Mundt-Nixon bill to control Communists; and amend it to take care of the situation as regards the entry of foreign agents.

Not one should be admitted to the United States, he said.

18-Year-Olds May Start Volunteering

By Robert P. Jordan
Post Reporter

On a "first come, first served" basis, armed forces recruiting stations for Greater Washington today will begin enlisting 18-year-old volunteers under the Draft Act.

Only 120 area volunteers will be accepted by the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps during the period from today through August 31. A breakdown of local quotas, which are prorated on national enlistments, follows:

Army, 87; Air Force, 10; Navy, 19; Marine Corps, 4.

All services will establish waiting lists, because of their small quotas. The Army and Air Force, however, will limit its application list to one and a half times its authorized quota—or 146 applications. Army and Air Force lists will be destroyed every 30 days, and a new one begun.

Commanding officers at all recruiting stations here pointed out that proof of age by birth certificate or statement from the State registrar of vital statistics is necessary.

While the Navy and Marines will probably fill their month's quota today, Army and Air Force recruiters will spread their quotas out over the period. Of their combined total of 97 volunteers, they will accept 24 men from today through July 31, another 25 from August 1 through August 11, 25 from August 12 through 21, and 23 from August 22 through the end of the month.

Seventh of the 87 Army recruits may be colored, the Army disclosed yesterday. The Air Force, limited to 10 volunteers, will take one colored 18-year-old. Navy and Marine Corps 1-year enlistments are open to all applicants equally.

Army Plans Speedy Action

Eighteen-year-olds who sign up in the Army today can be on their way to Fort Dix, N. J., the assignment station for all ground force recruits from Greater Washington, within a matter of hours. If everything is in order, the Army and Air Force recruiting station at 403 10th st. nw. can process an applicant within 24 hours.

From Fort Dix, the volunteers will be transferred to other posts throughout the Nation. Fort Meade, Md., will receive 1000 18-year-olds into a group of the famed Third Cavalry, it was learned.

Air Force enlistees will be sent to Lackland Air Base, San Antonio, Tex.

The Army and Air Force, who have pooled their recruiting facilities, will also accept applications at the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring and Hyattsville, Rockville postoffice and the Alexandria postoffice.

Volunteers for Navy

Men who volunteer for a year with the Navy will be sent directly from the Navy Recruiting Station at 14th and Pennsylvania ave. nw. to the Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Training Station. Two days is normal time for processing Navy applicants.

Volunteers for Navy duty may also apply at main postoffice buildings in Arlington, Alexandria and Hyattsville.

The Marine Recruiting Station, also at 14th and Pennsylvania, will send its volunteers to Paris Island, S. C., for recruit training.

Under the provisions of the draft law, no 18-year-old can be based at installations outside the continental United States. Navy and Marine Corps 1-year men may take cruises outside the continental limits, however. All 1-year men are subject to a 6-year tour in the organized reserve following their year of active duty.

BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

Medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children and adults are victims of Pin-Worms.

Watch for the warning signs, especially the embarrassing, nagging rectal itch. After centuries of Pin-Worm distress a really effective way to deal with them has been established through JAYNE'S P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets give satisfaction or your money back. So why take chances on Pin-Worms! If you suspect this ugly infection, ask your druggist for P-W and follow the directions.

Egypt Gives Word

American's Slayers Face Punishment

STEPHEN HAAS
Victim of Egyptian Mob

The United States was assured by the Egyptian government yesterday that it will punish the persons responsible for the fatal stoning of an American tourist in the streets of Cairo.

It was understood the Egyptian government and Cairo police tentatively have laid the blame on "three drunken persons."

The victim was Stephen Haas, a 53-year-old Philadelphia realtor, who, with his wife, Kathryn, was on a five-month tour of the Mediterranean.

The State Department said they were walking in a downtown section of Cairo when they were set upon by a howling mob. Haas was stoned to death. His wife was "roughed up" but not seriously injured.

A department spokesman said a wave of anti-Americanism has been sweeping the Near East since the United States recognized Israel, chief enemy of the Arab world.

50 Melody Maids To Sing Today at Mt. Alto, Rotary

The Melody Maids of Beaumont, Tex., are scheduled to twice favor Washington today with their singing charms.

Comprising 50 girl singers touring under auspices of Veteran's Hospital Programs, they are siated for a guest apperance at a Rotary Club meeting at the Hotel Mayflower, at noon. At 3 p. m, they will entertain hospitalized war veterans at Mount Alto Veterans' Administration Hospital, 2650 Wisconsin ave. nw.

The group, under the direction of Mrs. Eloise Milam of Beaumont, previously performed for veterans in New Orleans. From Washington they will go to New York and thence to Chicago in similar duties for the nonprofit organization which is supported by the Protestant churches of America.

gible man would be given a serial number on registering and the order of his induction would be determined by a drawing.

Exemptions From Registration

No men within the age limits are exempted from registration except armed forces personnel, the Coast Guard, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Public Health Service, West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen, cadets of the Coast Guard and Public Health Service on active duty, diplomatic personnel and agents of foreign countries who are not citizens of the United States.

All others must register, whether they are exempt from the draft or not. Registration will take place at 4000 draft offices to be set up in all the States, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

So far it has not been decided how many men will be called.

"The Army orders men, and we just deliver the number they request," the draft office said.

Secretary of the Army Royall recently estimated that the first calls might be as low as 30,000 a month. When the draft law was being written it was estimated that about 200,000 men would be called by the fall of 1949. During the next two years a maximum of 606,882 may be inducted.

Thirteen million registration cards are being printed, Mershey said, and the boards will be ready by the deadline set for inducting. The law authorizes the armed farces to be built up to slightly more than two million men within two years—the life of the law.

Late yesterday the White House issued an executive order outlining the duties of selective service officials. The order did not set the date inductions will start, nor who will be deferred. However, Secretary Royall has said that the Army hopes to start calling men under the draft by September 22.

The proclamation makes it incumbent upon all men within the age group to "familiarize themselves with the rules and regulations governing registration." It urges employers to give their men time off to register.

The law automatically defers most war veterans—those who have combat service—ministers, theological students, conscientious objectors, and a few others. It authorizes the President to grant other deferments. He is expected to excuse married men, those with other dependents, and essential workers, such as scientists, employes of such agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission, and other defense industry technicians.

Motorist, Wife Hurt as Auto Hits Parked Car

Mrs. Katherine Shipp, 21, youngest daughter of Lewis Kutsch, Prince Georges County assessor, was in serious condition last night at Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, as the result of an automobile accident.

Her husband, Harry S. Shipp, 7-H Laurel Hill rd., Greenbelt, Md., suffered contusions of the chest. According to police, Shipp was rounding a turn about 8:15 a. m. yesterday on the Greenbelt road near 58th ave., Berwyn, Md., when his automobile collided with a parked car.

The couple was taken to the hospital by the Branchville Rescue Squad. Mrs. Shipp suffered severe shock and loss of blood. She had lacerations on the face, neck and tongue and a fractured jaw.

Tenelly to Head Marine News Group

Richard L. Tenelly, Far East editor on overseas information for the State Department, has been elected chairman of the Marine Public Relations Association, it was announced last night. Tenelly, former news editor of the Washington Daily News and Marine Corps combat correspondent, succeeds John N. Popham of the New York Times.

Charles J. Calvin, Arlington, Va., a student at George Washington University, was named treasurer. William P. McCahill, Labor Department, was renamed executive secretary of the organization composed of Marine Corps public relations officers and combat correspondents.

Stark Quits as Head Of PMA Programs

Paul C. Stark has resigned as director of the food distribution programs branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, Agriculture Department.

WAA Preparing to Close Up After Realizing $4 Billion

The biggest bargain counter in the country is preparing to close up shop and go out of business.

It is the War Assets Administration, which has sold, leased and given away surplus war property originally costing the Government 23 billion dollars. It still has $5,400,000,000 worth or odds and ends to get rid of.

Congress has decreed that WAA shall be abolished next February 28.

So yesterday Administrator Jess Larson told his regional directors to clear their shelves and get their books in order.

Since WAA was established shortly after the war ended, it has done a land-office business in war factories, jeeps, blankets, flashlights, life rafts, air fields and practically any commodity imaginable.

Larson said that as of July 1 he had this property on hand:

Real property (land and buildings) $4,200,000,000, including one billion dollars on lease, personal property, 475 million dollars, and aircraft and aircraft parts, 760 million dollars.

What has the Government realized in cash from its bargain sale?

The books show, an agency spokesman told a reporter, cash income from sales and leases of approximately four billion dollars.

But, he hastened to explain, the 23 billion dollars original cost is considerably above the sale or second-hand value of the property.

Besides, the Government gave away property costing nine billion dollars. Of the remainder, a considerable amount is represented by leases. Also said the WAA man, some of the property was good only for junking.

ECA Costs Exceed U. S. City Upkeep

Foreign aid is costing Americans more this year than the total outlay for schools, police and fire protection and similar local services.

Paul G. Hoffman, who is directing the European Recovery Program, made this assertion yesterday in a radio address to be beamed to Europe by the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation.

The economic cooperation administrator, striking back anew at Communist criticism of the aid venture, declared:

"No Communist claim has been more ridiculous than the charge that we are dumping surpluses on Europe."

Then, detailing the "sacrifices" he said Americans are making, Hoffman added:

"Foreign aid is costing the United States six billion dollars this year. This . . . is more than the amount spent by all the cities, towns and villages in the United States for fire protection, police, schools, sanitation, parks and similar local services."

Congress set aside $5,055,000,000 for the European recovery phase of the program. New dollar investments in that program now have pushed the six-month total toward the half-way mark.

Hoffman assured European nations that the United States "has no intention of dictating internal economic programs."

He said: "We are seeking merely to make each of them strong, prosperous, politically independent and free of all need for outside economic assistance."

The broadcast was beamed to all 16 Marshall Plan countries, eastern Europe, the Middle East and South America. It was Hoffman's first declaration of ECA principles to an international audience.

He spoke on the eve of his departure for a week-long on-the-spot inspection trip of ECA's operations in Europe. He will leave LaGuardia Field, New York, for Paris today.

The Gallup Poll

Many Think 3d Party 'Red'

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 20.—Perhaps one of the reasons why the Wallace Third Party has not been able to increase its following is the belief held by many American voters that communists dominate the party.

Politicians of both major parties have tried to pin the Communist tag on the followers of Henry A. Wallace since his party was launched six months ago. Apparently their efforts have succeeded, because when a national cross-section of voters are asked whether they agree or disagree that the Wallace Third Party is run by Communists, these are their answers:

Yes, run by Communists	51%
No, not run by Communists	21
No opinion	28

Even among groups of voters to whom it supposedly makes the greatest appeal, the Communist label for the Third Party is strongly accepted. These include younger voters, farmers, and union members. However, the large group of independent voters, among whom Wallace will have to recruit a major part of his following, are less inclined to say the party is dominated by Communists. The following table gives the figures by occupation, age and party affiliation:

	Agree	Dis-agree	No opin
Occupation
Prof. & business	54%	28%	18%
White collar	51	25	24
Farmer	54	16	30
Manual	49	18	33
Union members	48	22	30
Age
21-29 years	47	27	26
30-49 years	50	22	28
50 and over	53	17	30
Party Affiliation
Republicans	59	16	25
Democrats	50	19	31
Independents	42	32	26

While the Wallace Third Party has been tagged as Communist, the two major parties themselves are far from free of damaging lables. For instance, when people are asked whether they believe it to be true that "the Republican Party is run by a few big businessmen of the country," this is what they say:

Yes, run by a few big businessmen	47%
No, not run by a few big businessmen	37
No opinion	16

Voters in the survey were also asked whether they agreed or disagreed with this statement: "The Democratic Party is run by labor leaders of the country?" The answers to this question were:

Yes, run by labor leaders	40%
No, not run by labor leaders	43
No opinion	17

Wallaceites Start Work on Platform

Philadelphia, July 20 (AP).—Platform makers for Henry A. Wallace's third party got down to work today on the eve of open hearings at which representatives of more than 40 organizations will testify.

An executive session of the 74-member group centered attention on foreign policy and a proposal for nationalization of basic industries.

Windmill signs separately calling for "abundance," "freedom," "peace," went up on the marquee at Bellevue-Stratford Hotel headquarters where the Republican elephant and Democratic donkey drew so much attention in recent weeks.

Convention arrangements moved ahead with announcement that Albert Fitzgerald, president of the CIO United Electrical Workers, will introduce Wallace for his presidential nomination acceptance speech at Shibe Park Saturday night.

The mass rally will high spot the new party founding convention which opens Friday night. It will be open to the public with tickets selling at 65 cents, $1.30 and $2.00 to raise campaign funds.

Discussion of foreign policy, a platform committee spokesman said, appeared to be antibipartisan—as the Truman Administration insisted on it—and against both the Marshall Plan and the Truman doctrine.

"They believe," he stated, "that the question of peace can be worked out through a strong United Nations with relief based on need rather than on political expediency."

Commenting on nationalization of industry, the spokesman said "you can surmise that there will be a give and take on how far the nationalization program will be discussed. Mostly it involves certain public utilities and what we regard as basic industries."

The Wallace movement, he continued, certainly will call for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and it was understood the platform will be strong on civil rights. The policy statement is expected to include a preamble spelling out general principles and the basis for a new party.

Among those who will appear tomorrow and Thursday at open policy hearings are the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Dr. Francis Townsend, leader of the Townsend old age pension movement; the United World Federalists, the Teachers Union, the Congress of American Women and the Physicians Forum.

Others on the list include the Friends Committee on National Legislation; Society for Prevention of World War III; Committee for a Democratic Far Eastern Policy; Child Care Center of New York; Civil Rights Congress; the People's Lobby; National Committee to Abolish the Poll Tax.

International Workers Order; New York Tenants Council; Association of Scientific Workers; United Public Workers; American Committee for West Indian Federation; American Zionist Emergency Committee; the Southern Negro Youth Congress.

Harry K. Green Lauded at Air port Dinner

The Washington Post

29 YEARS ON JOB—Harry K. Green, Virginia State Commissioner of Internal Revenue for Arlington County, was guest of honor at a testimonial at National Airport last night. Here he sits at the speakers' table and shakes hands with United States Senators A. Willis Robertson (right) and Harry F. Byrd (left), both of Virginia. He has served for 29 years

Harry K. Green, who for the past 29 years has served as State Commissioner of Revenue for Arlington County, last night was honored at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 400 persons.

Green, who is 69, was praised successively by Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.), Virginia's Gov. William M. Tuck and Charles F. Webber, grand master of Masons for the State of Virginia, who brought greetings to the Arlington official from the "52,000 masons in the Commonwealth of Virginia."

Time Tricks Tuck

Governor Tuck, who presented Green with an engraved watch on behalf of his friends, was an hour late to the function, which was held in the dining room at the National Airport. Tuck, who admitted his tardiness was caused by the one-hour time diffenential said "I signed the bill, a local bill, permitting the northern Virginia area to absorb this influence from Washington," but added that "natural time is still standard time in Virginia."

Tuck said he thought it was a fine thing for Green's friends "to come to him in the full vigor of his life and let him know our appreciation of his truly manly work."

Senator Byrd traced Green's career from its beginnings, when he was shoemaker's apprentice, through the years during which he had "overcome a physical affliction which would have daunted the spirit of many others."

Byrd Lauds Green

Byrd called Green a "counsellor and confidante" of Governors, Senators and local officials throughout the State of Virginia. He credited him with doing much to promote "the sound and steady" progress of Arlington County.

Green, in accepting the watch from Governor Tuck, told those at the banquet that his wife, Anna Rohr, to whom he has been married for 45 years, deserved the credit for any success he had attained.

Among those who attended the function were Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.), Virginia State Senator John Battle, Jesse Dillon, Treasurer of the Commonwealth; Mrs. Mary Scott Meade Glass, widow of Virginia Senator Carter Glass; Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) and Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter McCarthy.

Fairfax Bible Classes Stand

The Fairfax County School Board yesterday agreed to continue religious instruction in public schools, although some members feared it might violate the ruling of the Supreme Court in the McCollum case.

The board gave its approval of the present system of optional Bible classes, in school rooms on school time, by refusing to take any action to stop or change the program after receiving a ruling from Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr.

Almond regarded as constitutional a program conducted "independently of the control, supervision or responsibility of the public schools and providing further that no public funds may be used."

Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson said that in the last analysis school principals were responsible for actions of their students all the time they were at school. This would include time spent at religious instruction, he said.

Board member Richard E. Shands voiced the sentiment of most board members when he said: "There are grave doubts that our program violates the court ruling. At the same time, the program has been going on for 18 years. The people want it. We can sit tight and let someone challenge the program in court."

The county program of religious instruction is supervised by the Council on Weekly Religious Education in the county. A nonsectarian group, it furnishes its own teachers and materials.

Early Area Contingents Leave For Third-Party Convention

Early contingents of Henry Wallace supporters from the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia last night were on their way to the third-party convention at Philadelphia.

Attending the convention, which opens Friday, will be 16 delegates from Washington, four each from Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, and a total of 13 from the Virginia area of Arlington and Fairfax Counties and Alexandria.

Accompanying them will be alternates, "official observers," and several hundred spectators who support the Henry A. Wallace-Sen. Glen H. Taylor ticket for the November elections.

Many of the Progressive Party delegates and alternates from this area are scheduled to leave here early Friday morning in a motorcade, joining Maryland delegates and alternates in Baltimore at 10 a.m. for the trek to the convention city.

National committee officials from the District are Dr. Joseph L. Johnson and Mrs. Reginald Hyde.

Mrs. Sarah D'Avila, vice chairman of the Progressive Party of Virginia, yesterday announced the following delegates from the Arlington-Alexandria-Fairfax area:

Mrs. Virginia Foster Durr, Mrs. Virginia Spottman, Mrs. Pauline Naylor, Mrs. Olivia Anderson, Mrs. Florence Bunovell, Mrs. Lily Patterson, Walter Quinn, Mrs. Pauline Zetzkom, Max Rumpfin, William Glasier, Bruce Waybur, Miss Natalie Lamken and Mrs. D'Avila.

Henry Beitscher, assistant Maryland State director of the Progressive Party, said delegates from Montgomery County are Mrs. Alice Lanier, Mrs. Arlene Neal, Mrs. Rose Anderson and Beitscher.

Brownell Hits Call For Special Session

measure he said the GOP as well as the Democrats were now pledged to enact.

He said the special session would give Republicans a chance to redeem their pledges. Brownell made it just as clear that the 1948 Republican program as such will have to wait for a Republican administration to put through, with the aid of a Republican Congress.

Leaders to Confer

A round of GOP leadership conferences slated for next Monday meanwhile was announced by Acting Senate Majority Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), who tossed out a broad hint that Congress may open with a filibuster.

Wherry, like Brownell, said the legislative program must be worked out by the leaders, but he added:

"The only legislation in the President's program I know of that is ready is these civil rights bills (antilynching, anti-poll-tax and FEPC legislation)."

The Democratic and Republican platforms called for action on all three, as well as an end to segregation in the armed forces.

The Nebraska Republican took a dim view of the outlook for shutting off Southern civil rights opposition with a cloture motion, however.

Could Filibuster on "Journal"

Unlike Mr. Truman, who said Senate Republicans can command the two-thirds majority needed to impose cloture, Wherry pointed out several filibuster devices, notably debate on the "journal," which is not subject to cloture.

Even with cloture, he said, there might be a long legislative delay. He noted that under cloture each Senator could speak for an hour on the pending bill and all amendments.

Some Republicans have suggested privately that a civil rights curtain-raiser might serve a triple political purpose: (1) At least attempt to carry out one GOP pledge; (2) sidetrack for the time being Mr. Truman's anti-inflation and housing programs and (3) highlight through a filibuster the Democratic party rift.

Wherry, a leader in the successful GOP fight against OPA meat rationing, had this to say about reports that Mr. Truman will ask immediate price controls on meat, and standby controls on other prices: "Unless you control all factors entering into prices, including wages, it won't work."

He said the President is "definitely overoptimistic" about getting action on his agenda within 15 days.

Law Sets Adjournment Limit

Wherry said one of the things leaders may look into is the Congressional Reorganization Act requirement that Congress adjourn not later than July 31, except in time of war or National emergency, "unless otherwise provided by the Congress."

The White House meanwhile added these two international measures to the agenda Mr. Truman is expected to lay before Congress Monday or Tuesday:

Senate ratification of the international wheat agreement;

A 65-million-dollar loan to the United Nations to finance completion of New York headquarters.

Wherry said Monday's session-opener will be brief. At 10 a. m., Senate GOP Steering Committee Chairman Robert A. Taft will confer with House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., on the GOP program. Then at 3 p. m. the Senate Republican Steering Committee will hold a full-dress party policy conference.

Denies He Is Hinting

Brownell told reporters he did not know whether Taft and Martin will confer directly with Governor Dewey in advance of the session. He said he assumed they will agree on a "constructive" program immediately after the President presents his recommendations.

Would he (Brownell) sit in on the conferences, as Governor Dewey's representative?

"I do not know. I hold myself in readiness to consult with them at any time on any matter that affects the campaign. Legislation, of course, does."

Was his statement that the "rump" session couldn't write the 1948 GOP platform into law a "hint" to members to adjourn immediately?

"I think that is an unwarranted interpretation."

Did his statement preclude action on individual planks in the platform?

"I don't so interpret it."

Says GOP Not On Spot

Dewey's close friend and campaign manager said he preferred to let the 45-word statement "speak for itself" without further elaboration by him.

He denied the President's move put the Republican Party "on the spot." He said he agreed with Governor Dewey that the Eighteth Congress "has a fine record." As for the Dewey-Warren ticket, he said Republicans "have never had a ticket that met with more approbation in the 48 States." He said he had never seen "a closer-knit team."

Brownell announced that Representative Hugh D. Scott, jr., (R. Pa.), Republican National Chairman, will open the Republican campaign with a speech to the GOP organization at Skowhegan, Me., Saturday noon. He said it has not been decided when Governor Dewey will open his campaign, nor has his itinerary been worked out.

Admits She Gave Beer to Her Baby

LOSES CUSTODY—Beer is not good for babies, the judge told Actress Leslie Brooks, and as a result her daughter, Victoria, 2, with whom she is pictured, will be cared for temporarily by her paternal grandmother. In connection with her divorce case against Actor Anthony Shay, Miss Brooks admitted giving the child beer diluted with water. It had been testified in Los Angeles Court that Victoria became "very cute and dizzy" at parties their kind involving radio stations in Baltimore, and are likely to result in an extensive court battle over constitutional rights of newspapers and radio stations.

Court Cites Radio Stations in James Case

A further test, over the court's jurisdiction, may develop in the WSID case.

Baltimore Supreme bench rules ban the reporting or broadcasting of any statements an accused person makes after he is arrested, any report or comment on his conduct or his past criminal record, any disclosure of evidence discovered after his arrest, any forecast of the prosecution or defense course of action or any photograph of the accused without his consent.

Also prohibited in a blanket ruling is "the publciation of any matter which may prevent a fair trial, improperly influence the court or jury, or tending in any manner to interfere with the administration of justice."

The contempt charge cited the six defendants for broadcasts "embarrassing and obstructing the administration of justice."

No broadcast details were specified in the citations.

The citations did not refer to the Carol Bardwell slaying on June 27, for which Eugene H. James, Baltimore janitor, was indicted for murder by a District grand jury on Monday, but news reports of this case are believed to be a target of the contempt citation.

Baltimore courts have no jurisdiction in the Bardwell case. The only slaying mentioned in the citations is the murder of Marsha Brill, also 11 years old, killed in Baltimore on July 6.

James has been indicted in Baltimore for this murder, and also indicted for the rape-robbery of a Baltimore housewife on June 15. He has pled insanity to these Baltimore charges for which he will face trial there on August 3.

While Washington newspapers, which circulate freely in Baltimore, reported police statements that James had confessed to both slayings and reenacted the Brill murder, Baltimore newspapers could not report this. James' attorney later denied the Bardwell confession.

News services in Washington carried reports on James' Bardwell confession to the rest of the Nation, and the broadcast of these reports in Baltimore may be the basis of the contempt citation.

Sun Publisher Cleared in '47

There was no immediate comment yesterday from any of those cited for contempt.

In January, 1947, the A. S. Abell Co., publisher of the Baltimore Sunpapers, and Detective Capt. Henry J. Kriss of Baltimore faced contempt charges on the same court rule in a news story of the accidental shooting of a 13-year-old boy by a 15-year-old playmate who hid the body.

All the defendants were acquitted in this contempt case, involving the publication of a statement by the 15-year-old boy, giving details of the crime. The Sunpapers argued there was no obstruction of justice, no intent to commit contempt, and challenged the court rule on constitutional grounds of freedom of the press.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

now comes a dream of a car . . . a daring, fun-loving dream, realized in steel and chrome . . . ready to thrill those "special" kinds of people of every age who tire of the ordinary and always seek the uncommon:

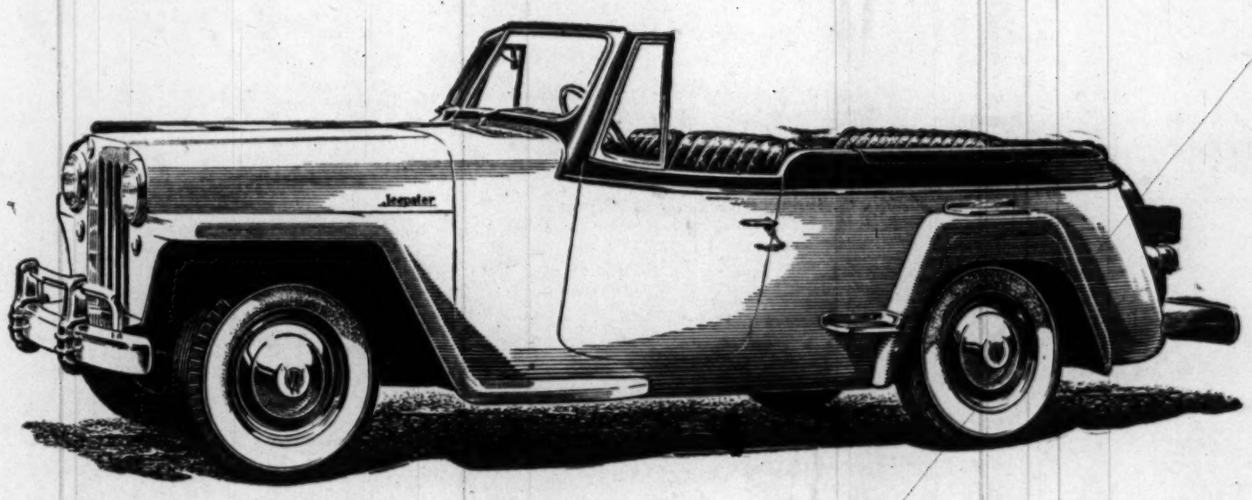
meet the Jeepster



The fleet, low-slung lines of the Jeepster tell you in advance: "Here is a companion for carefree moments".

Come, sit under the wheel, and deny if you can the desire to roam new roads with the Jeepster.

Take off from the crowded highway, the mob is not for you. Seek the unspoiled spots and strange scenes.

Go with the wind, commanding the power of the mighty 'Jeep' engine. And soon, you'll settle back in the seat with a smile . . . For this is fun.

If you're headed for the shore, the mountains, or a brisk turn on the boulevard, your spirits will run high with the Jeepster.

Vacation journey or workday errand alike are less tiring because there's a lift to your spirits.

Leave the more formal cars to more formal people. You'll drive the Jeepster for the sheer joy of driving, of going somewhere, with laughter in your heart and a song on your lips.

Willys-Overland Motors, Makers of America's Most Useful Vehicles, through its distributors and dealers, invites you to preview this unusual sports phaeton named the Jeepster in honor of its famous forebear. Here is a truly unusual motor car. Its low center of gravity makes it a great "road" car . . . Its low silhouette stems from advanced international styling . . . 'Outside' Work for District Firemen Is Banned by Commissioners

The Commissioners yesterday approved an amendment to the new Fire Department regulations which will prevent all Fire Department personnel from doing "outside" work in addition to their regular duties.

The amendment was prepared by Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Daniel B. Maher and Fire Chief Clement Murphy.

Under the old regulations, they said, a fireman was not allowed to accept "outside" work as an employe of another person or firm. He could, however, do work on a contract basis, where he was, in effect, his own employer.

The new amendment states that firemen "shall not perform work at any time for wage, salary, fee or gift . . . either as an employe or as an independent contractor."

Murphy said the reason for banning outside work was twofold. First, outside work might leave a fireman too tired to do a good job of fire-fighting when he came on duty. Second, many firemen are "trained mechanics" and it's not fair" for them to compete as contractors" against regular workers

In effect, Murphy indicated, men in the latter case are taking somebody else's job while holding one in the Fire Department.

$280,000 Awarded Families of Cowboy Pants Fire Victims

The families of five Washington boys, one of whom died, will share in out-of-court settlements totaling $280,000 for burns received when cowboy pants worn by the youngsters caught fire.

The settlement, reached in New York, was announced by Attorney Robert E. Lynch who represented the plantiffs.

The $280,000 represented nine cases. Lynch estimated the Washington area families will receive $100,000.

One of the defendants was the Hecht Co., which sold the inflammable garments, known as Gene Autry Pants, in 1944 and 1945.

Other defendants were Gene Autry, the cowboy actor; M. A. Henry Co., Inc., of New York; the Woonsocket Falls Mills and E. F. Timme & Son.

Counsel for the Hecht Co. acknowledged that settlement had been made but said the merchandising concern had paid but a small fraction of the total.

Oddly enough, according to Lynch, the smallest award, $3600, was made to Willie B. Wilks of 1228 Duncan pl. ne., whose son died in 1945, allegedly as the result of the pants catching fire.

Lynch pointed out that the local statute limits damages to $10,000 in deaths caused by negligence. The amount granted is commensurate with the sum the family of the deceased youth would have received between the time he left school and reached the age of 21.

The other settlements were made to:

Mrs. Laura Bradley, mother of Edward B. Bradley, 9, of 42 Girard st. ne.

Mrs. Dorothy J. Gates, mother of Lawrence E. Gates, 9, of 133 S. Glebe rd., Arlington.

William H. Greatorex, father of William F. Greatorex, 9, of 4630 New Hampshire ave. nw.

Barrett Given More Powers

serve a warrant he must attempt to learn where it can be served.

Requires policemen to explain their movements, acquaintances and whereabouts to their commanding officer when so requested.

Raises the number of men who may be on annual leave at one time from 10 to 15 per cent of the force.

Tightens the supervision of policemen going to and returning from court.

Permits the superintendent of police to decide whether his presence is required at a riot or other unusual occurrence.

Requires captains, lieutenants, sergeants and corporals to communicate with their precincts once every hour while on duty.

Requires each commanding officer to report monthly to headquarters on the morale and efficiency of every man in his command.

Removes the restriction against policemen talking to persons while patroling their beats.

Action on Jail Injuries

Requires station clerks to report immediately to their commanding officer when a prisoner shows signs of injury, and requires the commanding officer to make an immediate investigation.

Sets up rules and regulations for the operation of the new central communications bureau.

Requires the Board of Surgeons to notify the police superintendent immediately of the contemplated retirement of any police officer ranked captain or higher.

Forbids policemen to take meals during the morning, noon or evening rush hours.

Sets forth full information on the rules governing confessions, depositions and death-bed statements.

Police officers who joined with Inspectors Storm and Maher in working on the new manual were Capts. Beverly Beach, John E. Fondahl, Howard Covell, Loraine T. Johnson and John Agnew. Revision of the manual was initiated originally under the direction of the late Superintendent of Police Harvey G. Callahan who died about a year ago.

14 Paint Firms Are Indicted

Pittsburgh, July 20 (AP).—The United States Government today charged some of the Nation's largest manufacturers in the billion-dollar paint industry with conspiracy to fix prices of paints and wood finishes.

Indictments handed down in Federal District Court here named 14 companies which make nearly half the Nation's paints, varnishes, enamels and lacquers, and 20 officials of these firms.

One indictment listed these defendants as producers of paints, varnishes, enamels and lacquers: Sherwin-Williams Co., Cleveland; American-Marietta Co., Chicago; Cook Paint & Varnish Co., Kansas City, Mo.; Devoe & Raynolds Co., Inc., New York; E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del.; General Paint Corp., San Francisco; the Glidden Co., Cleveland; the Interchemical Corp., New York, and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Pittsburgh.

A second group was described as producers of lacquers, varnishes, enamels and stains for use in the wood furniture industry. They were E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.; American-Marietta Co.; Columbus Varnish Co., Columbus, Ohio; Grand Rapids Varnish Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.; the Lilly Co., High Point, N. C.; the Lilly Varnish Co., Indianapolis; Sherwin-Williams Co. and the Southern Varnish Corp., Roanoke, Va.

KAISER

FRAZER

Service wherever you go

In just two years we've built and sold more fine cars than any other new manufacturer in automobile history.

Why? Because America fell in love with the KAISER and the FRAZER on sight. Folks are streaming into Kaiser-Frazer showrooms and learning from present owners how dependable these two great cars are. They're learning—from people who drive them—how soundly they are built . . . how economical they are . . . how much enjoyment there is in owning one.

THE KAISER AND FRAZER ARE THE MOST-COPIED CARS IN AMERICA, road-proved by 250,000 owners in two billion miles of postwar driving.

Because plenty of Americans insist on comfort, convenience, style and value, traditional leaders had to "move over"—as Kaiser-Frazer became the fourth largest manufacturer of motor cars in the world in two short years.

Why wait? Enjoy your new car this summer. You'll get fair treatment and highest trade-in allowance.

Dr. Blades Resigns Post at Gallinger

Dr. Brian Blades, noted thoracic surgeon here, has resigned his surgical duties at Gallinger Hospital, where he has long been at odds with the administrators, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. Blades

His position there as chief of the George Washington University surgical service has been assigned to Dr. Blaine Harrell, assistant professor of clinical surgery at George Washington, it was announced by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of G. W. U. In a brief statement on the change, Dr. Marvin said:

"Both Dr. Bloedorn (dean of G. W. U.'s medical school) and myself felt we needed Dr. Blades' full time to build up the surgical department of our new hospital and for teaching. It was impossible for him to go on working at Gallinger."

Physician friends of Dr. Blades agreed that it was "impossible" for him to continue at Gallinger, but gave different reasons. They pointed out that only last March he had been falsely accused by District Commissioner Guy Mason of illegally securing admittance of a nonresident woman patient to Gallinger Hospital. Commissioner Mason later apologized publicly for the "error."

Previous to that charge, Dr. Blades had tangled with the District Health Department when he and Dr. Robert J. Coffey, who serves Gallinger in similar capacity for Georgetown University Hospital, had recommended that Gallinger administration be placed under a separate agency.

Dr. Blades refused comment last night on his resignation. Commissioner Mason, on vacation, could not be reached, and District health offices referred all queries on the matter to Dr. Marvin.

Dr. Blades was chief of thoracic surgery at Walter Reed General Hospital here during World War II, and consultant to the Army Surgeon General. He recently made news with his work on chest surgery at George Washington Hospital to cure intractable asthma.

pay all or part of the cost of their care.

The plan will permit the Hospital Service Agency to pay hospitals $11 a day for adults, $2 a day for infants and $2 for each clinic visit. An estimated 8963 adult patients will be aided on the $11 basis.

$303,000 Under Request

The current federation appropriation to hospitals totaling $432,179 allows hospitals $7.50 a day for each adult.

The recommendation is $303,000 less than the $1,383,760 requested by the Hospital Council. The request would have provided $14.48 a day for each hospitalized adult which is the current estimated cost for hospital care.

Marcellus C. Shield, chairman of the federation's hospitalization subcommittee, said that the $11 figure is $2 more a day than what Congress allows for hospitalization of public charges and a dollar more than what the hospitals asked Congress to appropriate.

Only 30% Pay for Care

Capossela estimated that in the 14 participating hospitals only 30 per cent of patients pay for their care. The remainder are under group hospitalization or receive assistance from public funds or from the Chest Federation.

Willard Smith, head of the Hospital Service Agency, said that the number of patients who must depend upon Community Chest Federation help is increasing. Last year the federation aided 5521 persons but this year will assist more than 7500.

The 14 participating hospitals are Alexandria, Arlington, Casualty, Children's, Columbia, Emergency, Episcopal, Garfield, Georgetown, George Washington, Leland Memorial, Providence, Suburban and Washington Sanitarium.

Mother, Son Held For Grand Jury In Assault Case

A mother and son were held for grand jury action in Municipal Court yesterday on a charge that they beat and cut a blind and pregnant woman during a domestic argument.

Held under $1000 bond each were Clifton Smith, 30, and Mrs. Henrietta Smith, 45, of 1812 Florida ave. nw.

Mrs. Anna Henerson, 25, of 2604 I st. nw., testified that she was assaulted on July 11 while at the Smith home at their invitation. She said she is unable to see at all and is four months with child.

Mrs. Henderson said that she was cut on the face with a piece of broken glass and was kicked and beaten. She added that the Smiths threatened to "kill my unborn baby."

'Unsound Mind' Is Ruling in New Sex Law Violation

The first case under the new sex law of the District was wound up in Municipal Court yesterday when the defendant, Amide Landry, 63, a Soldier's Home resident, was found of unsound mind.

Landry was charged with simple assault on complaint of an 8-year-old girl. She said that he gave her $2 after prevailing upon her to pull up her skirt and expose herself. There was no physical contact.

He was sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation and authorities then recommended a lunacy inquisition be held.

In yesterday's action, Dr. Amino Paretti of Gallinger testified Landry suffered from a persecution complex and had hardening of the brain arteries.

Montgomery to Sell All of Bond Issue

Montgomery County will sell all of its three-million-dollar proposed school construction bond issue in September instead of doing it piecemeal, as was originally planned.

County Supervisor I. G. McNayr revealed yesterday the county will advertize for bids between August 15 and September 1. The bond sale would be held early in September.

Plans were revised, he said, on the advice of bond attorneys who recommended selling the bonds in a lump sum to avoid competing with other scheduled bond issues of nearby communities.

Only $70,000 remains of a two-million-dollar bond issue for school construction, sold last fall, McNayr said. He pointed out that some of the proposed three-million-dollar issue will finance commitments already made for a new classroom.

In another development, school officials agreed to delay temporarily the purchase of a 10-acre school site adjacent to Viers Mill Village following a request from President Brooke Johns of the county board.

School and county board officials revealed they had held, on Monday night, the first in a series of "off-the record" harmony conferences. The informal sessions are an outgrowth of a split between the two agencies over 1947-48 budget differences.

At the regular commissioners' meeting in Rockville, Mrs. Eleanor E. Howe of Olney complained that overflowing septic tanks at Montgomery County General Hospital are contaminating a stream on her property behind the hospital.

The board instructed Dr. V. L. Ellicott, County Health Officer, to request a State Health Department survey of the conditions. Dr. J. W. Bird, head of the hospital, described the overflowing tanks as "more of a nuisance than a health menace." He said the hospital is waiting for Federal aid before constructing a sewage disposal plant.

Kennedy Would Hold Congressional Seat

Boston, July 20 (AP).—United States Representative John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts said today he would seek reelection to Congress—even as friends sought to draft him for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Two sets of nomination papers were filed in New Bedford on behalf of Kennedy for Governor—but he has to accept before his name can appear on the primary ballot.

Ascap Held Violating Anti-Trust Laws

New York, July 20 (U.P.).—Federal Judge Vincent Leibell ruled today that the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers is in violation of anti-trust laws in licensing and collecting fees from film exhibitors who show movies with ASCAP music.

Leibell granted 165 metropolitan exhibitors injunctive relief against ASCAP's 14-year-od practice of collecting a seat tax on movies that use ASCAP music. He dismissed, however, their action for $900,000 in triple damages.

Cadillac
PERSONALITY

Whether you see it on the highway—or whether you sit behind the steering wheel and test its incomparable performance—you find nothing in a Cadillac that savors of other cars. Its personality is unique.

And never has this individuality been so marked as in the magnificent Cadillacs being built today. From the dynamic sweep of their styling, to the matchless manner in which they shorten the miles—they widen the gap by which Cadillac leadership has so long been measured.

Naturally, the desire to own this distinguished car is the greatest in history. Thousands who have never before aspired to Cadillac ownership have decided to end all compromise and own "the Standard of the World."

Stassen to Confer With Dewey Today

New York, July 20 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen, reiterating a pledge to campaign for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, flew here today en route to talk with the Republican presidential nominee.

The Minnesotan, a bitter rival of Dewey at the Philadelphia convention, will go to the Governor's farm at Pawling Wednesday morning for the conference on campaign strategy and issues.

Convicted Slayer Loses Appeal for Habeas Corpus

The United States Court of Appeals decided against condemned murderer Baxter Griffin, 42, yesterday on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The Court of Appeals condemned as "scandalous and without foundation" a charge by Griffin's appeal attorney that four witnesses to the shooting by Griffin of Lee Hunter in February, 1947, gave false and perjurous statements and that the United States attorney trying the case knew of the falsehood.

The court also said there was no support to a bare conclusion by Griffin that Robert I. Miller, his trial counsel, did not handle the case intelligently, competently or fairly.

It was also pointed out by the appeals court that the Government did not suppress evidence that there was a knife in Hunter's pocket. It was pointed out that Hunter's hand, when he died, was on a pack of playing cards and not on a knife as contended by Griffin, who pleaded self-defense.

Industry May Get Atomic Power by 1958, Says Savant

Harwell, England, July 20 (AP).—The most secret spot in England—the square mile of Berkshire where British atomic scientists work—was shown to the press today. Its chief, Sir John D. Cockcroft, in a short discourse, warned against expecting miracles.

It will be at least 10 years, he said, before atomic energy will be a substantial factor in life. It will be at least that long, he said, before atomic energy will become a practical means of providing heat and power for homes and factories.

"Could Great Britain right now produce an atom bomb?" he was asked.

Sir John declined to answer.

"It's a question with political implications," he said, "and of no concern to scientists."

Catholics May Buy Woodlawn Estate

The 127-acre Woodlawn estate, which George Washington gave as a wedding present to his adopted granddaughter, Nellie Custis, may be sold soon to a Catholic mission society.

A petition has been filed in Fairfax Circuit Court asking that guardians of the estate of Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood be authorized to sell the property to the Immaculate Heart of Mary Mission Society, Inc.

John A. K. Donovan, attorney for the mission society, which is in Arlington on 25th rd. near Old Dominion dr., said the society plans to convert the estate into a boys' preparatory school. He said the price offered was about $165,000.

Situated near Mount Vernon, Woodlawn was purchased by the late Senator Oscar W. Underwood in 1925. His widow has been ill in Philadelphia since 1943. Arrangements for the sale are being made by Attorneys H. C. Kilpatrick of Washington and Gardner L. Boothe of Alexandria.

Kilpatrick said furnishings of the 20-room house would be sold at public auction July 31. The house contains no historic pieces from Washington's day, he said, because all the original furnishings had been removed before the Underwoods bought it. Assessed value of the articles to be auctioned, however, is $15,000, he said.

The estate will be open for inspection from 10 a. m. on July 25 and July 30, Kilpatrick said.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

✓ STOMACH GAS
✓ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Hyatt Mansion Held Unsafe

Hyatt Mansion, home of the early resident from whom Hyattsville is named, has been adjudged unsafe for human occupancy by the Hyattsville City Council.

The council has instructed City Attorney Nicholas Orem, jr., to post copies of a resolution adopted by the council ordering the building vacated.

The council ordered 2½ months ago that a number of alleged violations of the fire regulations be corrected and gave the operator 60 days in which to comply. The corrections have not been made, the council was informed, and the order declaring the mansion unsafe for human occupancy was voted.

Orem said the order will be posted for about a week. Warrants could then be sworn out charging violation of the occupancy order and failure to make repairs as ordered by the council.

The historic house, on Rhode Island ave. near the County Service Building, has between 30 and 40 residents, Orem said, all of whom are liable to action for remaining in the building after the unfit-for-occupancy order has been posted.

The building was inspected by the city fire marshall, two representatives of the State Insurance Commissioner's office, the Fire Underwriters and the county building inspector, all of whom concurred that the building is not safe for habitation, Orem said.

Trucking Association To Hear Defense Plan

An Army program to use truck transport units for national defense will be discussed by Col. Ross B. Warren, chief of transportation, Department of Army, at the D. C. Trucking Association's monthly luncheon at noon today in the Chinese Room of the Mayflower Hotel.

The Army's program, national in scope, is the promotion of various types of highway transport reserve units through sponsorship by association and private trucking companies.

Eisenhower, Scientists Hit

Seattle, July 20 (AP).—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and many of the Nation's top ranking scientists were criticized yesterday by a former employe of the Dies Committee.

Testifying before the Washington State legislative un-American activities committee, J. B. Matthews of New York City also asserted there are more than 5000 American educators in the Communist or "fellow traveler" ranks.

Matthews was research director from 1938 to 1945 for the Dies Committee, congressional counterpart of the State un-American activities group.

His criticism of Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, was directed at the general's acceptance of a $10,000 grant from Poland's Communist government for a chair of Polish studies.

He charged that Eisenhower "shamefully and completely evaded" the question raised by the resignation of Dr. Arthur P. Coleman from the Columbia faculty over the grant.

Matthews said the action would open the way for "friendly professors who won't have to register as foreign agents." He expressed the opinion that the grant was the first of a series planned by Communist governments.

He described as "disquieting" the association of many atomic research leaders with Russian scientists. He also attacked their activity in so-called Communist-front organizations, but did not identify them by name.

Matthews was brought here as a witness in connection with the State committee's investigation of the University of Washington faculty.

At the same time, Dr. Raymond B. Allen, University of Washington president, announced the suspension of Prof. Herbert J. Phillips for refusal to respond to a committee subpena.

Work on Pier Stops in Fall

Construction work on a new $800,000 pier now being built at Maine ave. and N st. sw., will stop November 15, because of lack of funds, District engineers said yesterday.

The pier is part of a waterfront improvement project authorized by Congress in 1935. Work on the pier began March 20, 1948. It is to be used by the Wilson Line, the Potomac River Line and the Norfolk & Washington Steamship Co.

Congress in 1945 appropriated approximately $400,000, which was the estimated cost of the completed piec, but with rising construction costs, a $339,883 contract was awarded to Lipsett, Inc., of New York for the foundation alone. An additional $500,000 will be needed to finish the 340-foot pier.

Funds will not be made available for the project until the next fiscal year, beginning July, 1949, officials said, and the work will not proceed until that time.

The complete $7,500,000 project includes three piers, two yacht basins, fire and police facilities.

Pot And Kettle

It is unquestionably true that members of Congress have been more concerned with talking about civil rights for the record than with advancing sound legislation to protect such rights. A shocking amount of hokum must be laid at the door of legislators representing both parties. But the President himself is by no means free from blame for the contrast between the mountain of talk on this subject and the mouse of performance. His civil rights message of last February contained some very specific recommendations, but he failed to follow through. One of these was the creation of a permanent commission on civil rights, a joint congressional committee on civil rights and expansion of the present civil rights section of the Department of Justice into a full-fledged division. His second request was for strengthening the old civil rights statutes now on the books. Another proposal was a law forbidding interference by either public officials or private individuals with the right to vote. Here was a new idea sweeping far beyond the scheme to abolish poll taxes. Apparently it contemplated legislation to permit the Department of Justice to enjoin through the courts any interference with a duly qualified citizen's right to vote.

Bills to carry out all these objectives were drafted with much care in the Department of Justice. As long ago as last February they were ready to go to Congress, but they never went. Why? The silence last session is evidence that the cause of delay in the enactment of well-considered and constitutional civil rights legislation is not wholly on one side. Indeed, the President himself must take the ultimate responsibility for smothering the work of the Department of Justice and for failure to supply the detailed recommendations that the Judiciary Committees of Congress had been led to expect. Nor can one forget that the President himself is ultimately responsible for perpetuating segregation in the armed forces which the Democratic platform condemns.

Technical Exercise

By almost any measurement the performance of the Air Forces of Britain and America in the sustenance of Berlin has been magnificent. The combined British-American operation is now averaging nearly 500 flights into Berlin daily—a truly remarkable record when it is considered that only two inadequate airports are available and that planes must be unloaded with split-second timing for the shuttle back to their supply bases in western Germany. It is a tribute to the resourcefulness of the men running "Operation Vittles" that some of the C-54s were placed in transport service within a few hours after they had been withdrawn from points as far away as Alaska.

The Berlin shuttle is in the tradition of the flights over the "hump" to China during the war. Instead of the Himalaya Mountains, the Air Force in this instance must overcome the obstacles of narrow corridors, instrument flying in bad weather, and possible Soviet interference in the air. But here the comparison ends. The "hump" flights were concerned primarily with military equipment; they were not supplying the civilian economy of China. The traffic to Berlin consists of food and fuel on which the western zones of that city are utterly dependent.

Great as are the accomplishments of the air lift—and one day this week 5400 tons are reported to have been landed—it can be at best a temporary expedient. Around-the-clock movements of C-54s and C-47s are tremendously wearing on the crews. The flights are likely to become increasingly difficult as bad weather sets in. They already are extremely costly in terms of money, the bill being at least half a million dollars a day, without counting the deterioration of equipment. They also may cost lives. To the normal risks of course must be added the threat of obstructive "maneuvers" hinted by the Russians. Enough food and coal may be brought in during the summer to keep Berliners from starving and to keep utilities limping along on a part-time basis. But the physical capabilities simply do not permit enough coal to be brought in by air to sustain Berlin during the winter. A couple of coal barges carry almost as much tonnage as an entire day's quota of planes. Nor can the Air Force keep the Berliners at work with anything like their requirement of raw materials. However, praise be to the airmen of "Operation Vittles"!

Et Tu, Brute

It is a ritualistic grumble in Europe that the fatal weakness of the United States is the slowness with which it comes to decisions. We hope ECA Administrator Hoffman, who is leaving for Europe today, will apply this grumble to Europe. As far back as a year ago the Marshall Plan was conceived. The plan became a blueprint, and the eyes of Europe turned on the United States, watching and waiting for action. This newspaper once in a while reminded the Europeans that they themselves had much to do in the way of action. Machinery had to be ready to carry out the high purpose of the Marshall Plan when it was enacted. That purpose, which the Europeans enthusiastically echoed, was "a European program," not programs, with a view of developing European recovery through the "cure" of a European economy.

The sad fact is that less and less is being heard of the supernational setup that was in Mr. Marshall's mind. The continental spirit, at least in economic activity, is dying on the vine, and action is in stark contrast to antecedent words. The group in Paris, called the Organization of European Economic Cooperation, is a committee system of sovereign nations. All 16 participants have a member, but it meets intermittently, leaving the guidance in the hands of an executive committee and a secretariat. You would think that the seven-man executive would be of cabinet rank with power to commit governments which at the same time were adapting their economies according to some agreed-upon basis of specialization in economic activity. It is not so manned, it is not so empowered, and the drive to supernationalism or continentalism has been lost in the rut of habit and selfishness and inertia. The officials of the executive are bureaucrats who are transmitters of the shopping lists prepared by their governments. The nexus of this group is a secretariat which has not much more function than minute-taking.

This is not good enough. It can do nothing to achieve the main purpose of the Marshall Plan, and is as rude as it is crude, for the United States invited something different in at least personnel by example as well as precept. In Mr. Hoffman the President named as administrator one of America's foremost businessmen with a high standing of achievement and citizenship and in Mr. Harriman as roving Ambassador, his own Secretary of Commerce.

On top of this nationalistic and bureaucratic organization, there seems to have been an absence of attention to programs covering the four-year period of the Marshall Plan, let alone a European program. All that the OEEC seems to be doing is channeling shopping lists of national requirements for the next quarter. It is the immediate view that is particularly disappointing. Coupled with the national setup, it may breed rivalry instead of cooperation. Mr. Hoffman appears to be trying to persuade the Europeans to do their own screening of requirements. He might also press for a view extending beyond the next quarter. What he ought to request is a four-year program, and allocation undertaken by the Europeans themselves, instead of by either Mr. Hoffman or Mr. Harriman. If allocations were done by the Europeans themselves, then there might be hope of recapturing the aim of economic integration—that "pooling of authority," as Mr. Attlee put it.

To be sure, the aim cannot be attained overnight. But the earnest of such an aim was given to America in response to the Marshall initiative not only in brave and visionary words from Europe but also in the establishment of such committees as the one on steel. It is pertinent to ask what has become of these committees. If Europe needs nothing else, it needs a continental steel industry instead of the national industries which the European nations are developing, and which, so far from insuring recovery, will perpetuate dependence and insolvency.

Rebuke To Bigotry

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has given the "white supremacy" fanatics in his following a stiff rebuke that augurs well for his fourth-party campaign in the South. If the noisy groups who nominated him for the Presidency at Birmingham thought he would vie for the mantle of the late Senator Bilbo as rabble-rouser No. 1 of the South, they have suffered a keen disappointment. The Governor classifies himself as a "progressive Southerner," pooh-poohs white supremacy, calls for better facilities for Negroes as well as whites, although on a segregated basis, and favors repeal of State poll taxes. His campaign for electoral votes this fall will be wholly devoted, he says, to the cause of State sovereignty as against interference by the Federal Government.

We think that if the Southern States had been half as zealous in upholding the rights of their minorities as they have been in safeguarding States' rights, the issue which has now split the Democratic Party would not have arisen. Most of them, as we noted the other day, have invoked States' rights to perpetuate human wrongs. It is, however, an encouraging fact that the man whom the deep South has chosen to run against President Truman, Governor Dewey and Henry Wallace has turned his face against bigotry of the Bilbo-Rankin brand. Governor Thurmond had previously demonstrated his interest in impartial justice by ordering the trial of 23 white men arrested in connection with the Greenville lynching. Now he has clearly indicated that he will not be high-pressured into an extremist position by the bitterness that cropped out at Philadelphia.

The South's candidate could further strengthen his position by moving positively against the evils that have given impetus to the President's civil-rights program. If he could induce South Carolina and a few other Southern States to abolish their poll taxes, it would promptly deflate the crusade for enactment of a Federal anti-poll-tax law. Something more than talk will be necessary, however, for the dissidents as a group to earn the objective "progressive." The country and especially fair-minded voters in the South will be waiting eagerly to see what they have to offer.

French Crisis

The mystery of the Schuman coalition government was that, in the circumstance of present-day French politics, it lasted as long as it did, viz, eight months. Mr. Schuman is not a spectacular leader, and his greatest gift for hanging onto office was his un-Frenchlike phlegm, which he pitted against one vote of no confidence after another. He gave the impression of being utterly unambitious, even of regarding himself as a kind of caretaker Prime Minister. It is said, indeed, that he had a sort of unofficial affiliation with General de Gaulle, though Schuman's party is the MRP. Whether De Gaulle thinks the time is ripe to make a bid for office himself depends on De Gaulle's own view of the occasion.

An appeal to the country was avoided by the withdrawal of an amendment elevating the issue which brought about Schuman's downfall into a vote of confidence. The French constitution says that after two governments have been defeated by no-confidence votes, there must be a new national election. Schuman's action may have been related to the crisis in Berlin. Evidently the Premier was afraid that the vote would go against him, and thus plunge the country into an election. Privately, however, he regarded the vote as a withdrawal of confidence, for the issue was a way out for the Socialists, who were ready to quit the government, anyway, on other issues. The crisis was forced over a minor difference on the army budget, which is becoming so ruinous in France—well over a third of the whole budget—that many Frenchmen see the only way out in a supernational defense system under a common leadership. This would be more of a safeguard of the national security than is afforded by national armaments and at the same time would enable the French to economize.

Freedom Shrieked . . .

There is no better evidence of the utter cynicism of the repressive regime that has taken over Czechoslovakia than the arrest of Dr. D. Lev Sychrava. Dr. Sychrava was no ordinary patriot. He had a passion for liberty and a gift of leadership—so much so that the Nazis in 1939 sent him to Buchenwald for six years. He had been one of the founders of the Czech Republic during World War I, and after the war gained a wide reputation as the editor of Narodni Osvobozeny, the newspaper of the Czechoslovakian Legionnaires. This is the sort of man that the Communist masters of Czechoslovakia have found it necessary to imprison after intimidation failed, the flower of Czechoslovakia, civilization's hope. Dr. Sychrava reportedly was arrested while attempting to flee to Germany, and his whereabouts is unknown.

The poignancy of the news is increased by the fact that Dr. Sychrava had served as vice chairman of the Subcommission on Freedom of Information of the United Nations Human Rights Commission. Before the February coup d'etat he had expected to attend the Conference on Freedom of Information which met at Geneva in March. He did not show up, but he left his imprint on the conference with a statement of principles for journalists which one of the American delegates, Prof. Zechariah Chafee, called "eloquent." The conference was moved sufficiently to vote a resolution of thanks over the objections of the Soviet bloc and rubber stamp Czech delegates, who described the resolution as "interference in domestic affairs." Doubtless the fate of Dr. Sychrava is connected with the purge of all elements in Czechoslovakia suspected of being influenced by Western ideas. The liquidation of independent thought, of which the arrest of Dr. Sychrava is a prime example, not only shows in glaring detail the nature of the tyranny that has been fastened on Czechoslovakia but also proclaims before the world that all the pious concern of the Communists about press freedom is nothing but a contemptible mockery.

Chief White Beaver

It was either a providential slip or an impish mockery of Congress that led the Blackfeet Indians to bestow on Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus the title of "Engineer of the Wilderness Chief White Beaver." One may suspect it was the latter, for the Indians have met nonsense with nonsense. As you may recall, the soon-to-be-jobless Mr. Straus, whose duties involve principally administration, does not possess an engineering degree. This gave an opportunity for California foes of the Reclamation Bureau to attach an appropriation rider providing that the commissioner shall be a graduate engineer with at least five years of experience.

The action of the Blackfeet, as Jerry Kluttz chronicles it, is the perfect answer to this sort of pettiness. Presumably with straight faces, the Indians invited Mr. Straus to become a member of their tribe on the occasion of his visit to the Hungry Horse dam in Montana. The only thing more appropriate would have been for the Blackfeet to have condensed the title to merely "Chief Engineer." If Mr. Straus were to hang up a diploma as evidence of his new academic honor, it would be as much entitled to respect as is the spite of Congress.

"D. C. Employes"

I want to congratulate you on the editorial of July 17, "D. C. Employes."

I thoroughly approve of the sales tax, and think that the District people should have a raise in salary as well as the Federal employes. Keep on hammering, and maybe you can get results. Why wait until January?

ANNETTE C. DELAPLANE.
Washington.

While your editorial was a step in the right direction, like the opinions by Dirkson, Cain, Johnson, et al., it misses the crux. Since the District has a quasi-Federal status, very much like the various Federal departments and agencies, then the argument is quite weak which holds that funds for salary increases should be raised by the District as in the case of cities enjoying independence and the budget responsibilities which go with it.

Rather, Congress should have given the District workers the increase without a murmur, since the lawmakers found fit to give it to Federal workers. It is indeed a paradox when one quasi-branch of the Government (voteless District of Columbia) is asked to raise money for salary increases and the other branches are not.

Transformed Party

As a Negro voter, I was prepared to go Republican last week. Today, I'm not so sure. It's not that I think the Democrats can win; it's the way that opposition to Southern die-hards made me feel. It's the way people near the microphone at the convention told the gentleman from Alabama goodby when he bade them farewell. It's the way someone explained why there was no answer to the roll call: "Mississippi's gone home." It isn't even what I think the Democratic Party is at the moment; it's what it showed Wednesday afternoon that it is capable of becoming.

The trouble with the South is that it lives in the past. Like my aunt in Alabama says when she thinks your dress is not becoming, "Looks like South before the War." I've been in the South all my life, and know Southern whites as well as they think they know Negroes, but even I did not believe they would let the Democratic Party walk into the twentieth century and leave them holding a cardboard Confederate flag that came apart in the parade.

Alice In Financeland

The Red Queen looked up from the morning papers, chortling to herself. "Well," she chortled, "he's done it again."

"Who has done what again," asked Alice.

"Livingston," said the Red Queen, hardly bothering to acknowledge such a stupid question.

"Livingston?" chimed in the Mad Hatter. "Who on earth is he?"

"He's only the best writer on the paper, that's all," snorted the Red Queen.

"Ho-ho ho-ho," ho-hoed the Mad Hatter. "Listen to this, will you? They've got people named Folliard and Kuhn and Albright—anybody who's nearsighted enough to be able to read a by-line knows that. But don't try to tell us they've got a Livingston. There's no room. No room," he shouted.

"The trouble with you," the Red Queen said haughtily, "is that you're front-page mad, Hatter. Mr. J. A. Livingston writes the financial column on Page 4B."

"Oh," said Alice with relief. "No wonder. I never get that far back in the paper. And I'm sure I would never read a financial column."

"Precisely," the Red Queen came back sharply. "Nobody ever reads a financial column. And ordinarily I wouldn't blame them. Financial columns are uniformly weary, stale, flat and unprofitable. They are composed by former gravediggers who have never entirely been able to escape from the sepulchral atmosphere of the mausoleum. Mr. Livington, on the other hand, is capable of more levity than the comics, more timeliness than the front-page gang and more urbanity than the political pundits. Such a combo in a financial writer is, I might say, not a little remarkable—and altogether delightful."

"May I be so bold as to inquire," inquired the incorrigible Walrus, "just why it was necessary to resurrect us in order to make so simple and tedious a point?"

"My dears," said the Red Queen, "if we are good enough for Mr. Livingston to use in, of all things, a financial column, we are good enough for, of all things, a letter to the editor."

Noisy Planes

No one in Alexandria can escape low-flying airplanes. Residents who complain seem to forget that they live beside one of the largest municipal airports in the country. The majority of planes belong to our national airlines. Their pilots are not dare-devils skimming over rooftops just for the thrill. They are dependable pilots mindful of safety. How else can they take off and land without flying low over Alexandria dwellings?

The noise is constant, but if we who live in Alexandria don't like it we had better move elsewhere. The National Airport is here to stay and to expand.

FRANCES HAWKES
Alexandria

On the low-flying score, other than helicopters the plane doesn't exist that can land or take off at a steep angle, therefore such operations must be at a relatively low-altitude glide or climb. However, sound is deceptive in gauging distance: what sounds like a plane skimming the rooftop is usually three or four hundred feet high.

Noise would seem to be capable of rectification. The practice of gunning the motor and "feathering the prop" is not necessary. Pilots and commanding officers of airfields could show more consideration if this were eliminated or held to a minimum. PHILIP D. BELL.

AAUW Autonomy Upheld

The decision given by the chief justice of the Federal District Court on July 16 denying the right of the national board of the American Association of University Women to expel the Washington branch from the association and upholding the branch in its interpretation of the national by-laws is of significance to many groups throughout the country besides university women.

Indirectly the decision delivers an effective blow to the specious theory that the end justifies the means; that if an objective appears desirable to a group, then the methods employed to attain that objective should not be too closely scrutinized. The decision points the moral that, regardless of the objective sought, any action taken by the officials of an organization must be in accordance with the constitution, the laws governing its incorporation and its own by-laws.

Specifically, the court states that the national board of the AAUW has no right to make or amend the by-laws of the association. That right is restricted to the national convention of the association. By implication this means that the present members of the national board may not place their own interpretation upon the national by-laws.

That is what was attempted when, in spite of the provision in the by-laws that in all matters concerning branch affairs the branches may make their own by-laws provided they do not conflict with those of the national, and in spite of the established practice of years giving the branches autonomy in the selection of their membership, the present national board officials read the interpretation they desired into the by-laws.

"Eligibility," they insisted, is the same as "admissibility." If a candidate holds an AAUW-approved degree from an AAUW-approved college, that is all that is necessary. And no branch may deny admission to such applicant regardless of her character, integrity, habits, even loyalty to the United States.

The Washington branch has throughout maintained that under the national by-laws the branches have the right to choose their members, and that the by-laws of the branch so specifying are not in conflict with those of the national association. The court opinion upholds them in this position.

The court further pronounces that under the laws of incorporation of the national association the officials of the national board have no authority to expel or penalize any branch. In attempting to expel the Washington branch from the association because it would not change its by-laws to conform to their erroneous interpretation of the national by-laws, the officials of the national board, according to the court opinion, exceeded their authority.

The decision is heartening to all who believe in local autonomy as the wholesome democratic American way of procedure, and who reject the argument that an objective, however desirable it may be in itself, justifies any deviation from the established, legal and constitutional methods.

ETHEL M. JOHNSON.

Nationalism Block

Too many people take the attitude that internationalism borders on the unpatriotic. To take an objective view is difficult for such people. They are emotionally blocked by nationalism.

In a recent issue of the Rosicrucian Digest appeared the following statement on this very important subject:

"The first step is for all those countries whose ideals purport to be democratic to strive for the abolition of nationalism and the integration of physical and economic resources. If we are sincere in desiring to attain world peace, the sacrifice of nationalism will be made. If nationalism, local history, and customs, are more efficacious in influencing us, then we are doomed to world catastrophe. The axiom: 'Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall,' is ever true."

It is very encouraging to note that both platforms of the two political parties evidence a high standard in this respect.

Middle-Class Jeopardy

By Malvina Lindsay

Inflation Sabotage

THE BROWN family, whose income is around $4500 a year, is not in such a dramatic inflation plight as the Smiths, who receive less than $2000. But what is happening to the Browns holds particular social peril for the Nation as it is symbolic of how the high cost of living is undermining the solid, home-owning, school-going, money-saving middle class.

The entire group to which the largely fixed-salaried Browns belong has suffered a setback since 1939 relatively greater than that of other groups. It has not shared in war's profits, nor to any adequate extent in war and postwar wage gains. Its small savings of 1939 have now shrunk in value almost a half.

Hence the Browns' economies are showing up in a way that is likely to be costly to the country later. For one thing, their cherished dream of a home of their own is probably deferred. They will remain "for awhile" with the floating population that expects to have a home some day, and frequently doesn't. The nest egg they had accumulated before the war doesn't look like much of a down payment now on $10,000-and-up houses. Perhaps the Browns will never have the intimate stake in Government and in the American private enterprise economy that home ownership brings.

THE BROWNS have already stopped buying E bonds. They and others like them are responsible for the recent decline in E bond sales even while a savings bond campaign was in progress. What is worse, the Browns are losing their will to save. "What's the use?" is the constant refrain among their associates. Many of their friends are developing a hopeless feeling about "ever getting ahead" since bills seem to get bigger each month. Some of the Browns' friends are even losing their backbone to the extent of declaring they're "just going to spend and borrow today and stand in the breadline with everybody else tomorrow."

As bills have mounted the Browns have put off seeing the doctor and dentist. Now nothing short of a major illness would induce them to seek medical aid. Since, unlike the Smiths, they are not eligible to go to free clinics, they are just "letting everything go" for a while.

The Browns, like most other families, are still eating fairly well, as food is the last item on which they can cut. But with the food dollar worth only about 47 cents compared to prewar they can't eat so well as they should. Besides they have to spend more on clothing proportionately than do the Smiths who wear work garments. And the clothing dollar is now worth only 51 cents.

AT THAT, however, the Browns have cut down substantially on clothing. Hence the decline in sales of middle-price merchandise in stores. In big cities particularly, only the very low and very high priced clothing is selling well—one reason being that people like the Browns recognize the deterioration in quality of garments which is a part of inflation. Naturally Mrs. Brown is one of the estimated 23 million women now making their own clothes.

The Brown children now have no prospect of going to college and it is getting increasingly harder to keep the oldest boy from quitting high school and getting a job, as many of his young associates are doing. The Browns never buy a book any more though they have bookish tastes. They have stopped most of their magazine subscriptions. The pinch of living and the increased household drudgery of Mrs. Brown are causing the Brown home gradually to lose evidence of its intellectual and artistic aspirations.

The Browns, of course, are much better off than their counterpart anywhere else in the world. They suffered no immediate human losses in war and for that they are grateful. Nor do they sullenly gripe about their money troubles and blame some nebulous "they" for their frustrations. But an attitude of discouraged fatalism is creeping into their thinking and acting. It is eating away at their pride and ther ambition. It could destroy a vital intangible in American life if economic and political leaders continue a do-nothing policy about inflation.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

The Risk

"IN THAT brown manila envelope," remarked one of the makers of American foreign policy, "I have six different plans for dealing with the Berlin crisis. And every one of them of necessity involves the risk of war." It is hard to believe that war is now a serious possibility—the mind refuses to accept it. Yet everyone in a position to know the facts, from President Truman and Secretary of State George Marshall on down, is grimly aware that the Russian blockade of Berlin might lead to war before next winter.

This terrible fact is underlined by the dispatch a few days ago of 60 B-29 bombers to England. This means simply that the situation is now considered so serious that the American trump must be readily available for use against the Soviet ace, and the Soviets must know that it is available.

The Soviet ace is of course the fact that the Red army can, at the word of command from the Kremlin, fight to the shores of the Atlantic. The American trump (by reason of our unpreparedness a far less decisive trump than most people imagine) is the capacity to strike at the vitals of the Soviet economy with long-range bombers. By reason of its huge army, the Soviet Union is always potentially in a position to make war. And the United States, because of Berlin, is now beginning to move into a war position.

THIS DOES not mean that anyone in a position of authority wants war, or believes that war is inevitable. It does mean that the Americans and the British (the French, by reason of their exposed position are naturally hesitant) have made certain crucial decisions.

The Anglo-Americans have decided that a retreat from Berlin under the blockade threat would be wholly disastrous and would in time lead inevitably to war. Therefore we will not leave Berlin, at least while the Soviet pistol is pointed at our heads. This in turn entails the certainty of some sort of showdown with the Russians this summer, since the air lift operation is purely a temporary expedient. It is hoped and believed that this showdown will lead to a general settlement, which will allow the western nations to get on with the job of building a free and prosperous Atlantic community. But it is recognized that the showdown may conceivably lead to war.

The decision not to retreat, at least as far as the Americans and British are concerned, is wholly firm. Yet no firm decision has been taken, despite the constant humming of the wires between the three western capitals, on the specific course of action which the western Allies should pursue. One course, consisting of five separate steps, has, been seriously discussed.

STEP 1. The Western reply to the Soviet note will be delivered soon after the end of the Brussels five-nation conference. It will take a firm line, but it will not close the door to further negotiation, subject only to the proviso that we cannot negotiate while the blockade is in force.

Step 2. If the blockade is not lifted, the Soviet action will be referred to the Security Council as a threat to peace. The Security Council will order the blockade lifted.

Step 3. If the Soviets veto, an emergency meeting of the General Assembly will be called. The Western allies will place the case before the Assembly and announce their decision to supply blockaded Berlin by whatever means may be necessary. Support for this decision by the Assembly will presumably be forthcoming.

Step 4. We shall then notify the Russians that an armored train or truck convoy will depart from the western zone at a specified date with the mission of supplying Berlin. This step has already been informally discussed between General Lucius Clay and British General Sir Brian Robertson, and between American Ambassador to London Lewis Douglas and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. Contrary to reports, however, it has not been advanced as an immediate move, but only as a last resort if such preliminary moves as those outlined above fail.

Step 5. If the Russians have maintained their blockade through this whole series of steps, the convoy will be ordered to proceed on its fateful mission.

THIS PLAN is tentative, particularly points 4 and 5. No plan has as yet been finally decided upon. Something quite different may yet be evolved, especially because of French hesitations. Yet that some such plan is being seriously discussed is in itself illuminating. For there is no disguising the great risks involved. The greatest risk springs simply from the fact that the Soviets might refuse to retreat in the face of this sort of pressure, not because they want war, but simply because the loss of face would be too public and too humiliating.

The real problem for the makers of Western policy, as one of the wisest of them sees it, is two-pronged. One prong is somehow to persuade the Russians that we do not want war, but that we will be forced out of Berlin only at the cost of war. The second prong is to give the Russians some means of relatively graceful retreat.

For despite evidence to the contrary, most of the experts are still convinced that the Russians do not want to fight.

They point to reliable intelligence reports which indicate that no real Russian preparations have as yet been made for war in the immediate future; no Soviet forward stockpiles are being built up, no troops are being maneuvered into position for an advance to the west. That is the only shaft of light in a situation of otherwise unrelieved darkness.

3 Cities Back Pan Am Plea For U. S. Domestic Air Routes

Three important port cities argued today in support of domestic routes for Pan American Airways, while domestic airlines opposed any further competition in the travel market.

It was the second day of final argument before the Civil Aeronautics Board in the 41-month-old case. The next step normally is a decision.

Pan American seeks eight basic domestic routes linking cities which are terminals for its overseas routes. The airline now operates only internationally. A CAB examiner has recommended one route—Miami to New York—which would link Pan American's Latin American and Atlantic divisions.

Wilbur La Roe, Washington counsel for the New York Port Authority, told the board there is now no single plane service by a United States airline from New York to South America, Australia or New Zealand.

Says Travel Would Jump

He estimated 6000 to 12,000 persons would travel between New York and Australia and New Zealand by air each year if direct service were available.

San Francisco and Seatle joined New York in support of Pan-American's proposal, asserting they need direct service to Europe and South America.

Charles Murchison, counsel for Capital Airlines, said 22 per cent of his company's traffic would be diverted if Pan American gets the routes it asks. The domestic carriers have been laboriously building up the route pattern for nearly 25 years, he said, and now Pan American wants to fly over it with blue-ribbon nonstop service.

Harrison Tweed of New York, counsel for Pan American-Grace Airways (Panagra), which is jointly owned by Pan American Airways and W. R. Grace Steamship Co., said the amount of diversion likely under the proposal "is scarcely enough to frighten a mouse."

Tweed said Panagra's "major interest is that its passengers may have single-plane service to New York." This would be possible by extension of an interchange agreement under which Panagra flies Pan American's route from Panama to Miami. Pangara's normal northern terminus is Panama.

The lawyer said the domestic air lines "are willing that the international air pattern of the United States should suffer and the foreign airlines grow rich" to protect their "private preserve" on the Miami-New York route.

Ernest V. Moore of Washington, speaking for Delta Airlines, said permitting Pan American to fly over its routes would be ruinous to Delta.

The domestic air route pattern should not be destroyed, Moore said, "just because of a decision of the United States Government to break up the subsidized international monopoly of Pan American World Airways."

(He referred to the award of international routes to domestic carriers over Pan American's protest in 1945.)

Richard S. Maurer of Memphis, speaking for Chicago and Southern Airlines, said Pan American's proposal "would absolutely blanket" his company's routes.

He said that 90 per cent of the traffic Pan American would get would be diverted from Chicago and Southern, representing a loss of $850,000 a year to C. and S.

Off The Record

German Reactions In Berlin

THE STRUGGLE now going on in Berlin is defined in the news in terms of naked power. Almost nothing is said about an element that may actually weigh as heavy in the scales as the hundreds of planes that are keeping open a precarious link with the west.

Childs

That element is the extraordinary courage of the Germans in Berlin and particularly the courage of the Social-Democratic leaders who refused to surrender to Nazism and now are defying another organized tyranny. They have rejected all blandishments while at the same time have stood up to coercion and threats of terror and torture.

These men and women can have no illusions. They have been through the political wars. They have known the barbarism of the twentieth century in its most terrible forms. And they know that failure of the Western powers to hold the bastion of Berlin would mean death or slave-labor camps for thousands upon thousands.

One of the major weaknesses of this country's German policy is the failure to work with these people on a realistic basis. That failure may have a greater bearing on the final outcome than is realized here.

According to reports reaching Washington, the Russians may be planning the kind of coup that would be difficult or impossible to combat. There are indications that they may use German Communists trained in their sector to seize power from the non-Communist Germans in the sectors held by the Western powers.

SUCH A coup would present the Western allies with a most awkward dilemma. To prevent the seizure of power they would have to intervene in what would seem to be a German civil war. Such intervention would create far-reaching difficulties, if indeed it were possible at all.

Complicating this threat is the fact that the German police administration, which theoretically unifies police authority in the sectors of the four nations, has been rigged by the Communists. American authorities apparently failed to see the significance in this setup.

The police several times recently have allowed Communists to surround non-Communist political meetings. On one such occasion Social-Democratic leaders were trapped inside a hall while outside thousands of Communists screamed "traitor" and threatened momentarily to break in.

At the height of the rioting, one of the trapped leaders managed to telephone to an American who had shown a friendly interest. The American promptly telephoned to United States military authorities to urge that a rescue party be sent to the hall. The buck was passed from one office to another until it was finally decided that the Americans had no authority to intervene. Pressure, however, was put on the Berlin police and, reluctantly, they dispersed the Communist bands. The non-Communists then left the hall without fear of being molested.

THIS IS a small-scale example of what carefully trained Communist stooges might do in Berlin. Willing and even eager stooges are available, among them many former Nazis who are familiar with the techniques of street fighting and assassination.

The machine of American military occupation operates on a level far above the German people. Between the two there is at best a formal relationship defined by orders, directives, memoranda. The Army mind at the top is simply not geared to an understanding of the intangibles involved in the fierce political currents that are boiling so close to the surface in Germany.

The weakness exemplified in Germany is by no means confined to that trouble zone. It extends throughout our policy abroad. It is primarily a failure to understand the needs and desires and hopes of people as distinguished from governments.

In the long tradition of United States foreign policy, United States diplomats' chief responsibility was to establish good relations with the government in power in the country to which they were assigned. That is not enough today. Such an attitude leaves the door wide open for Communism.

One of the vital considerations in the American position in Berlin is the reaction of millions of Germans who accepted at face value the assurances that the western powers would stay. An emergency plan is ready under which some 2000 Germans—Social-Democratic and other leaders—would be removed from Berlin in the event that the West is forced to surrender this island outpost. But that would not cushion the shock—and the shock, it should be added, would not be confined to Germany. It would be felt throughout the world.

Fire in Home Of CIO Aide Held Arson

Charleston, W. Va., July 20 (AP).—State police termed as "deliberate arson" today the destruction by fire of the home of a CIO official of the strike-troubled Belle plant of the E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.

Trooper B. E. Barker of the South Charleston State police detachment said the blaze in the six-room home of Oliver H. Rohrig "appears to have been deliberately set." Rohrig was identified as a CIO steward who had continued to work.

A strike called by United Mine Workers District 50 has been in progress at the DuPont plant since July 12.

During the early part of it, violence occurred at the plant gates and Governor Meadows ordered the State police assembled in large numbers to maintain order.

Meanwhile, Meadows announced that representatives of both DuPont and District 50 have asked that conferences be resumed tomorrow looking to a settlement of the dispute.

Barker said that Rohrig, a son and daughter were asleep at the home, located at Campbells Creek, near Charleston, and the arsonists threw stones at the flaming house to awaken the occupants.

Ford-UAW Parleys To Continue Today

Detroit, July 20 (AP).—The Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers ended the first of their new stop-strike wage talks today with no sign of having reached an agreement.

Meeting for five hours after a six-day halt in the negotiations, both sides left the session with a terse "no comment." They agreed, however, to meet again at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

When the session broke up union negotiators went into a private and unexplained conference—possibly to discuss the setting of a strike date.

Strike action has already been approved by the union's 116,000 Ford workers and by its international executive board.

There were none of the usual prestrike signs, however, among the unionists. UAW sources said work on preparing picket details and soup kitchens had not begun.

Wage Fight Closes Harvester Plant

Canton, Ill., July 20 (AP).—The International Harvester Co. plant closed down today, after a CIO picket line was set up in a dispute over wage schedules. About 3200 employes were idle.

The company said the principal issue was the hour of day the workers should receive their wages. The CIO United Farm Equipment Workers Union asked that payment be made before the men reported for work Fridays. The company, asserting that this system resulted in 30 per cent absenteeism on that day, has been making payments at the end of the work day.

Ship Firms Ask Payment for Strike Damage

By The Associated Press

An employer group asked the National Labor Relations Board yesterday to require the National Maritime Union to pay the losses the firms suffered in a strike.

In the same hearing the NMU's hiring hall came under attack and defense. The hiring hall, through which union members get job preference, was the main issue in the one-month Great Lakes strike for which the shipping firms asked compensation.

Union insistence on maintaining the hiring halls also was the ground on which the employers classed the strike as illegal, making it the basis of their damage claim.

The strike was ended by court injunction on June 14, one day before the NMU and six other unions were restrained from a similar walkout on the Atlantic, Pacific, and Gulf coasts.

NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham has contended that the hiring hall is a form of the closed shop which the Taft-Hartley Act outlaws.

NLRB Trial Examiner Howard Myers upheld the general counsel, saying that the NMU refused to bargain with four oil tanker companies on the Great Lakes when it insisted on retaining the 12-year-old hiring hall system. The carriers said the system was illegal.

The idea that the union should pay for losses due to an illegal strike was advanced by Minier Sargent, Chicago attorney representing three shipping firms. Sargent said the NMU walkout was in violation of contract.

The company attorney said the board for years had required employers to pay back wages to workers found to have been illegally discharged. Under the same reasoning, he argued, unions should be forced to pay for illegal activities.

Examiner Myers had ruled there was nothing in the labor laws authorizing the board to require unions to pay such damages.

Herman Rosenfeld, NMU lawyer, said the board never had required employers to pay unions' damages for losses in union dues or weakening of union power resulting from employers actions. Only individual workers have been reimbursed, he said.

Rosenfeld told the board that the union itself would be destroyed by wiping out the hiring hall system.

He said that Congress in 1872 had had to enact laws to protect seamen from being kidnapped on board vessels. He said sailors shudder at thought of the "shanghai" and the "shape-up" by which they were forced to work or were picked out by a boss who favored them over others just as capable.

"Even employers say the hiring hall is sound," Rosenfeld said. During years of "free hiring" all sorts of "ignominy and indignities were forced upon potential seamen who wanted work," he said.

The President's Calling List

On the Town

THE REASONS for poor business in a night club or restaurant are many and varied. If the owners could put their finger on the real reason for customers staying away in droves there'd be a lot more restaurants in the world . . . The only proven method to improve business is to have enough money to hold your cash register above the waters of financial ruin while you experiment with first one thing and then another until you finally hit on the secret.

Not long ago there was a case of that in town. The business at Olmsted's wasn't quite what the owners wanted it to be. They weren't on the brink of financial disaster or anything near it, but the national restaurant slump had hurt and then along came the usual summer dip. The Messrs. Brahms and Mitchell took stock of their kitchen to confirm their belief in the quality of the food. When that fear was dispelled they took stock of the service and found it to their satisfaction.

Then they called in decorator Isabelle Karekin, a local woman who had done wonders with the Mexican and Cuban embassies. It didn't take Isabelle long to decide that the whole place should undergo a major face-lifting.

After plans had been drawn up, colors and materials picked, the problem was whether to close the place for a couple of weeks while the workmen threw their paint or to do it at night. The latter was decided on. All this started about four weeks ago. Each night after closing the white overhauls took over until dawn. Now after much worry, some frayed nerves and no little expense, Olmsted's is equipped with the new look.

Those of you who have visited the place before the redecoration remember it as a rather gloomy place. You should see it now. The front part has been done in a jungle green with nautical drapes in the windows. . . The main part of the restaurant is panelled in a bleached oak and has a new sound-proof yellow ceiling to give more light and less noise. In fact about the only reminders of the old Olmsted's is the world map mural on one wall and the plaques for the original 13 States around the walls. The outside of the building has been painted white with green trim and flowerboxes. In another week or two the whole front of the building will be lighted by hidden searchlights.

Among the new things are the silver, linen, sizzling steak and seafood platters and a new strawberry cake topped with rum flavored whipped cream that's very easy on the palate.

THE Lotus show for this week consists of pert Betty Sawyer, an up-and-coming tapster with a cute personality. The three Bentons are an acrobatic team of youth with experience. They toss each other around in a manner that gets a hand from the audience. Kajar is the mystery end of the show with a routine of explaining some of the older tricks, somewhat like teaching a duck to swim. The explanation usually has a twist at the end gauged to leave the audience guessing. Hmmmm.

Conversation about a recently arrived musical trio overheard at a table. "Why don't they do their practicing at home?"

County Heads Defer Zoning Problems

Means of enforcing zoning regulations "winked at during the war emergency" were discussed yesterday at a conference between the Prince Georges County Commissioners, the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission and other interested agencies at Upper Marlboro, Md.

Following more than two hours of discussion, the County Commissioners announced they would take the matter under consideration and announce later whether a committee would be named to work out methods of enforcing the zoning laws, as Montgomery County has done.

The Montgomery County Commissioners and interested agencies decided last week to name a five-man committee to work out proposals to be submitted by September 15.

William A. Carson, president of the Prince Georges Board, said few complaints had been received concerning zoning violations. He indicated his board was reluctant to start any widespread campaign against violators. It was brought out that the planning commission will be ready to present the recently completed zoning ordinance and planning map to the commissioners next week and that provisions for enforcement are contained in this new ordinance.

J. Bond Smith, general counsel of th planning commission, opened the meeting by explaining that his body had instructed him to present the situation to the commissioners for action. The county commissioners are charged with legislative and executive functions in zoning matters. The park and planning commission is merely an advisory body, he reminded.

Mayor Harry A. L. Barker of Riverdale said he had begun a campaign to clean up zoning violations, but added: "You can't turn these people into the street."

Penalty for violation of the zoning ordinance is a $100 fine.

Approximately 50 persons attended the hearing, many of them representing incorporated towns and civic groups. A number said they had been told the new zoning ordinance hearing was to be held at this meeting, which was erroneous. A public hearing will be announced after the new ordinance is presented to the commissioners.

State's Attorney John Briscoe and Tell W. Nicolet, secretary and technical advisor of the St. Marys County Planning and Zoning Committee, attended the conference.

In other business prior to the conference, the commissioners voted to send the four county road supervisors to a special course in tree surgery and care and give them charge of this work in the county. A. J. Pickall, district forester for Southern Maryland, will instruct the road men.

Defrauder of 138 Area Veterans Seeks Parole

George H. Williams, 38, real estate dealer, jailed on mail fraud and bad check convictions, will appear today before the District Parole Board on his petition for release from Lorton Reformatory.

He completed four months confinement of a 4 to 18 months' prison term on July 11 on the charges which stemmed from complaints of defrauding 138 Washington area veterans of $98,000 in down payments for new houses.

Williams will be among 40 prisoners scheduled to plead their cases before the three-man parole board in closed session which begins at 9:30 a. m. today at the reformatory.

Also appearing before the board will be Bernard P. Nimro, tax consultant, who was convicted of embezzling $2628 from Loy Henderson, new United States Ambassador to India. Nimro was sentenced on March 12 to serve three months to one year on the charge of larceny after trust.

Boykin to Direct Sesquicentennial Plans for Capital

The appointment of Edward Boykin of Charlottesville, Va., as director of the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission was announced yesterday by Carter Barron, executive vice chairman of the commission.

Boykin, a radio commentator and conductor of a radio program on American history, was formerly executive secretary of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission.

Barron said the commission will organize the historical, educational, governmental, industrial and entertainment phases of the sesquicentennial celebrations to be held in 1950, enlist active national interest in the event, and create a sesquicentennial plan for presentation to Congress.

City Heads Deny Request to Drop Dog Inoculation

The Commissioners yesterday denied a request that they rescind their order for compulsory inoculation of District dogs against rabies.

They took the action after Health Officer George C. Ruhland forwarded a memorandum from Dr. James G. Cumming, chief of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, who denied charges that the vaccination program is "useless . . . totally ineffective . . . expensive."

The charges were made before the Commissioners July 13 by Robert W. McMillan, attorney representing some 50 area residents.

Dr. Cumming declared that "following the vaccination July and August, 1945, there was an immediate and decided decrease in the number of rabid dogs."

AMERICAN AIRLINES

True for years—and truer than ever today—

More people buy CHEVROLETS than any other make of car!

More Value in BIG-CAR COMFORT

Yes, Chevrolet gives you still more value in comparison with other automobiles today than at any time in the past. The results are finer, and the prices outstandingly lower, than those of any other car that approaches it in quality. For example Chevrolet and Chevrolet alone, of all cars in its field, brings you the Big-Car riding-luxury of the original and outstanding Unitized Knee-Action Ride—unmatched for proved comfort and safety—found elsewhere only in higher-priced cars.

More Value in BIG-CAR PERFORMANCE

Your appreciation of Chevrolet's value-leadership will mount when your own tests prove that it's as far ahead in performance with economy as it is in comfort. This car gives Big-Car road-action, Big-Car reliability, Big-Car endurance, at small-car cost. Chevrolet alone, of all cars in its field, has a world's champion Valve-in-Head engine—holder of all records for miles served and owners satisfied—embodying the same basic Valve-in-Head principle featured in costlier cars.

More Value in BIG-CAR BEAUTY

You like to be perfectly sure of the beauty of your motor car; and for graceful and tasteful beauty in every line and contour, in every fixture and fabric, the outstanding leader is Fisher. It's the emblem of extra-fine coachcraft—the emblem you will find on Chevrolet. This car alone, of all cars in its field, brings you the Big-Car beauty and luxury as well as the Big-Car strength and solidity of Body by Fisher, for Chevrolet shares this finer body only with higher-priced cars.

More Value in BIG-CAR SAFETY

Naturally, you want maximum safety for your family, and here again the choice is Chevrolet. For Chevrolet alone, of all cars in its field, brings you the triple protection of Fisher Unisteel Body-Construction, the Unitized Knee-Action Ride and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes—another combination of features found only in more costly cars. Small wonder, then, that more people buy Chevrolets than any other make, and that they advise you to choose Chevrolet, too!

Screen La Tosca Pure Melodrama

By Richard L. Coe

PUCCINI, the opera man, had a stunning sense of the human and dramatic when it came to choosing plots for his music. Plays were his most reliable mine, and his librettists, Giacosa and Illica, drew on such dramatists of the popular theater as Alfred de Musset, Victorien Sardou and David Belasco.

Sardou, whose works you still find in the national spoken theaters of France, gave Puccini his most theatrical story, "La Tosca." From Sardou's play and with lean sprinklings from the opera's score, the Italians have filmed "The Story of Tosca," which opens this morning at the Dupont.

It's good, juicy melodrama, played in the grand style. Operamanes will find it particularly interesting so long as they don't go expecting to find their favorite as Puccini conceived it. The film fills in a good many parts of the opera where either the music or the recitatives relate at second hand—and in the librettists' language—what may have piqued one's curiosity. The result is a story of passion, intrigue and jealousy which will be handy to have in mind next time one hears the opera.

Speaking personally (I wouldn't dream of infringing on Mr. Hume), I've always found Puccini's Sacristan a garrulous bore, and in the film he's reduced to a few long shots. The story gets under way, not in the Attavanti chapel, but at the Castel San Angelo where Count Angelotti is making his escape as a political prisoner of the Roman state at the time of Napoleon's Italian push in 1800. Not until the prisoner seeks a hiding place in his family's chapel do we come upon Cavaradossi, Puccini's painter-hero.

"THE STORY OF TOSCA." Scalera-Era (Italy) production. Based on Victorien Sardou's five-act drama, "La Tosca." Background music and aries from the opera by Puccini. Photographed by Ubaldo Arata. Directed by Carlo Koch. At the Dupont.

THE CAST

Floria Tosca ..... Imperio Argentina
Scarpia ..... Michel Simon
Mario Cavaradossi ..... Rossano Brazzi
Marchese Attavanti ..... Carla Candiani
Angelotti ..... Adriano Rimoldi
Voices heard in the arias: Ferruccio Tagliavini and Mafalda Favero

And we see Floria Tosca, Rome's well-courted singer, for the first time not meeting her lover, but parrying with her powerful patron Scarpia. She is drawn into the political fracas not by any immediate ideological or romantic impulse but purely by her own jealousy. When Scarpia shrewdly baits her jealously with a fan, part of the escaped prisoner's disguise, Tosca leads Scarpia to her lover, who is hiding the man at his cottage.

Tagliavini Sings Arias

The film permits, too, an immediacy of action Sardou's limited stage equipment didn't allow. In the way of those who fear freedom in others, Scarpia tricks Tosca into disclosing the prisoner's hiding place. Then the film gives us that dramatic scene of the opera, Scarpia's lying promise to have blanks used for the painter's execution, his sensual attack on Tosca and her effective use of his knife.

The end comes quickly. Far more clearly than in the opera house one follows Tosca's horror as she discovers the dead Scarpia's duplicity and her suicidal dive off the parapet of San Angelo.

Theatrical, melodramatic? It certainly is, and shrewd theatricality, at that, with the characters' impassioned urges broadly drawn. The Puccini music is used in a purposefully limited way—the crashing chords of the opera's opening, the "Vissi d'arte" theme and "E lucevan le stelle," with Mafalda Favero and Tagliavini to sing them on the sound track.

Roman Scenes Effective

Quite apart from the parallels with recent Italian history of which the introduction makes much, further drama comes from the reality of settings: the Roman streets, the Tiber bridges, the San Angelo and the old church give heightened drama to a film that is theatrical to its ultimate shot.

(No, this has nothing to do with another Italian film, "Before Him All Rome Trembled," in which the Tosca story was paralleled with the Fascist regime.)

The cast is effective and the English subtitles completely clear.

"GOING NATIVE" auditions find Director Gene Ford cool, collected as ever . . . This year there are about 750 applications for spots in the revue and Gene vows he'll hear all of them by the end of Thursday night . . . The revue opens August 26.

Man Who Hurled Girl From Viaduct Indicted

Cincinnati, July 20 (AP).—The Hamilton County grand jury returned a first-degree murder indictment today against Harry Herbert Robertson, 33, of Richmond, Va., charged with the slaying of 8-year-old Patricia Jackson.

The child was hurled 60 feet to her death from the Western Hills viaduct last Friday. Detective Chief Clem Merz said Robertson, a former mental patient in a Veterans Administration hospital, had admitted throwing the girl from the viaduct.

Umpire McGowan Suspended on Nats' Complaint

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

The last action a major league president wants to take is a public crack-down on an umpire and so Will Harridge's heavy-handed suspension of Bill McGowan implies that McGowan is deep in trouble with the league brass.

POVICH

Umpires have been called on the carpet before. Their conduct and their habits have been the subject of many a call-down by the league head. But those were always star chamber sessions and official secrets. Not within memory of this bureau's two-decade observation of the major league scene has any umpire been stripped of his uniform pending an investigation.

Complaints against umpires are almost routine. In the course of a season, dozens are lodged with Harridge and his National League contemporary, Ford Frick. Club owners and players are always squawking about umpires and making formal protests with charges. If the umpires were not always exonerated, at least their punishment was not made public. The significant note here seems to be that McGowan has been suspended pending investigation, not after it. Before the whole story is weighed he gets the toss merely on the complaint of the Washington club.

The reluctance of the baseball brass to get tough with umpires publicly is a heritage from the regime of Ban Johnson, first president of the American League. He is credited with raising the umpires' lot to new dignity. It was his all-out backing of his umpires in disputes with players and owners that eventually suppressed much of the rowdyism associated with baseball in the early years of the century.

Backing his umpires was a passion with Johnson. His every successor to the American League presidency has found that tack to be not only expedient but excellent. Umpires, as long as they were competent, had a wonderful security in their jobs. The only other requisite was honesty. They could get away with murder in a modified form. Their reports in any dispute were always first to reach the club president and there is no record of an umpire getting fired because of a dispute.

Thus it is the more startling that Harridge has given McGowan the works before making an investigation of the incidents contained in the Washington club. He may restore McGowan to full duty after the probe but that does not obscure the fact that Harridge considers the charges against him sufficient to take an action that is always repugnant to a league head.

One thing can be said for a certainty. When Harridge did crack down, he wasn't deterred by the fact that Bill McGowan is his best umpire. Even McGowan's scalp-seekers acknowledge that. He covers far above his contemporaries in his skill at calling 'em either from the bases or behind the plate. There are fewer squawks against his decisions than against those of any other umpire for the plain reasons he makes fewer mistakes.

But even as McGowan is acclaimed as the best umpire, it is widely agreed also that he is the most irritable. It's not McGowan's decisions on plays that have produced the squawks against him, but his irascible reactions to criticism, his fondness for showing scorn toward any disputant and his chip-on-shoulder and swaggering approach to every argument.

It is significant that Manager Joe Kuhel and the Washington club didn't base their beefs on any plays called by McGowan, but charged that he abused Washington players, cussed out Pitcher Early Wynn and Outfielder Ed Stewart, and also threw a ball at Stewart in a fit of petulance. There was no complaint with him when he was simply doing the umpire's job of calling 'em as he saw 'em. But that latter duty apparently does not include calling all players what he thinks of 'em.

McGowan is the oldest umpire now in service in either league. This is his twenty-fourth season in the American. At 19, he was an official umpire in the Virginia State League. At 23, he was so superb in the International League the majors grabbed him. Paradoxically, Clark Griffith who is citing him now, helped McGowan get appointment in the majors in 1925 after watching him officiate in Florida camp games.

At the World Series of 1939, McGowan received a tribute from the National League that was notable. As the plate umpire, he worked the first game of that series. It was a 2-1 pitching duel in which Charley Ruffing edged out Paul Derringer, Cincinnati Reds' ace. The beaten Derringer as he left the field went to the plate and shook McGowan's hand and said: "You didn't miss a pitch and that was the best-called game I ever worked in."

But this isn't the first time that McGowan has been in the American League doghouse. Complaints of his actions put him in such bad odor at one point that he was denied appointment to the profitable World Series umpiring job for a stretch of several years. But he was never suspended before. This time, somebody is real mad at him.

Bosox Win, 8-3; Yanks Flounder

Boston, July 20 (AP).—Right-hander Jack Kramer gave up seven hits, two of them homers, while gaining his eleventh win of the season and his ninth in a row today while the Boston Red Sox were sweeping a four-game series from the St. Louis Browns. The victory put Boston a single game behind the third-place New York Yankees.

The Sockers gave their stylish right-hander a 1-0 sendoff, but Les Moss lofted into the left field screen after Whitey Platt singled in the second frame. In the ninth, Don Lund hit into almost the same spot for his first American League four-bagger.

Lund went into left field in the seventh inning after Platt twisted an ankle while trying to make a shoelace catch.

The Sockers belted 11 hits for Kramer, including 4 doubles and a triple by Sam Mele. The most important extra-base blow was Birdie Tebbetts' two-bagger with the bases loaded in the fifth inning.

Tigers, Behind Trucks, Drop Yanks in 2-1 Duel

New York, July 20 (AP).—Virgil Trucks dropped the New York Yankees to within a single game of the fourth-place Boston Red Sox today as he hurled Detroit to a 2-1 edge in the odd game of their three-game series.

George Kell, who collected three of Detroit's eight hits off Allie Reynolds, doubled to start the game-winning rally in the ninth. With two out, Hoot Evers singled to left, scoring Kell with the tie-breaking run.

Barney Wins 1st Shutout

Chicago, July 20 (AP).—Rex Barney, 23-year-old Omaha, Nebr., fireballer, hurled his first major league shutout today, blanking the Chicago Cubs with seven hits while pitching Brooklyn to a 5-0 victory.

Reeling off his fourth straight win and sixth of the season, Barney walked only one man and struck out six of the lowly Cubs.

WHAT PRICE GLORY—Eighteen years ago Hack Wilson was the toast of baseball. He had hit 56 home runs to set a National League record when he played with the Chicago Cubs. Recently, Wilson, now 48, showed up in Baltimore and asked municipal authorities for "any kind of a job." He's shown here chatting with kids at a city swimming pool where he works

League-Leaders Humbled

Lowly Reds Launch Home Run Barrage to Beat Braves, 9-6

Cincinnati, July 20 (AP).—Home runs, accounting for six markers, turned the tide for the Cincinnati Reds today as they toppled the league-leading Boston Braves, 9-6, before a crowd of 3804.

A five-run outburst in the sixth inning, featuring Johnny Wyrostek's three-run homer, overcame an early Boston lead and three more counters in the seventh put the game on ice for the Reds. Ted Kluszewski's circuit blow scored two of the seventh-inning runs.

League to Investigate Charges by Joe Kuhel

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

On a complaint by the Washington Baseball Club that he had abused its players, Umpire William A. McGowan yesterday was suspended by Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Harridge notified Clark Griffith, president of the Nats, that he had taken the action against McGowan pending a complete investigation of the incidents which took place in Monday night's Cleveland-Washington game at Griffith Stadium.

McGowan was scheduled to work behind the plate for last night's finale between the Indians and Nats, but Umpire Ed Hurley was sent from Philadelphia to relieve him. McGowan resides in Silver Spring, Md.

The Washington club's complaint against McGowan was made to League President Harridge by long-distance telephone yesterday morning. Harridge's action followed a few hours later.

According to Nat Manager Joe Kuhel, who was ejected from Monday's game by Umpire Joe Paparella, friction between the Nats and McGowan started last Thursday here in a game between Washington and Chicago.

Charge Name-Calling

At that time, Kuhel said, McGowan threw his celluloid ball-and-strike indicator to the mound when Pitcher Ray Scarborough shook his head at several of McGowan's decisions.

On Monday night, Kuhel continued, McGowan, who was umpiring first base, made several uncomplimentary remarks to Scarborough, who was on the Nat bench.

Scarborough said McGowan called him a "bush ——."

Later, in the same ball game, McGowan cursed Outfielder Ed Stewart after the latter had been embroiled in an argument with Umpire Paparella over a play at home plate in which Stewart was called out.

The Nats' charges against McGowan included the complaint that he threw a ball at Stewart in addition to cursing him, but the outfielder was not a party to the ball-throwing charge. "I didn't see McGowan throw any ball," he said. "I was too busy arguing with Paparella at the time.

Stewart said he was returning to his position in the outfield when "McGowan called me names which I don't want to repeat. He also threatened to chase me out of the ball game and told me never to speak to him again, either on the field or off the field."

After the game, Stewart told Kuhel of his run-in with McGowan and said he asked his manager?

"Does an umpire have the right to curse me?"

"He does not," Kuhel said, "and he'll hear about it."

Kuhel Feared Trouble

Kuhel yesterday said he feared that the Scarborough-McGowan incident of last Thursday might lead to trouble and he followed Scarborough into the clubhouse after the game.

"Just as we reached our club-

BILL McGOWAN
Suspended Indefinitely

Flat Denial Is Made by Bill McGowan

Umpire Bill McGowan, "astounded" by his suspension by American League President Will Harridge on charges preferred by the Nats, last night flatly denied that he threw a ball at Outfielder Ed Stewart or cursed any Washington players.

"I might have mumbled a cuss-word to myself, but it wasn't directed at any players," said McGowan, who went into seclusion at his Highlands, Md., farm after learning of his suspension.

"The whole story astounds me," he said. "Whoever says I threw a ball at Stewart is a liar," added the umpire. "I did roll a ball across the diamond toward Umpire Art Paparella to hustle the game along, but I didn't throw it.

McGowan declined to comment on Harridge's action. "Mr. Harridge is running the league and all I ask is that I be dealt with fairly," he said.

"The worst thing I was guilty of was flipping my ball-and strikes indicator at Ray Scarborough when he was pitching and squawking about my decisions. He disputed at least 20 decisions and was inciting the crowd. I didn't throw the indicator at him. I merely flipped it halfway to the mound. I guess I shouldn't have done that."

According to McGowan, Scarborough visited with him after the game; "and these were no hard feelings."

Quantico Captures Loop Lead, Wins 14-4

The Quantico Marines took over sole possession of first place in the Middle Eastern Service Conference when they defeated Bolling Field, 14-4, yesterday on the losers' diamond. Phil Russo got three hits for the winners and Jim Pope pitched nine-hit ball and struck out 10 as he racked up the win.

Quantico now has a nine-won and two-lost record.

Satch's Pitches To Nats 'Illegal,' Rules Harridge

American League President Will Harridge ruled that the delivery of Cleveland's Negro righthander, Satchel Paige, was illegal.

Harridge ruled that Paige, when pitching with men on base, has been cranking up, pausing with his hands above his head while he fixed the ball in his glove, and then pitching.

Although there is no rule in the book governing this, Harridge told Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau that he had instructed umpires to call a balk on Paige if he did this in the future.

The Nats protested against Paige's delivery both times Satch pitched against them here, but were overruled by the umpires.

Cruickshank Cards Two 71s in England

Harrogate, England, July 20 (AP).—Bobby Cruickshank, Scottish-born American from Virginia, qualified for the North British Harrogate golf tournament today with a brace of 71's that gave him a 142 total.

Low qualifier was Fred Daly, the 1947 British Open champion, who added a 73 to his 65 of yesterday for a 36-hole score of 138.

Roberto Vicenzo of Argentina was next with 139. Norman von Nida of Australia wound up with 144 after being penalized two strokes for hitting his partner's ball.

Olympic Teams Don't 'Win', but U. S. May Be First

U. S. Has Biggest, Best-Fed Squad

By Bob Considine

(This is the third article in a series of six by Bob Considine—"Raising the Curtain" on the 1948 Olympic games.)

London, Eng., July 20 (INS).—If you can overlook the always startling fact that no nation ever "wins" or "loses" the Olympic games—Olympic rules frown on point-giving, so reporters made up their own system 24 years ago—The United States has its usual good chance of coming home first in the '48 games.

Bob Considine

We have the biggest team (341 men and women) excluding coaches and officials, the best-fed athletes and perhaps the best-trained. But—

If victory comes it will not be an easy one. We haven't had a set-up for years. As ever, our middle-distance and long-distance runners appear to be outclassed. Some U. S. college coaches are guarded about predicting victory in any flat race beyond 100 meters, but that would seem a pessimistic view except in the case of the 400-meter run, where Herbert McKenley is absolute king.

The American team will face stiffening competition in swimming. The high pump, usually a "lark" for the Americans, seems now to be pretty much conceded to Alan Paterson, a young Scot, but the Americans do not agree. The U. S. boxers are favorites in most of the divisions, as are U. S. crews and, of course, our basketball team.

Europeans never quite share the feeling at home that we are a great athletic nation. The very word "athletic" over here means track and field. We have made the Olympics reputations by winning the sprints, hurdles, broad jumping, high jumping and other events which call for a quick start and a tremendous expansion of energy over a short period.

Over here they like to call us "acrobats, not athletes." To the European mind, the classicism of the games does not begin until the distances stretch out beyond 800 meters and reach into the long distances, long heel-and-toe events and the lifting of

Thus the 1936 triumph of Jesse Owens in the 100 meter, 200 meter, 400 meter relay and running broad jump—(Owens set or helped to set records in every event, though his 10.3 seconds for the 100 meters was not allowed because of a following wind)—never gained as much attention in Europe as at home.

Europeans and most other nationalities were thrilled by Jack Lovelock's 1500-meter win. The

It's all in the outlook and in the very nature of the nationalities. We are products of a speeded-up culture; most of the others are not. After 19 Years

Brundage Plans to Quit Olympic Post

Aboard the S. S. America, July 20 (AP).—Avery Brundage, a storm center of amateur sports for years, says this is the last time he will lead United States forces into the Olympic games.

Brundage

The man, who has guided United States Olympic affairs for nearly 20 years and ridden out numerous controversies made the announcement last night as the bulk of America's 1948 team neared English port.

"It is generally understood," he said casually, "that I will not accept the presidency of the United States Olympic Association again.

"I think it's a good thing for the presidency to be passed around."

The announcement came as a complete surprise to the United States Olympic delegation, numbering more than 300 athletes and officials, on board this giant liner.

Brundage has held the Olympic post since 1929. He was elevated after the 1928 games at Amsterdam at which General Douglas MacArthur was the chief.

He has been reelected at every succeeding quadrennial meeting. The next is in 1950.

"They call me a dictator," he said today. "Every time I have been elected it was unanimously and I have been upheld unamiously in every matter except going to Berlin."

Brundage led a bitter fight to send the American team to Berlin in 1936 and won it. His foes argued Hitler was using the games for propaganda purposes.

Disembark Today

Aboard the S. S. America, July 20 (AP).—This luxury liner reached English waters tonight with more than 300 members of the United States Olympic team, all eager to disembark tomorrow morning and proceed to London for the games, which get under way a week from Thursday.

With a pleasant crossing behind it, the big ship was due to arrive at Southampton shortly after midnight but was not expected to dock until 8 a. m., local time.

Flag Bearer

Aboard the S. S. America, July 20 (AP).—Ralph C. Craig of Albany, N. Y., onetime University of Michigan sprint star who won both the 100 and 200-meter dashes in the 1912 Olympics, was selected today to carry the American flag in the opening parade at the 1948 Olympic games.

The United States Olympic Committee named the former track star to lead the United States team into London's Wembley Stadium July 29 in keeping with its policy of bestowing the honor on the oldest Olympian returning as a member of the current squad.

Craig made the 1948 squad as a member of the American yachting team.

Horse Shows Scheduled

Horse shows at Alexandria and Silver Spring will be the focal points for exhibitors of the local area this weekend.

On Saturday the Kiwanis Club of Alexandria will stage its sixth annual show at 1 p. m. at the Virginia Municipal Stadium. On Sunday the Silver Spring Pony and Junior Show will offer a full card of events for youngsters at the North End show ring on East-West Highway.

The Kiwanis Club Show lists a card of 15 classes, with classes scheduled for ponies, saddle horse, hunters, and jumpers, with the usual championships awarded in each division.

The Silver Spring event schedules 29 classes. The pony hunters, and jumpers will be divided into three divisions each for the small, medium, and large ponies. The juniors will have hunter and jumper divisions. Championship and reserve awards will be made to the top two entries in each division. For the purpose of this show riders in the very small pony division will be limited to the age of 13 years and under. The age limit for the rest of the classes will be 19 years and under.

Colts Already Losers; 2 Players Will Not Report

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—The Baltimore Colts of the All-America Football Conference "lost" two players today on the way to training camp at Sun Valley, Idaho.

General Manager Walter Driskill sent back word that Lamar Blount, an end on last year's team, and Alf Satterfield, a tackle surrendered to the Colts by the San Francisco '49ers, had decided at the last minute not to report.

The withdrawals still left 55 candidates due to report to Coach Cecil Isbell. And Driskil showed little disappointment.

"I'll ell you, very frankly, we're going to win the Eastern Division championship this fall," Driskill optimistically predicted. The Colts finished in the cellar last year.

Bug Juice Runs Second, Justice 4th

Monmouth, Park, N. J., July 20 (AP).—New York Athletic Club Day was celebrated at this track this afternoon and approximately 500 members of that organization and some 12,000 more fans saw Christiana Stable's Alexis lead all the way in the one mile and a sixteenth American Legion Post No. 754 Purse, fifth race.

The crowd made the right horse a slight favorite over Mrs. Andrew Schuttinger's Justice, which finished a tired fourth in the field of six.

Alexis, with Carson Kirk in the saddle was being driven to beat Bug Juice 1½ lengths. Bug Juice was a length ahead of Pilaster and the latter had a half length on Justice. High trend and Capt. Dorsett completed the field.

Alexis paid $4.80. He ran the one mile and sixteenth over a fast track in 1:44 2/5 one and one-fifth slower than the track mark which Justice equaled in his race before today.

It was Alexis' third straight victory this year and his total earnings are now $119,787.

Alexis first raced Capt. Dorsett into defeat going down the back stretch. Justice moved up to challenge the pacemaker before leaving the backstretch then he tired badly in the late stretch.

After Alexis had disposed of Dorsett and Justice he had enough left to withstand Bug Juice's stretch bid. Pilaster made up ground through the last 3 furlongs.

Captain Makes Tourney Ace

Capt. Charles L. Lineberry starred in the opening play of the Military District of Washington annual golf tournament at Rock Creek Golf Course today when he hit the cup on the fifth green (A Course) for a hole in one.

Capt. Lineberry used a No. 4 iron in scoring his ace on the 216-yard hole. Others in the foursome were M/Sergt. Arthur Butts, G. C. Colson and D. Roberts. Capt. Lineberry scored an 86. Sergeant Butts being low man with a 78.

Nearly a score of soldier golfers teed off in the first day of play of the tournament. Play will continue through Saturday. The MDW champion will be crowned after the tournament and a team will be selected to compete in the annual Army golf championships at Fort Lewis, Wash., next month.

Captain Lineberry, who is commanding officer of the 7001st Area Service Unit, South Post, Fort Myer, Va., hails from Burlington, N. C. He has been playing golf only about 20 months.

Miami Pilot Makes Debut at Lanham

Lloyd Christopher, Offenhauser pilot from Miami, Fla., last night entered the weekly seven-event midget car competition set for the West Lanham Speedway Friday night.

Christopher, a big winner on other major eastern tracks, will be making his 1948 debut at Lanham in a new racer.

The Miami speedster turned in several sparkling performances at Lanham a year ago, and was well out in front of the field in the 100-lap championship feature in late season when he blew a tire in the final stages of the race.

Mike Joseph, Ernie McCoy, Shorty McAndrews and Larry Bloomer also have enrolled for Friday night's competition.

Sunnybrook Protests 7- Win By Cameo; Printers Lose, 3-0

Cameo Furniture defeated Sunnybrook Tavern, 7-4, in a Washington Post Industrial League game on the West Ellipse. Bob Jordan rapped out a triple and three singles for the winners.

Mutt Moreland, Sunnybrook coach, has protested the game which was called at the end of 7½ innings because of darkness, on the grounds that the umpire should have notified him about calling the game beforehand.

Truman Presented Grid Pass—But Won't Use It

President Truman got himself a 1948 pro football pass yesterday, but the chances are that he won't use it.

The pass, good for any National Football League game, was given to him by Commissioner Bert Bell and George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins.

Marshall told reporters that Mr. Truman didnt' think he could get away to any games, but said he'd try.

The reason: Most pro grid games are played on Sunday.

2 Newsmen Thwart Suicide Here

Two alert newspaperman yesterday saved the life of a would-be suicide.

A 24-year-old man called the city desk of the Washington Daily News at 6 a. m. Assistant City Editor Nicholas Blatchford immediately sensed the urgency in the caller's voice. The man announced he was going to kill himself.

At Blatchford's signal, Sam Gordon, News telegraph editor, picked up another telephone and dialed police.

The caller recited his name, age, address. He had, he said, been trying to kill himself for three days. First the wrists. But the slashes weren't deep enough.

Why? A usual story. A girl who had left him.

"I have nothing else to live for," the caller said. "Not a damn thing . . ."

The man said he was going to drink iodine . . . iodine and water. He'd have to hurry; there was the doorbell.

The telephone went dead.

Police broke into the apartment on Kenyon st. nw. The man was rushed to Freedmen's Hospital and later transferred to Gallinger.

Doctors said prompt attention had saved the man's life. He would live.

Boy Held on Sex Charge

Eugene V. Sampson, 18, of 457 N st. sw., yesterday was charged with indecently exposing himself before three small girls, the oldest aged 10. The youth was arrested in the 1300 block of 6th st. sw. after a woman reported the incident to police.

Sponger, Not Spender

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday took under advisement charges that Richard S. Cannaday, proprietor of a restaurant at 1418 Florida ave. ne., permitted drinks to be served to an intoxicated man and allowed him to remain on the premises.

ABC took the action after the corporation counsel's office, prosecuting the case, joined with the owner's attorney in asking that charges be dismissed, Alan Payne, ABC Board chairman, revealed.

Payne said the restaurant manager asserted the drunk had wandered into the establishment, took a seat with friends, and helped himself to their drinks. He denied drinks were delivered to the man.

Voteless Remind Voters

The Voteless D. C. League of Women Voters yesterday reminded absentee voters of Texas and Arkansas that those States will hold primary elections in the next week. In Texas, candidate for Governor, Senator and 21 Representatives will be named July 24. Arkansas will hold primaries July 27 to nominate candidates for Governor, Senator and seven seats in the House.

Traffic Lights Out

A sizeable area in Northwest Washington was without traffic lights for five minutes shortly before noon yesterday. A fuse had blown as workmen tried to repair a control pedestal at New Jersey ave. and E st. nw.

The area affected by the blowout was bounded by Decatur st., Maryland ave., 22d st. and Capitol Plaza.

Telegrams En Route

Telegrams now can be sent to and from radio-telephone equipped automobiles, trains, airplanes, buses and inland waterways boats, Western Union announced yesterday. Senders of telegrams to a mobile unit are expected to furnish an approximate address.

Death Charge Dropped

A technical charge of manslaughter against Willard F. Bishop, 48, a laborer of Rockville, Md., was dropped yesterday in Silver Spring police court. The charge grew out of the traffic death last Saturday night of Mrs. Florence Eva Johnson, 38, also of Rockville.

Bishop, driver of the car which struck Mrs. Johnson as she walked along Colesville pk. at Clovely, Md., testified she was walking in the center of the road and he was temporarily blinded by approaching headlights.

Takoma Park Gets Plan For Council And Manager

Survey by Md. U. Also Recommends Merit System for All City Employes

A council-manager plan of government and a merit system for city employes were urged for Takoma Park in a report issued yesterday by Maryland University's Bureau of Public Administration.

The bureau, directed by Joseph M. Ray, had been requested last October by the city council to conduct a survey of the structure and procedures of the city's government. The final report was written by Elwyn A. Mauck, professor of government and politics at the university.

The report asserted that under the manager plan, members of the city council would no longer be burdened with details of administration such as appointments or the payment of claims. "It (the city council) would be free to devote its full time to the consideration of the will of the community and the enactment of such will in terms of general policy," the report stated.

Manager Would Administer

The plan would entail an "elective legislative body to determine policy," in other words, the city council, plus an "appointive administrative branch of experts" to carry out the policy.

The city manager would have control over all phases of administration while the mayor's position "would be very similar to the position now existing." The mayor would be the "true policy leader" of the city council or of the minority or majority party in the council. He would have "no relationship to administration."

While praising the present administration of the city as apparently "excellent," the report advocated a merit system for municipal employes because "it means first of all that the council should not . . . waste its time in the consideration of the qualifications of special applicants for positions."

Hampered in Planning

In the field of community planning the report csharged that Takoma Park "appears to be considerably hampered by the jurisdiction exercised by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission."

Without going into anything specific regarding the criticism of the commssion, the report advocated "closer collaboration among all units of government and the people they represent."

Another element decried in the report was the practice of allowing a discount to taxpayers who pay on time.

Added "clerical burden" was cited as main basis for the criticism although the survey did say that "in view of the highly efficient operation (of the Takoma Park tax structure) no suggestion for improvement appears necessary."

3 Councilmen Favor City Manager Plan

Three Takoma Park councilmen interviewed by The Washington Post said that they favored the city manager plan, with some reservations.

John T. Parkerson and J. H. Nies said they believed such a plan to be efficient but said they doubted if the community at this time could afford the increased financial burden it would necessitate.

W. H. McClenon declared he favored the plan with "some mental reservations."

3 More Polio Cases Found In D. C., Area

The sixth and seventh District cases of infantile paralysis this year were reported by the Health Department yesterday.

One Alexandria case also was reported at Gallinger hospital, bringing the year's non-resident total in local hospitals to eight.

The two District cases included an 8-year-old boy of the 3000 block of Macomb st. nw., admitted to Children's Hospital last Wednesday and reported as a polio victim yesterday, and a 22-year-old woman of the 6000 block of Luzon ave. nw., taken to Gallinger Hospital Monday and diagnosed as a polio patient yesterday.

The Alexandria case, a 25-year-old woman whose residence is at Presidential Gardens, also was admitted to Gallinger Monday and reported to the Health Department as a polio patient yesterday.

Last year at this time, health officials said, there were three polio cases within the District and five nonresident patients in local hospitals.

Three other polio cases in Virginia pushed the State polio count up to 55 for the year, the State Health Department announced.

PUC Bars Taxi Leaflets In VD Drive

The Public Utilities Commission has vetoed plans for distribution of 100,000 four-page folders by taxicab drivers in connection with the recently launched District drive against gonorrhea.

James H. Flanagan, PUC chairman, yesterday confirmed that the commission fears distribution of such literature would "inevitably lead to numerous and serious complaints from the riding public," particularly young girls or women.

Dr. George C. Ruhland, District Health Officer, maintained that taxicabs are an important means of distributing the folders. Cabs, he pointed out in a letter to PUC, "reach unnumbered thousands of people who live in Washington . . . but most important, taxis are our primary source in reaching transients who are visiting the city."

"These transients," the letter states, "represent up to 10 per cent of the total cases of gonorrhea in the District. If we are to stamp out this disease, we must also prevent infection to our people by outside sources."

The pamphlets include information about the symptoms of gonorrhea and syphilis and urge drivers to hand out a leaflet on request from passengers. Distribution of pamphlets has already been begun in bars and restaurants, hotels and rooming houses, barber shops and drug stores.

ONE WEAPON—Above is pictured the cover of a leaflet designed for distribution by more than 300 druggists here in the drive against venereal diseases. Druggists have been urged to cooperate by Harold Bradbury, Washington Wholesale Drug Exchange; T. V. Guild, division manager, People's Drug Stores, and Dr. Harold Kinner, president, District Pharmaceutical Association. Ruling Asked On Pay Hikes For 516 Here

Status of District Employes Paid in Whole or Part by U. S. Is in Doubt

The Commissioners yesterday asked the Comptroller General for a ruling on whether 516 District employes paid in whole or in part with Federal funds are eligible for a pay increase.

They include these employes "paid solely from grants to the District . . . by the Social Security Administration and the United States Public Health Service," the Commissioners said:

Tuberculosis control (21), cancer research (2), mental health activities (5), public health work (16), veneral disease control (27), venereal disease rapid treatment centers (22), maternal and child health service (48), child welfare services (5), services for crippled children (43).

Also included in the request were 81 employes paid from trust fund deposits, 185 at the District Unemployment Compensation Board paid through grants from the Social Security Administration and 63 paid through fees and other collections made by the D. C. Recreation Board.

Under the Federal Pay Act passed by Congress at the last session, District employes were barred from the $330 annual pay boost granted Federal workers until Congress passes legislation to provide necessary funds.

However, the Comptroller General has ruled that 134 National Zoological Park and 15 National Capital Park and Planning Commission employes were entitled to the raise, though paid with District funds, because their agencies are not under District of Columbia control.

The Commissioners asked if other agencies considered in the category, (such as Washington Aqueduct, National Guard, National Capital Parks, Register of Wills, Recorder of Deeds, Probation System, and Columbia Hospital and Lying-In Asylum) are entitled to the Federal boost.

The Commissioners also asked if the raise would apply to: Employes of independent boards whose employes are paid from fees or earning of the boards, employes paid jointly by the District and Federal "matching" funds, and employes paid from District highway and water funds, which are supported by both D. C. and Federal appropriations.

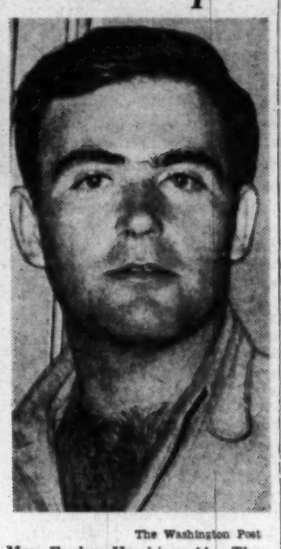
In closing, the Commissioners pointed out that if the increases are authorized the District won't have the money to pay them.

"If you hold that the increase is authorized," they told the Comptroller General, "please advise the Commissioners of the source of revenues to meet these obligations."

Dr. Lyon Gets Award For New Film Coating

Dr. Dean A. Lyon, 1821 P st. se., has received the Navy's Distinguished Civilian Award for development of a durable film coating for optical elements. The process invented by Dr. Lyon, an optical engineer at the Naval Gun Factory, also improved light transmission of the average submarine periscope from 10 per cent to 40 per cent. The presentation was made Monday by Capt. A. S. Wotherspoon, acting superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory.

Bricklayer, 23, Held in Slaying of Mother; War Veteran Jokes With Policemen at Inquest



The Washington Post

A 23-year-old bricklayer yesterday was held for grand jury action on a charge of murder after confessing that he stabbed his mother to death.

Hawkins' mother, Mrs. Evelyn Elizabeth Hawkins, was found dead with a butcher knife plunged into her throat at the family home, 605 Sheridan st. nw., early yesterday. The son was asleep in a chair nearby and his father, James W. Hawkins, sr., was asleep upstairs, police said.

Neighbors told police that the Hawkins began drinking Monday evening. Police were summoned to the scene about 9:30 p. m. Neighbors said that the family often had noisy fights after drinking heavily.

Around midnight, neighbors testified at the inquest, they heard a man's voice shouting "die! die!" and a woman's voice answered "I am dying!"

Shortly afterward the man's voice repeated "I am free, I am free at last!"

During the inquest both the son and his wife Myrene, 22, who discovered the body, refused to take the stand after being told by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald that they did not have to.

Detective Sergt. Harold Huffman of the homicide squad told the coroner's jury that the son said he and his father had begun drinking about 4:30 p. m. Later Huffman declared, the son said he went to Georgia ave. and bought a fifth of whisky and the family sat around drinking it. They got two more fifths later, he told police.

Huffman said the son told of going to the kitchen once to get a drink and finding his wife sitting on a table with his father standing near by.

About an hour later the son told Huffman he returned to the kitchen and told his wife he did not like what she was doing. His father said there was nothing wrong and the son pushed him against the wall, according to Huffman's testimony. His mother asked the son not to hit her husband, Huffman was told.

The son told Huffman that he and his wife got into an argument over the incident. It was at about this time that neighbors summoned police and Myrene Hawkins left the house. Hawkins, sr., went upstairs to bed.

Huffman told the jury that when he arrived all but a small part of the third bottle of whisky had been consumed, and the house was all torn up.

The son told Huffman that around 11 p. m. he told his mother he was going to leave for Texas. At first the mother said it was all right, as long as he sent her some rent he owed.

While he was preparing a blanket roll for the trip his mother repeatedly asked the son for drinks, Huffman told the jury. When asked about her condition, the son told Huffman that she was drunk and that he was "intoxicated, but not drunk."

Suddenly Mrs. Hawkins reversed her decision about the trip, and she and her son had an argument, Huffman said. She rushed to the kitchen, returned, and lunged at him with a butcher knife, the son told Huffman. The son wrested the knife from her and stabbed her once and she fell back on the davenport in a sitting position, Huffman said.

The son told police that his mother had repeatedly threatened to kill him in the past, Huffman told the jury.

In the testimony before the coroner's jury the father, also a bricklayer, said the mother was suffering from an eye condition and was practically blind. At this point the son interrogated the father, who brought out the fact that the mother had a treatment during the evening and the condition was improved.

Miss Lorraine King, 603 Sheridan st. nw., told the jury she had heard the quarreling during the evening and shortly before midnight had heard the cries of "die! die!" and later what sounded like something choking. She said she heard a thud, and a man's voice repeating "I am free, I am free," then the voice burst into sobbing.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Laura Raeburn of 602 Sheridan st. nw., said she called the police during the earlier scuffle. Around midnight she also heard someone say "I am dying" and then a cry of "I am free at last." Afterward, she said, she saw the son come running out of the house, where he attempted, without success, to hail a passing jeep. Then he returned to the house.

James Edward Ponton, 21, 6308 7th st. nw, told the jury he met Myrene Hawkins at Georgia ave. and Rittenhouse st. nw. during the evening and they went to Maryland where they had a few drinks. He told the jury she said she had a fight with her husband.

Ponton said they met Anthony Stephen Polito, 22, 6308 9th st. nw. after they got back, about 1:30, and that Polito took Mrs. Hawkins home.

Polito testified that he met Mrs. Hawkins about 2, and that they took a walk. Though she did not wish to go back they finally returned to the house, Polito said. He was standing about 10 feet from the door, he said, when Mrs. Hawkins screamed and came running out and told him the mother was dead. He said he went to Georgia ave. and called the police.

Dr. Richard Rosenberg, deputy coroner who performed the autopsy, told the jury that Mrs. Hawkins died of a stab wound in the left side of the neck. Upon questioning by Dr. MacDonald he stated that there were also scratches on her neck which would indicate strangling.

Neighbors in the quiet residential area around the house where the slaying took place said the Hawkins had lived there for about five months. During that time, they said, there had been constant fighting and drunken brawls, and police had been called several times.

One neighbor stated that Mrs. Hawkins had spoken often of her fondness for her son, and told of how she grieved while he was serving with the Army in the Pacific. They said the Hawkins came here from Danville, Va.

Jury Frees Man

Homicide Case Held Justifiable

A coroner's jury yesterday ruled justifiable homicide in the death of a man whose burial had been halted at the last moment when it was learned he had not died of natural causes.

The jury freed George Thompson, 23, of 935 M st. nw., in the death of Sylvester Weathers, 39, of 1810 9th st. nw.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald learned Friday night that Weathers had been in a fight in the 1200 block of 9th st. nw. the afternoon of July 3.

He permitted funeral services to go ahead as scheduled but ordered burial held up pending an autopsy.

Although Weathers refused hospital treatment shortly after the fight, his doctor ordered him to Gallinger Hospital July 12. The autopsy showed the man suffered a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage.

The coroner's jury discharged Thompson when he related he had struck Weathers but only after he had been attacked from behind.

Army Wife's Death Laid to Sleeping Pills

Mrs. Allie Orndorff, 36, of 226 Jefferson st. nw., died at her home yesterday shortly before 1 a. m. from what police described as an overdose of sleeping tablets.

A brother-in-law of the dead woman, Larry Day, professional at the Anacostia golf course, told The Washington Post that Mrs. Orndorff called him at about 12:20 p. m. and said she was going to take the sleeping pills.

He said he tried to persuade her not to take the pills, and then notified his wife and Mrs. Orndorffs' sister, Mrs. Betty Day. Mrs. Day found her sister barely conscious in her bed.

A private physician was summoned and he in turn called the rescue squad. Efforts to revive the woman were unsuccessful.

Relatives said the dead woman's husband, Preston, is an Army private stationed in Germany. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald withheld a death certificate pending an autopsy.

Firemen's Union Stalled In Fight On Murphy

AFL Association's Night Meeting Countermands Action Of Day Session

AFL firemen in Washington, in day and night special session, yesterday made little progress in their planned appeal to strip Fire Chief Clement Murphy of appointive powers, it was reported last night.

Members attending both sessions, however, agreed to table a second resolution until regular union meetings in September to authorize retaining special counsel to fight grievances for association members.

The meetings were held by Local 36, International Association of Firemen, AFL.

Two Meeting at Variance

Members attending the union's morning meeting voted approval of the resolution favoring opening to competitive tests promotions and appointments to upper bracket positions in the Fire Department. Such positions, ranging upward from captain are filled by appointment of the fire chief, subject to confirmation of the District Commissioners.

This group, it was reported, voted to officially poll its members on the matter, and later to poll by mail those eligible empoyes of the Fire Department who are not members of the association.

Members attending the night session, however, virtually countermanded the action by voting it not within the province of the association to poll nonmembers, it was said. They further decided to refer the resolution back to the first group for further consideration, according to reliable reports from the closed meetings.

Murphy's Command Fought

The dual meetings were held to permit night-working firefighters to attend the morning session and day shift firemen to participate in the evening session. Both meetings where held at 935 G pl. nw.

The resolution asking retention of special counsel, asked such action because, it stated, "members who take an active interest in anticipated reforms not necessarily acceptable to authority are subject to reprisals and recriminations."

The association and many of its members have long fought Chief Murphy's command of the Fire Department.

D. C. Employe FoundHanged, Will Penned

The body of a District Water Departmet clerk was found hanging by a rope from a rafter in the basement of his family's brick row home, 2521 North Capitol st., at 4:45 p. m. yesterday.

He was Luther H. Barley, 38. He left a note willing his possessions to a brother, Charles R. Barley, 21, Maryland University sophomore. The note also asked the brother "to be a good boy," Charles Barley said.

The dead man had been despondent since his wife, now living in Florida, divorced him four months ago, Detective Sergt. George Cooke of the police homicide squad said. Barley had also told his family he was concerned about blood clot on the brain, which he said a doctor had told him he had, police said.

Barley was last known to be alive at noon when he phoned a sister, Mrs. Muriel Cousins, and asked her to come home directly when she finshed with work. The body was found by the brother, Charles, when he returned from a summer job as an apprentice electrician.

The dead man had stayed away from work the first three days of July and yesterday. He was a native of Florida and a former gas station operator here.

Montgomery Blair Pupils Give CARE $1360

More than 700 Silver Spring (Md.) bobbysoxer and high school youths are cutting down on movies and milk shakes so 15 European families can eat.

Quietly but systematically during the past year and a half, nearly the entire student body of Montgomery Blair High School have made personal sacrifices to purchase CARE food packages.

Since the project was initiated by students in March, 1947, a total of $1360 in cash has been contributed, as well as 31 clothing packages.

Mrs. Beatrice Schalet, director of the Washington CARE office, 1344 Connecticut ave. nw., said the project is unique among high schools in the Greater Washington area.

Grateful recipients of the $10 food packages have sent letters expressing heartfelt thanks, from Finland, Belgium, Austria, Poland, France and Germany.

"We are never able to lose the feeling of hunger," said one family in the United States zone of Germany. "May God reward you for your kindness and love."

One letter that sticks in the minds of the students stated simply, "Thank you for rescuing us poor orphans."

In addition to regular contributions, money has also been raised by special activities, including a dance, a bake sale, a softball game and a play.

A student leader in the unusual project has been Anita Hafermann, 19, of 1908 Rockwood ave. Born in Hoboken, N. J., of German parents, Anita was taken to Germany at the age of one and remained there until two years ago.

J. K. Willis Is Dead at 58 In Florida

John K. Willis, 58, retired, a former principal investigator, Office of the United States Comptroller General, died Tuesday at his home in Punta Gorda, Fla. He had long suffered high blood pressure.

Mr. Willis

He served the Government in Washington for 40 years in duties ranging from messenger boy to his position as principal investigator and eventual retirement in November, 1946, on physical disability. He had lived in Florida since his retirement.

Mr. Willis was born in York, Pa., on October 4, 1889. He came to Washington in 1906, entering the Government service at the age of 16. Promoted through grade to clerk, he was transferred in July, 1915, to the office of auditor, Interior Department.

He was a division chief in that office on July 1, 1921, when it was transferred to the General Accounting Office, and the transfer brought him promotion to chief of the Interior Department division, GAO. By 1928, he was investigator in the office of investigations and later promoted through several grades to principal investigator.

He was active in the General Accounting Office Employes Association and was a member of Warren G. Harding Lodge, Masons, and of the Ionic Club, organization of Master Masons.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Katherine Edwards Willis; two sons, Donnie and Jimmie, all of Punta Gorda, and a daughter, Mrs. William O. Buckingham of 2908 5th st. S., Arlington, Va.

M. D. Lindsay, Former D. C. Official, Dies

Melville Dyer Lindsay, 70, assistant District purchasing officer until his retirement two years ago, died yesterday at his home, 6819 5th st. nw.

Mr. Lindsay's death was caused by a heart ailment. He had been ill two years.

Save for one period, when he was employed in Easton, Pa., he had made his home in Washington since he was 6 years old. He was brought here at that age from his native Brooklyn, N. Y., by his father, Melville Lindsay.

A graduate of Central High School, he went on to take a mechanical engineering degree from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1902.

Mr. Lindsay began work for the District government in 1929 after some years with a slate company in Easton, Pa. He retired in 1946 as assistant purchasing officer for the District.

Before ill health slowed his activities, he had been an ardent fisherman and amateur photographer. He operated a darkroom at the 5th st. address, where he had lived since 1927. He was a Mason and a member of First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

Mr. Lindsay is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Duncan Lindsay of the 5th st. address; a son, Melville C. Lindsay of Clarksburg, W. Va., and three brothers, Clarence A. and Dr. Janvier W. Lindsay of Washington and Alfred B. Lindsay of New Rochelle, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Thursday at the Hysong funeral parlor, 1300 N st. nw. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Geo. Shaws Are Honored At Embassy

By Marie McNair

THE Nicaraguan Ambassador and Senora de Sevilla Sacasa, who had fled the Washington heat for the breezes at Rehoboth Beach, came back yesterday to give a party for George Price Shaw, newly appointed United States Ambassador to Nicaragua, and Mrs. Shaw.

It couldn't have been a happier way to speed the Shaws on their way, and Mr. Shaw to his first ambassadorial post. Long in the foreign service he last served in Quito, Ecuador, as counselor of our embassy, and before that was in Mexico City. They'll leave Washington on Thursday to visit their family in California and set off for South America by way of Mexico, where there are friends to welcome their return.

Bonnets Attend

Yesterday's party was a fairly accurate gage on who's still left in town.

There was the French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, and Mme. Bonnet in a satin print in dull golds and bronze; the Italian Ambassador, Alberto Tarchiani, who's a summer bachelor while Signora Tarchiani visits in Rome.

I saw Senora de Caceres, wife of the Honduran Ambassador, but not the Ambassador, and the Bolivian Ambassador, Ricardo Martinez Vargas, without his senora. The Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Ferreyros were there and also from the Peruvian Embassy the Minister and Senora de Fernandez-Davila, and the Minister-Counselor, Carlos Alzamora.

Mrs. Shaw in White

In the not too crowded rooms, about the coolest ones there were the Nicaraguan Ambassador, in a crisp white summer suit; Mrs. Shaw in a long white crepe gown with an orchid on her shoulder, and Senora de Sevilla Sacasa whose gown of sheer white starched chiffon was covered to the knees with filmy black lace with lace appliques scattered to the hem.

Then I met, chatted with, Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, Ecuadorian Ambassador to the Pan American Union; Mrs. William F. O'Donnell, her son, Bill; her nieces Eileen O'Donnell of Mansfield, Ohio, and Rita Higgins of Sayre, Pa.

Saw Senorade Somoza, mother of the hostess; Dr. Francisco Aguilar of El Salvador; Miss Emilie Anne Matusinska of Canada; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Whittemore, Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris and Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin.

Others there were Judge and Mrs. George Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whitehouse with the latter's brother, Luther N. Bolton; Miss Minerva Bernardino, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burke, Admrial and Mrs. William O. Spear, Arthur Vennell, and Oscar Albertini.

Jane H. Wilson Is Bride of John C. Pool

Miss Jane Hughes Wilson and John Cochran Pool were married yesterday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Washington. The Rev. C. Leslie Glenn officiated. Mrs. Pool is the daughter of Mrs. J. Hughes Wilson of Lynchburg, Va., and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Aydelotte Pool of Middletown, Del. Only members of the immediate families attended.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a frock of light blue crepe with white flower trimmed hat and white orchid corsage. Mrs. James Easley Edmunds, jr., of Lynchburg, was matron of honor for her sister, and Mr. Pool acted as best man for his son.

After the ceremony, the couple left by motor for a short wedding trip. They will return to Washington on July 25 for a few days prior to departing for Budapest, Hungary, where Mr. Pool has been designated First Secretary of the American Legation. Mr. and Mrs. Pool will sail August 4 on the SS America.

AT a reception given in their honor at the Philippine Embassy yesterday, the Secretary of Finance of the Philippines, Miguel Cuaderno (left) and the United States Ambassador to the Philippines, Emmet O'Neal, pause during the receiving hours to have their picture snapped with Mrs. O'Neal. The O'Neals are home on a visit

Ambassador Elizalde Entertains Emmet O'Neals

By Elizabeth Maguire

HOME ON A VISIT from the Philippines, the United States Ambassador to the Philippines, Emmet O'Neal, and Mrs. O'Neal were honored at a reception yesterday by the Ambassador of the Philippines, Joaquin Elizalde.

Mrs. O'Neal received with the two Ambassadors and another guest of honor, the Minister of Finance of the Philippines, Miguel Cuaderno. A fourth guest of honor, the Secretary of Labor of the Philippines, Pedro Magsalin, arrived rather late as he had attended an earlier reception at Blair House for members of the International Labor Organization.

Guests at the Philippine Embassy were drawn for the most part from international banking circles and the Philippine colony. A noticeably pretty pair in the gathering were Lydia and Mary O'Neal, daughters of the Ambassador. Both were dressed in full skirted white eyelet linen, and their blond tresses were brushed back in long chignons.

The Misses O'Neal are recent graduates of Vassar. Lydia O'Neal, the elder, is engaged to marry William D. S. Fraser, who is now in the Philippines. Mr. Fraser was a major in the British army during the war and was badly wounded in the Burma campaign. There has been no formal announcement of the engagement, but the news has leaked out because of a diamond on the third finger. Members of the family yesterday said they hope the wedding will take place in the Philippines when the O'Neal family returns there in the fall.

A proud parent at the fete was Mrs. Ramos, wife of the Minister Counselor. Her son, Cadet Fidel Ramos, accompanied her dressed in his crisp summer whites. He is second classman at West Point and senior Philippine cadet.

John McCloy, president of the World Bank, was a guest, as were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ely of the State Department and Mr. and Mrs. J. Weldon Jones. Others included Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomsen Lund and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Beecroft of the World Bank; Mr. and Mrs. John Exter of the Federal Reserve Board, and the Military Attache of the Embassy nad Mrs. Velasquez.

Baron and Baroness Stackelberg were there, said they had attended the Democratic Convention and the Republican Convention and that they were not going away again this summer.

The most striking Philippine costume was worn by Mrs. Gamboa, wife of the First Secretary. Her gown was made of striped rose and blue slipper satin with panuelo of blue gauze.

THE Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Ferreyros were hosts at dinner last evening at the embassy.

Their guests included the Ambassador of the Dominican Republic and Senora de Thomen, Jose Felix Lequerica of Spain, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. George V. Allen, Louis G. Dreyfus, Assistant Secretary of State, Garrison Norton, Miss Ana Rosa Ferreyros, daughter of the hosts, and Miss Elene Gaffron.

THE Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall will entertain at a reception on Saturday from 6 to 8 in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel in honor of the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Omar Bradley.

Recollections of Thirties

Wedding Guests Surged To Feet to Pay Respect To Aging General Pershing

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

MOB PSYCHOLOGY is always interesting, but when mob makeup is wealthy, sophisticated, it is fascinating to discover an activating common denominator. Back in the thirties Warren Pershing married Banker Jules Bache's granddaughter at an elaborate ceremony in New York's St. Thomas' Church. Invitations to the church were issued in high hundreds, lesser number to the reception at the Bache residence, where the banker's magnificent collection of paintings was hung in colorful prodigality.

For once the pictures were a minor attraction. Everyone came to the wedding hoping to glimpse General Pershing. But the bridegroom's father had been seriously ill. It was doubtful whether he could muster sufficient strength to attend the marriage.

St. Thomas was jammed, the ultimate guest had been seated, the bride's mother had gone up the aisle. The opening Lohengrin strains were about to tremolo. Suddenly there was a faint sound of steps on the marble paving near the altar. In plain Army uniform, pale but sternly erect, the General of the Armies moved slowly from side door to front pew. Those in front stared as if they had seen a ghost. Then, as if whipped by an electric charge, in a single movement the congregation surged to its feet—and remained standing silently, scarcely breathing until the General was seated. Thus, in complete spontaneity, unplanned, instinctive, was the son of a Missouri section hand honored by New York's rich and socially snobbish.

THOUGH GALO PLAZA, former Ecuadorian Ambassador to Washington and currently his country's President-elect, is in the New York Hospital incommunicado, plans are going forward for his inauguration come August 31. Galo is suffering from a touch of rheumatic fever and the best cure, according to the medicos, is rest. Meanwhile his two brothers have returned to Quito from foreign parts, one from France and the other, Jose Maria, who is a toreador, from a season of bullfighting. Another domestic event of interest is that pretty, gentle Senora de Plaza is expecting her sixth child.

Those who knew handsome Galo in Washington would scarcely recognize him in another favorite role—that of farmer. He owns two immense haciendas—one south of Quito, which centers around an ancient stone house and lake dotted with swans, and a second, in the north, which is modern European, luxurious to live in, but nevertheless, a strictly commercial, scientifically run property.

Galo has had a tough time politically since he left Washington—it was touch and go whether he'd win out for top honors. Once in he will presumably move to the presidential mansion in Quito—a modest building—but land has been bought and plans drawn for a more elegant and suitable domicile. South American inaugurations often rate special United States Ambassadors—state visits from United States cruisers—but all this costs money and with the European situation glowering Galo's big day may be a bit skimped.

Debs to Be Presented at Court

THREE Washington debutantes are among the 99 Americans to be presented at Buckingham Palace on Thursday at the second of the season's garden parties to be given by King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Miss Helen Bowdoin and her sister, Miss Julia Bowdoin, daughters of Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., wife of the newly appointed Undersecretary of the Treasury, are among those who have received the coveted invitations. Helen Bowdoin made her debut a year ago; Julia was presented to Long Island society in June at a dance given by her father, George Temple Bowdoin.

Miss Jacqueline Bouvier, daughter of Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss who made her debut at Newport last summer, will be among those at the fete, and others from Washington are Mrs. William T. Mann and Miss Patricia Exton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Exton. Miss Exton was graduated in June from George Washington University and is a provisional member of the Junior League.

Cass Canfield, former member of the Board of Economic Warfare, and Mrs. Canfield, who is Janet Sage, well-known sculptress, will be among the American group. Mrs. Canfield was chairman of the arts and skills unit of the American Red Cross during the war.

BLACK velvet is combined with white marquisette and black Chantilly lace in this evening gown emphasizing back fullness in the skirt. It is from Kiviette's fall and winter collection shown yesterday to the press at the New York fashion show. Bodice is finished with a fold at the hipline. The lace overskirt is apron length in front

ONE of the distinctive costumes shown last night at Sherry's in New York by Nettie Rosenstein was this black broadcloth dress and jacket. A deep mink shawl collar wraps over the front of the jacket. The slim skirted, short sleeved dress underneath is beltless and has a V-neckline

Women Give Pledge to Next Century

Seneca Falls, N. Y., July 20 (AP). A century of progress in establishing women's rights was celebrated today with a pledge to the women of the next century for world peace and human freedom.

A declaration of "the women of 1948 to the women of 2048" was read by Susan B. Anthony, 3d., grand niece and namesake of the noted feminist leader, at a mass meeting concluding the centennial of the First Women's Rights Convention.

It bore the signatures of a number of prominent women, among them Novelist Pearl Buck; Dean Mildred Thompson of Bryn Mawr College; Dr. Alice Hamilton, well-known New York City physician, and Representative Mary Norton (D., N. J.).

The declaration promised the women of 2048 that "we will win for you a prosperous democracy at peace with the world."

"We declare to you that we will give over our lives so that you, our children's children, may live," it continued. "We will liberate our sex and various races from the economic, political and social bonds that still cripple us 100 years after the women of 1848 started their long battle to loosen them.

"For we, the women of 1948, can only free our land and world of war and poverty if we are free to do it. We declare ourselves knowing full well, as did the women of 1848, that the fight for human freedom is the most titan struggle of them all.

"We enter the struggle armed with the strength of mothers, the skill of workers and the right of citizens of our land and of our world. We call to you through the years of the next century in the words of the women of 1848 that in this great struggle 'failure is impossible'."

Miss Dorothy Kenyon, New York City attorney and United States delegate to the Commission on Status of Women of the United Nations, urged women to make "a greater and more effective use" of the political ballot.

Mrs. Emily Knight MacWilliams of Seneca Falls, general chairman of the centennial, read a communication in which President Truman described the observance as "a notable milestone in history of American progress."

Nettie Rosenstein Shows Collection

Lush Fabrics Lead Fashion Parade

By Peggy Preston

NEW YORK, July 20.—Against the plush, tradition-packed background of Sherry's Restaurant on Park Avenue, Nettie Rosenstein tonight presented her lush collection of fall fashions.

Used to the smoke-filled showrooms of Seventh ave., the dress industry's No. 1 street, fashion editors from the provinces enjoyed this luxurious setting. Seated on comfortable lounge chairs in the spacious high-ceilinged room which was aglow with soft lights reflected from the prisms of crystal chandeliers, we gratefully noted the parade of sparkling satins, elegant furs and dazzling jewels.

Everyone admitted Miss Rosenstein knew how to put on a real show. She had the goods and she knew how to deliver. There wasn't a woman among us who didn't melt at the sight of her glamour-packed spectacle, despite the fact that the price tags made us turn a pale green.

But, after all, Miss Rosenstein does not create for the average woman. She is a style-setter, a woman of ideas whose clothes are copied and recopied by other and cheaper houses. A tiny woman, with a large conception of what kind of clothes make a woman more glamorous, she likes to shoot the works with an extravagant use of fabrics and luscious colors.

This year she has done a great deal with fur-trimmed suits and coat dresses. There is no tax on these ensembles, and she has been lavish in her use of skins. In the dress department, she has effectively dramatized the beltless waistline, a new line this season calling for a long, slim torso, the armholes fitting snugly as opposed to the Dolman sleeves of last season.

As usual, her evening collection was the high light of the show. She dazzled her audience with a pearl white satin and made the model look as though she had just stepped out of a Sargent portrait. There was also a pearl gray satin for a hoop-skirted dress with large loose shirring forming the top of the bodice; a sunflower yellow satin and a startling black and white full-pleated skirt swinging from a black satin bodice.

Nor did this designer forget her favorite slinky black dinner dresses, made this year with plunging necklines, edged with areas of black lace. The tops were breath-takingly brief, the skirt sheath-like, slit to the knee.

DURING the day we looked at half a dozen collections, including those of Ben Reig, Anna Miller, Vera Jacobs, Kiviette and Samuel Kass. In each of them we saw exquisite fabrics such as tissue wools that looked like pure silk, gabardines so pliable and soft that they were made into flowing full-skirted dresses; rich damasks and velvets; pure silk chantilly laces, swirling over net and marquisette.

Viewing all these signs of affluence, editors pondered the question of prices. What is going to happen this winter to the cost of clothing? Is there any hope of getting good, well-styled garments at any reasonable prices?

The picture is not too good. By and large we are not going to see any sizable reductions in price tags. Clothing, like every other commodity, is going to continue to be costly. There is one bright spot on the horizon, however. Designers are paying more attention to garments in the cheaper end of their lines than ever before. In other words, better fabrics, design and workmanship are being put into moderate-priced clothing, which is also being produced in greater volume.

A report from the Bureau of Census, given us at today's forum, told of this tendency which is toward larger production of lower-priced garments in important lines.

So, what we will have to do this fall is shop around a bit and wait, look and listen before putting our dollars on one particular garment. There will be good, medium-priced clothing on the market, made by name designers. What we'll need to avoid is being dazzled by the glitter. Don't buy the first fall suit you see, because with the help of careful, thoughtful shopping, you can be well dressed this winter.

How to Remove Resin From Suit

Can you tell me what I might use to remove some resin from a light yellow lastex bathing suit? I have washed the suit with soap and water but the resin did not come out. J. B.

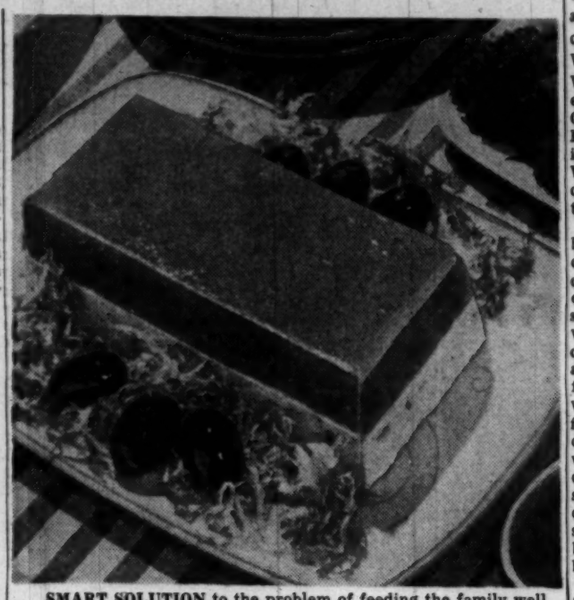
It is not always possible to remove such stains, but you might first try softening it with lard or colorless vaseline. Rub the fat into the stain and let it stand for 20 minutes, occasionally rubbing between the fingers to soften. When softened, place stained area over a pad and sponge with carbon tetrachloride until all stain is removed.

Recently we have noticed that a small insect is geting into our flour, meal, and other starchy foods stored on our kitchen shelf. Some of this food has been kept at all times in covered tin containers. The insect resembles, on casual inspection, an ant, the small variety, but closer inspection reveals it to be something other than an ant. It looks something like a flea. We have found no trace of it in our sugar although it has been kept on the same shelf with the flour. We thought at first that the insect was in our flour when we purchased it. We threw out the old flour and purchased new flour. In a few days we observed these insects in it. Is it safe to use DDT in a kitchen or some similar substance for the purpose of eradicating these unwelcome intruders? If so, should all the food be removed from the kitchen prior to its use? If the insect comes from outside our apartment, would such a remedy be anything other than a temporary repellent? J. M. R.

Since the insect attacks only the flour and other starchy foods, it is fairly certain that it is a flour weevil. It is doubtful that DDT would solve your problem for, as you have suggested, these insects live only in the flour or foodstuff and would not be reached by any insecticide. Therefore, it is necessary to dispose of infested foods, scald and air the containers before refilling them. Wash cupboard shelves thoroughly before replacing food. In warm, humid weather weevils multiply rapidly and one should be constantly on the outlook for them. As you suggest, weevils are sometimes present in cereal foods when they come from the store, so each package should be inspected before storing in the cupboard to avoid introducing them in other foods. The early stage of the weevil is a larvae which is harder to see than the adult insect and so might be missed in inspecting the flour when you buy it unless you know what to look for. Your practice of keeping cereals and flours in covered tin containers is good because it will confine a possible new infestation to the one container should you bring some in food from the store.

I spilled red nail polish on a white cotton eyelet dress. I have tried to remove it unsuccessfuly with nail polish remover and bleach. Do you have any suggestions for its removal? F. C.

Wet the stain with carbon tetrachloride and then apply banana oil. Brush lightly with a soft cloth, using an upward motion to pick up the dissolved polish. Also, place a pad under the stain to absorb polish which is forced through. To remove any color remaining after the polish has been dissolved, use a bleach. On white cotton you could use a household bleach. Dampen the area with water, stretch the stained area over a bowl of water and drop the bleach (diluted one part bleach to one part water) onto the stain. Give it a moment to act and then dip it into the bowl of water. Repeat, if stain is not completely removed.



SMART SOLUTION to the problem of feeding the family well while paring down food bills is this main dish of tomato aspic and egg salad. Using the following recipe, you can make the molded loaf a day ahead so it will be ready and waiting to serve:

TOMATO EGG MOLD.

Part I

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold tomato juice
1¼ cups hot tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Soften gelatin in cold tomato juice. Add hot tomato juice and stir until dissolved. Add salt and lemon juice. Pour into loaf pan and chill until almost firm.

Part II

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash cayenne pepper
¾ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1½ teaspoon grated onion
½ cup finely diced celery
¼ cup finely diced green pepper
¼ cup chopped pimiento
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Soften gelatin in cold water. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, and pepper. Cool. Add mayonnaise. Mix in remaining ingredients. Turn on top of tomato layer in loaf pan. Unmold and garnish with ripe olives and salad greens. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise. This recipe makes eight servings.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Married Five Years, With Three Children, Woman Can't Cope With Mother's Endless Criticism of All Aspects of Her Marriage

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Jim and I have been married five years and have three children, which is exactly what we want. The problem is my mother; or could it be me?

Mother criticizes me daily for having so many children, so close; for "not keeping them clean enough;" for not having enough help, or enough furniture, in the house; for not dressing as well as I should.

She says I should get out in society more; that my husband should demand a higher salary, etc.; and the worst part of her fault-finding is the effect it has on me.

Wife Is Tearful, Husband Gallant

I DEFEND myself in her presence, but when I am alone I either cry or become exceedingly depressed and feel that her criticisms are valid, that I am an utter failure, and that I should follow her advice, both from a practical standpoint and as a filial duty.

Nevertheless, it seems that some native inertia or stubbornness prevents me from acting. Or could it be that Jim's expression of unlimited confidence in the way I run our home and family gives me strength to do exactly as I please?

After these sessions with my mother, I will tearfully report the proceedings to Jim, who thereupon assures me that everything I do seems perfect to him; and he advises me to be polite to my mother, but not to take her seriously. What do you advise? A.G.

Mother Is Jealous, Clings to Daughter

DEAR A. G.: Your mother's criticisms are her way of saying that you never should have married Jim in the first place; that you would be much better off if you had stayed single, under her sheltering wing.

She simply can't reconcile herself to the fact that you are a woman grown with a husband and a home of your own; and this is because she has no alternative interests to occupy her mind, now that her child-bearing and child-rearing years are past history.

Moreover, she is jealously disturbed by evidence that you and Jim have a deeply congenial love-life, a development she resents because it seems, to her, to abrogate her claim to first place in your affections; hence she carps about the framework and fruits of the relationship in an indirect attempt to disparage Jim and all his works.

In brief, her fault-finding doesn't make sense if examined for validity. It merely proclaims her a destructive mom-mother who mistakenly presumes that cruel trampling of another's feelings is a vested privilege of intimacy.

Repressed Rage Depresses Mind

YOUR TRAINING decrees that "mother knows best"; that the "right" filial response is to bow to her utterances, however cranky or unjust; but your essential self says bah to that, hence psychologically you are "a house divided" in dealing with her.

Your defensive, tearful, melancholy reaction to her onslaughts points to smouldering rage, guiltily repressed. When the unconscious holds powerful hostile emotions in check, great nervous fatigue (or inertia) and mental depression usually result.

Thus your problem is you, and perhaps a careful reading of Dr. Edward A. Strecker's book "Their Mothers' Sons" (J. B. Lippincott Co., publishers) would help integrate your feelings to a point where you could blandly override her busybodyism, without fearing or hating her. This book has a salvationary message for daughters as well as sons of mom-mothers. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Army Aide Weds Miss Clayton

The marriage of Miss Katherine Colemon Clayton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Philip Colemon Clayton, of Fort Jackson, S. C., to Lieut Col. Willis Dale Crittenberger, jr., of Washington, took place Monday evening in the Fort Jackson Chapel. Chaplain William K. Kautz officiated. The bridegroom is the son of Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. W. D. Criftenberger, now on duty on the military staff committee at the United Nations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white duchess satin fashioned on medieval lines, with high marquisette yoke edged in a leaf design of seed pearl embroidery, which was repeated down the front of the skirt. The skirt, which had a court train was caught at the front hemline to show a cascade of white marquisette ruffles. Her finger-tip veil of illusion and over drape of Brussels rose point lace were held by a braided satin bandeau. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid and she wore an antique diamond sunburst pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Miss Hilda Goddard of San Antonio, Tex., and bridesmaids were Miss Amy Rees of Fort Jackson, Miss Cynthia Burress of Fort Benning, Ga.; Miss Jessie Campbell and Mrs. Cecil Strong of Fort Bragg, N. C. Carolyn Louise Camp of Fort Jackson was flower girl.

Cadet Dale J. Crittenberger 2d of West Point was his brother's best man and ushers included Lieut. Col. S. R. Resor of New York, Lieut. Col. Cecil Strong, Fort Bragg; Maj. J. A. McClosky, Fort Bragg; Maj. A. M. Burdett, Atlanta; Maj. W. T. Hamilton, Fort Totten; Lieut. Col. A. S. Low and Lieut. G. W. Williams of Washington and Philip Clayton, brother of the bride, of Fort Jackson.

Following the reception at the Legion Lake Officers Club, Colonel and Mrs. Crittenberger left for Sea Island, Ga., on their wedding trip. They will live at Dorchester House in Washington. Colonel Crittenberger is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, class of 1921, and is an aide to Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall.

New York Cotton

New York, July 20 (AP).—Cotton futures registered losses of 40 cents to $1 a bale in listless trading today. Scattered liquidation was encouraged by favorable crop reports, dullness in the textile market, and uncertainty over the ECA cotton exports for the current quarter.

Additional pressure developed late in the trading, following the Government weekly weather report which traders considered excellent, except for the Oklahoma-Arkansas area where too much rain retarded crop progress. Good yields were reported from areas in Texas where picking operations are already under way. Some Texas crop observers boosted their estimates of production in the Texas south plains to around one million bales compared with 700,000 bales previously.

Light hedging was in evidence in nearby October futures with a good crop movement from the Corpus Christi area of Texas expected by the middle of next week.

Tuohy Named Temporary C. & O. Head

New York, July 20 (AP).—Walter J. Tuohy, vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, today was placed in complete charge of the rail system during the illness of Robert J. Bowman, president.

Tuohy, who lives in Shaker Heights, Ohio, was elected to a new post of first vice president and made a member of the board of directors. As a director he replaced Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust Co., who resigned to become a member of the reorganized board of directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Bowman became ill June 20, and a spokesman for the C. & O. said he was expected to return to his duties "at the end of the summer." The board in announcing Tuohy's appointment said: "His duties as first vice president will include full authority over the operations of the company during any temporary absence of the president, subject to the board and the chairman (Robert R. Young)."

MARY WORTH

YOU MUST NOT SCOLD THIS CHILD! SHE WAS ILL--!
WHO IS TALLINK DIMITRI POPOVA HE CANNOT SCOLDINK HIS GORLS, HUH?--MEBBE I GOT ANOTHER MOMMA ON THE HANDS?
I'M A STRANGER TO THIS GIRL, BUT I SAW HER FAINT A MOMENT AGO FROM WHAT A DOCTOR CALLED MALNUTRITION!
IF YOU'RE THE MANAGER OF THIS BALLET COMPANY AND IF YOU'RE PAYING YOUR DANCERS SO LITTLE THEY CAN'T AFFORD ENOUGH TO EAT, PERHAPS I'D BETTER REPORT YOU TO THE PROPER AUTHORITIES!
HEY!--NOT SO QUICKLY--!

STEVE CANYON

YOU GO ON SHIP, YANKEES!
THET CAPTAIN SHE-SHARK WOULDN'T LEAVE OL' HAP LOOK AFORE, STEVIE... WHUT IS THIS HERE BOAT THEY'RE FIXIN' T' FORCE US AFOUL OF?

GLUP

JOE PALOOKA

HOW AM I GONNA GET CON T'KNOW I'M SEEIN' KNOBBY WALSH? MAYBE IF I CALLED WALTER WINCHELL HE'D RUN IT IN 'IS COLYUM.
LISSUN, GILDA... WHY DON'TCHA TAKE KNOBBY BOWLIN' AT CON'S BOWLIN' ALLEY? THAT'LL BURN CON T'PIECES.

D'YOU KNOW WHAT I'D JUST LOVE... I'D LOVE T'GO BOWLIN'. AN' IT'S SO INEXPENSIVE...

...I HATE T'LET A FELLA SPEND A LOTTA MONEY... I LOVE SIMPLE THINGS.
YOU'RE UNB'LIEVABLE! I TOLE JOE YOU'RE JIST LIKE ANN HOWE. YER SO UNSELFISH... AN' I THOT ALL DAMES WAS SELFISH.
7-21

BARNABY

Really, O'Malley, I didn't get that theater group. To act in your play--
Modest old Gus... Have some pears.
Barnaby!
Grandma's calling me.
7-21
Barnaby, this is Mr. Green, the director of our barn theater--
Mr. O'Malley, my Fairy Godfather, is glad you came.
Eh?
An imaginary Pixie! How delightful! I'll want to hear a lot about him--
You'll hear from Mr. O'Malley all right, Mr. Green.

MICKEY FINN

TOM--I'M NOT GOING TO THE OFFICE TODAY!
NO? WHY NOT? WHERE YOU GOIN'?

Some Small Talk About Politics

NEW YORK—The late Republican leader of New York, Kenneth Simpson, somehow had a dislike for his best vote-getter, Thomas E. Dewey. In 1940, when Dewey made a Western trip in his bid for the presidential nomination, Simpson's opposition to him was clear, "But during that trip," one of his aides reminded the Republican leader, "more than 100,000 people came to see Tom Dewey in one city" . . . "What of it?" Simpson shrugged. "Five times that many tried to crash Rudolph Valentino's funeral."

Jim Farley once conducted the campaign to beat Dewey for the governorship of New York. "I wish I could quote something once said about him by Kenneth Simpson," said Farley. "But, unfortunately, Simpson is dead now and cannot be quoted" . . . "Why not?" asked Mrs. Farley. "After all, people still quote Shakespeare, and he's dead" . . . "Yes, Bess," replied Farley. "But you forget—Will wasn't in politics."

A New York businessman who accepted a part-time Government post in Washington expressed his disillusionment to Justice Ferdinand Pecora. "Actually, there's very little difference between your business career and your political career," said Pecora. "Just remember this: in business, your competitors dig your pitfalls. In politics, you must expect your friends to do it."

President Roosevelt used to tell this story during discussions about the expenditure of large sums of money for national campaigns: A cotton picker told the elder of his congregation that he'd been offered $5 to vote for one local candidate. The elder warned him that it would be dishonest. The next day the cotton picker returned and said that he'd been offered $1 to vote for the other loeal candidate. "Then vote for the $1- candidate," the elder advised. "He must be more honest."

Senator Bilbo used this trick in winning a campaign in which the issue was a proposed dam. The upstream farmers opposed it, for fear that their places would be flooded. The downstream farmers favored the dam. Bilbo's opponent had two sets of campaign pamphlets printed—one for distribution to the farmers upstream, the other for downstream. "We just marched into the campaign headquarters of my opponent," said Bilbo, "grabbed 5000 of his upstream pamphlets and distributed them downstream, and 5000 of his downstream pamphlets and distributed them upstream."

When a group of Hollywood Democrats wanted to defeat Representative Ford in the primary election, they selected Will Rogers, jr., to oppose him. They selected him because he was a liberal, he was a lieutenant in the Army and, above all, he possessed a name which would appeal to the Democratic voters. Rogers agreed to become the candidate, and his backers started to plan the campaign. The first thing they did was order campaign posters, "Vote for Will Rogers, Jr." . . . Rogers protested, insisted that they use his legal name, "William Rogers, Jr."

Babies on Rails

Whenever they can, of course, parents of infants will try to avoid train travel. But this is not always possible and there are a few simple hints that will make such travel happier for baby and parents alike.

One of the first things to think about is the time of travel. The first or the middle of the week finds trains less crowded than on weekends. Attendants will have more time to help out.

Then food — the problem is simple if the baby is nursing. If he is on a formula, it is better to take along boiled water and other ingredients rather than to make up the formula ahead of time. This is especially true if the trip is to be a long one.

And there should be an abundance of diapers since there will be no opportunity to launder them while traveling.

If it is possible to arrange a stop-over with friends, this should be done when the time of travel is more than a day. Rather than relying on using a seat for a bed, it is better to take along the basket or bassinet to which the child is accustomed. It will be more comfortable and far more sanitary.

B-29s as Truth Carriers

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note—Drew Pearson's column today take the form of a letter to the United States Secretary for Air, suggesting a peaceful use for our B-29s in their maneuvers over Germany.)

Stuart Symington
Secretary for Air
Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. Secretary:

Symington

You have now sent 60 giant B-29s to England to maneuver over Germany. This is an important manifestation of American strength and a majority of the American people — including the undersigned—will support you on this. But I should like to make a suggestion as to how you can also use these bombers for a dual purpose.

In other words, while making a demonstration of our latent force, they can also make a demonstration of our latent friendship.

In brief, they can help to tell the Russian people the real truth about the peace-desiring people of the United States.

It may be that I am a terrible bore on the subject, but I am convinced that we must go over the Kremlin's head to the Russian people in order to convince them that the United States — contrary to Moscow propaganda—is composed of people who do not want war, even though they will fight if pushed far enough.

As long as the Russian government has no senate, no congress, and, most important of all, no public opinion to hold the check-rein on the Kremlin, our only commonsense policy is to get to the Russian people ourselves with the truth.

Get to Russian People

When the Moscow radio tells the Russian people that all the great buildings and bridges in the U. S. A. were designed by Russians we can laugh it off. But when the Russian radio describes us as warmongers threatening to invade Russia, then it's an obvious buildup for a war which the Russian people don't want, but which the 14 men in the Kremlin have to justify.

During the war we spent millions of dollars dropping leaflets, cakes of soap, packages of tea over other nations in order to convince them that we were friendly to them as people (though not to their dictators). This expense was fully justified on the ground that it shortened the war and saved lives.

How much more important, and how many more lives could be saved in preventing war in the first place by going over the heads of the Kremlin and getting to the Russian people.

The State Department, of course, is trying to do this in a routine sort of way through its Voice of America. However, radio sets are few in Russia and probably only a fraction of the people ever hear our propaganda.

Messages of Friendship

So here is my suggestion:

The 60 giant B-29s you have sent to Europe will have their effect on the Kremlin. Let's also make them felt to the Russian people—in an entirely different way—by having them drop messages of friendship.

Actually the planes will not fly over Russia, so the messages couldn't be dropped direct. But they will fly a few miles from the border over Germany, and the wind currents are such that small balloons released from the B-29s could float over Russia.

The War Assets Administration informs me that it has half a million small balloons left over from the war, previously used for weather soundings. The Government has been selling these for 37 cents apiece. In my opinion they could be worth about $3700 apiece in good will and in war prevention if they floated down over Russia with hundreds of Russians in the villages scrambling for them and talking about them.

Can you imagine the difficulty the Kremlin would have in explaining away these balloons!

During the war, the Japanese took advantage of the weather currents to float balloons all the way across the Pacific Ocean carrying explosives. They were balloons of death. We can reverse the process with balloons of friendship.

Firms Offer Products

Furthermore, we can reverse the process with no expense to the Government. F. W. Danner of Akron, Ohio, has patriotically offered to print one million copies of a message to the Russian people without charge. In addition, Percy Smith of 42 Products, Ltd., Los Angeles, has written me that his company would be glad to supply bars of soap imprinted with a message. Soap is almost as precious as gold in Russia.

In addition, the Schutter Candy Co. of Chicago has volunteered a million candy bars, while the U. S. Time Corp. (Ingersoll) has said it would contribute a number of Mickey Mouse wrist watches over which the Russians go crazy.

These are just a few of the people who would be glad to come forward and help their country prevent war. It's not new for people to help their country to win a war, but I find that a lot of people also are only too anxious to help their country prevent war.

In other words, these friendship messages could be dropped over Russia with no expense to the Government whatsoever, other than the cost of the gasoline to fly the planes—and you will have to use the same amount of gasoline on maneuvers anyway.

Plenty of Help

One of the surest ways to head off war is to show the Russian people that we, the American people, aren't what the 14 men in the Kremlin say we are.

As long as the Kremlin knows that 180 million Russians will unflinchingly obey the order to march—without congressional debate, without criticism and without knowing anything about the issues—then war can be just around the corner.

I repeat that all sorts of people, including the undersigned, will be glad to help you with this project so that it won't cost the Government a cent. It can't hurt and it may do some good. I hope this suggestion is not presumptuous and that you will let me know what you think of it.

Very sincerely yours,
DREW PEARSON.
